HOROSCOPE

MONDAY, JULY 12.

Astrologers read this as a most unfortunate day. The Venus and Saturn are all in evil aspect.

Men and women are subject to influences that incline them to misunderstandings and dissensions. Both the home and business associations are affected by this planetary sway.

Something like competition and rivalry between the sexes may develop during the coming week, causing sensational incidents to be foreshadowed.

Romances of every sort have a sinister side, for the stars today make for deception and treachery.

The lure of sentiment may be felt by persons of advanced age as well as by the young.

Many marriages of elderly persons are foretold.

As a movement back to the land, owing to some sort of a co-operative scheme, is prophesied.

Tendencies leading toward popular uprisings appear to be emphasized by this position of the stars and riots are foretold.

Stars supposed to rule the teeth may cause much pain during this configuration which is exceedingly bad for nervous conditions.

A small portion as usual as that supplied by a toy supposed to be the medium of prophecy will engage attention during the late summer.

The stars declared that the gregarious instincts of Americans, which are responsible for a growing lack of originality in thought and action, will be changed by new conditions of life now foreseen.

Railway troubles will multiply during this month and accidents may be numerous.

Persons whose birthday it is should avoid all new adventures during the year. Women should be cautious about making new friends.

Children born on this day may have visitations that will bring out their latent powers.

These subjects of Cancer usually love nature and beauty in every form. —Copy right, 1920.

INDIANAPOLIS LIKES

INSTANT ACTION

There has never been anything with the quick action of simple witch-hazel, camphor, hydrosol, etc., as mixed in Levoptik eye wash. One lady with inflamed and watery eyes reports her eyes are bright and clear after using Levoptik a very short time. In another case five applications produced great benefit. We guarantee a small bottle to help ANY CASE, weak, strained or inflamed eyes. Henry J. Hader, Druggist.—Advertisement.

The young people will be at home after the wedding at White Plains, N. Y.

"Do stay. This is such a nice opportunity to have you meet my new sisters."

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

A New Serial of Young Married Life

By ANN LISLE.

CHAPTER LXXXVIII.

Hardly was our transaction concluded when Sheldon Blake came strolling over to the table.

"Hello, Mrs. Jimmie," said he. "Will you let a thirsty and lonely man have coffee with you? Those money-grubbing friends of mine don't understand the joys of a leisurely luncheon."

"Do stay. This is such a nice opportunity to have you meet my new sisters."

I said, and presented him to Virginia and Phoebe.

Then, all in a moment, Sheldon's desire for a "leisurely cup of coffee" was explained. He wanted it—with Virginia. He wanted it with the slightest effort to conceal his tremendous admiration of Mrs. Dalton—and Virginia's indifference, coupled with Phoebe's utter lack of amazement, told me something more to add to my list of "notes" about this almost underdescribable sister-in-law of mine. Virginia had a great deal of charm—of lure—for men. Could that be what had separated her from Pat Dalton?

My speculations were interrupted by the arrival of the check, which Sheldon easily appropriated and signed. After all my agony over the inglorious, missing dollar—after the actual ordeal of asking Virginia for help—came this absurd, yet perfectly proper ending.

And when Virginia rose to leave, Sheldon hastened to put his car at her disposal, and phoned just before 5 to explain almost apologetically that he was detained at the office, but was sending his car and chauffeur around to call for us.

And Virginia's illuminating comment when I came and told her, was:

"How kind. He must really be quite devoted to you and Jim."

"I've never noticed it before," I replied dryly, remembering the time Jim had almost affiliated himself with a gang of thieves down in the street and Sheldie had made no move to stop him.

I knew Jim would want me to accept. But as I turned from the phone, hard on my own "Yes," two doubts came to my mind.

Had Virginia seen through my flimsy little pretext about being careless with money—was she asking us to be her guests at the Rochambeau because she suspected that my proud Jim could hardly afford to entertain any "extras" at dinner? And—did her invitation include Neat?—Copyright, 1920.

Taffeta, Foulard and Satin

And, oh, the pretty and various models! Taffetas are trimmed with lace and flowers, and made with short sleeves. They are made with embroidered overskirts, done in blue yarn. Foulards are delightful in floral patterns, made with accordion plaited ruffles. Satins have accordion skirts and are embroidered in white yarn. And to go back to the taffeta models, there are some trimmed even with borders of pastel organdies. The prices do not do them credit. Come.
