

COX INSISTING ON WAR BARREL REPORT WEEKLY

Wishes Senatorial Committee to Continue in Session During Campaign.

STATE FUNDS INCLUDED

DAYTON, O., July 25.—The democratic campaign will demand that a list of all campaign expenditures as well as contributions be submitted at least weekly to the Kanyon senatorial committee for investigation, Gov. Cox said today.

Gov. Cox has stated he desires the committee to be reconstituted as soon as possible and to continue in session during the campaign.

Plans for this "pitiless publicity" of the big war chests of both parties will be discussed by the nominee today or tomorrow with Senator Pomeroy, Ohio, one of the democratic members of the committee.

Cox indicated he intended to stress the investigation of the campaign expenditures and would demand an inquiry into state as well as national funds.

With campaign costs on the same level as the cost of living, leaders admitted that it may be "hard sledding" for both parties to secure the funds necessary to carry on as extensive a battle as in 1918.

The importance Cox attaches to the campaign funds investigation was indicated by the fact that his conference with Pomeroy practically is the only one he will permit to interfere with the writing of his acceptance speech.

That case was given notification, it has been decided definitely will be the county fair grounds here instead of the Ohio State fair grounds.

A large temporary grandstand will be erected, which, with the pavilion, will give a seating capacity of about 5,000.

Present plans are to have a parade of visiting delegations at 1 o'clock followed by the notification ceremonies.

NO FIREWORKS INDICATED FOR THIS CAMPAIGN

Volters the truth about the Goodrich administration.

This publicity committee consists of L. G. Ellingham of John Wayne, Walter Chambers of Newcastle, J. H. Heller of Decatur, Charles Arnold of Greensburg, and Howard Kosso of Evansville.

Mr. Ellingham is at the head of the Journal-Gazette, in which Edward Hoffman, national publicity committee, is interested.

Mr. Heller is the former manager of the Evansville Courier, which Mr. Hoffman acquired through Henry Marshall, publisher of the Lafayette Journal, a rock-ribbed republican organ.

These three men, forming a majority of the publicity committee, will be in a position to control the efforts of the state committee's publicity agent and it is significant that none of the five papers represented by the committee has been in the past in the line of the Goodrich administration, such as the garbage plant deal, the use of convict labor in the coal fields, the inefficiency of the state highway commission, the governor's parole record or the mismanagement of the Goodrich family with the cost of the state.

ROSSER PROGRAM

Mr. Rosse, as state chairman, has not yet indicated whether he will continue to have the affairs of the state committee in the hands of Burr New who, with this in mind, is doing all the organizing work that is being done, or whether he will find it possible to spend more than one day a week at the state headquarters as the campaign progresses.

The plan to ask each democratic legislator to contribute $1 to the campaign, together with the announcement that W. H. O'Brien will take charge of the Cox administration, indicate that no arrangement has been made with the managers of the national campaign and the state organization for the financing of the Indiana campaign.

There has been a rumor current for some time that the Cox managers would conduct their own organization in Indiana and expect the state organization to stand on its own bottom and nothing has transpired yet to indicate that the rumor was not based on facts.

negro, who gave his address as the Quaker hotel.

However, there was only one license plate bearing the number 9670 and the license on the front of the car was different.

Lieut. Askins of the detective department said that the license had been stolen from a car of a farmer living near the Quaker hotel.

However, C. B. Cox, East Twenty-first street and the Bell railroad, saw the bandaged man and the license of the Standard Oil filling station and he told Sheriff Winkler that the number was 9670.

It was at 10:35 o'clock Sunday night, twenty-four hours after both license plates bearing that number had been accounted for.

The Standard Oil Company, employed by the Standard Oil filling station, found himself covered by a blue coat and revolver last night and heard the order to "hold up your hands or I'll blow you out of you."

A second robber jerked a money satchel from it, and the pair ordered Collins to open the cash drawer.

Collins refused and while the robbers argued he saw his chance and ran from the store.

The two men jumped into a waiting automobile and drove west on Thirtieth street, the driver having remained in the automobile while the two men robbed Collins.

The leader of the trio was one of the three men who robbed the filling station on Saturday night, the car was on Sixteenth street and the Case drug store is the belief of detectives, who say the man has found two new partners.

A fountain pen found in Clifford's pocket and a number of pens found in his room, detectives say, have been identified as stolen from the Case drug store.

The men admit the robbery of the Florence confectionery store, detectives say, but they do not admit having taken a large sum from the cash drawer of the North Capitol avenue filling station as was reported following that robbery.

Earl Clamette, a clerk at the Case drug store, was robbed of $15 and a watch, the cash drawer relieved of $15.

The men took some fountain pens also, which were not discovered until the fountain pen was found in the pocket of one of the suspects.

Richwine, according to the detectives, admitted he was the man who held up and robbed the Claman dairy lunch, 305 North Illinois street, on the morning of July 17, getting about $25; and on the night of July 21, the Tracy dairy lunch, 617 North Illinois street, and the Barbe dairy lunch, 417 North Illinois street, obtaining in the two robberies about $50.

Charles Frances, 341 Massachusetts avenue, told the police he was held up and robbed by a negro at Wabash and Alabama streets, the thief obtaining $58.50.

The man from Zionville, told the police he met a man at the Traction Terminal station who offered to sell him some whisky, and that he accompanied the man to Ohio street and the canal, where he was ordered to buy the whisky from the stranger the man grabbed Payne's purse.

Payne pursued the thief, but he escaped.

RUSS GENERAL WILL BE GIVEN UP TO SOVIETS

British Arrange Nations' Conference on Bolshevik-Polish War.

LONDON, July 25.—The allies will agree to surrender Gen. Baron Wrangel, anti-bolshevik commander in southern Russia, as demanded by the Moscow government, preliminary to a peace conference to be held in London, it was understood here today.

Premier Lloyd George and Premier Millerand today began arrangements for the meeting in London, at which negotiations will be made for a general peace treaty between soviet Russia and the Russian border states.

It is expected that Poland, Finland, Estonia, Lithuania and possibly Roumania will be represented if a general peace conference is held.

The soviets guaranteed Wrangel's personal safety in their message, according to the conference at which all allied nations would be represented for settling the Russian-Polish war.

Bolshevik commanders in the field have begun armistice negotiations with Polish military chiefs, a Moscow wireless message said.

A general conference of military chiefs, to negotiate a formal armistice, will be held at the Polish capital today.

The dispatch indicates that the armistice negotiations will be carried out at Brest-Litovsk.

A Polish armistice delegation consisting of both military and civil officials, has left Warsaw in the direction of Brest-Litovsk, said a private dispatch from the Polish capital today.

This dispatch indicates that the armistice negotiations will be carried out at Brest-Litovsk.

FIGHTING REPORTED

A message from Warsaw declared, despite the armistice preliminaries, fighting was progressing.

The Poles were said to have captured the city of Gradon.

Poles also captured several forts along the river Nieman.

The red armies were said to have suffered heavy casualties in an unsuccessful attempt to cross the Nieman, after which they evacuated Gradon.

The south armies are reported driven out of Rudnia and Chodk-Coski.

The latest prevailed the entente had won the diplomatic battle with the bolsheviks.

The British armistice proposal was characterized as a "realistic" one, in view of the necessity for real world peace.

The proposal was also declared a recognition of the imperativeness of resuming trade with Russia.

MUST EXECUTE

TREATY LIBERALLY.

J. L. Garvin, writing in the Observer, declared despite the walls of experts in Paris there was no strict execution of the Versailles treaty.

In the light of the entente itself, no less than the stability of Europe as a whole, there must be a deliberate and timely revision of the treaty or there will be a collapse of the world.

Garvin declared the French militarist conception of Poland as a strong buffer state was never anything but a fantastic myth of visionary minds.

"But the real danger to the world is Germany," Garvin declared.

"Ludendorff, with his tongue in his cheek, professes extreme gloom, but an German mind would sell their souls to the devil in order to restore national prestige."

"If the Germans were allowed to evade the disarmament terms of the treaty on the grounds of defense against the menace of bolshevism, their real purpose would be to unite with the bolsheviks."

at the same time making a second identification of the clothing found in the trunk.

Mr. Pfister said she had worn the brown coat with black fur collar several times.

Pfister completed the link in the chain of circumstances connecting the Leroy with the murder when he admitted he had moved the Leroy's trunk from his home at 106 Harper avenue early in June.

Up to he paid him, Pfister said Leroy cautioned: "Don't tell any one where you moved us to."

Leroy was employed at the Timken Axle Company in Gary, and Hudson County, Ohio, while in Detroit and Mr. Leroy at the Western Union under the name of Jackson, according to both the Pfisters and Trumbulls.

TRUNK VICTIM NOT PENNSYLVANIA GIRL

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 25.—Police here today said the body of the young woman, who was found in a trunk in New York, was not Miss Katherine Dan, 20, Canonburg, Pa.

FAIL TO IDENTIFY MILLER AS 'LEROY'

CHICAGO, July 25.—The patrolman, L. Trumbull, of the Detroit police department, failed upon his arrival here today to identify Roy Miller, arrested Sunday on a "tip" from Detroit, as "Eugene Leroy," chief suspect in the state murder mystery.

Following his arrival here Patrolman Trumbull was taken to the detective bureau, and Miller was brought before him into the glare of electric light.

"That's not the man," said the Detroit policeman.

"He looks a little like him, but I know Leroy so well that I could not possibly be mistaken."

Information by the Detroit police led Chicago detectives, aided by Patrolman Trumbull, to begin a search of obscure rooming and lodging houses of the city, in efforts to trace "Leroy."

The search was started following Trumbull's failure to identify Miller as the supposed slayer.

Prefers Tiger Cubs to Dolls

Mary Delano and Some of Her Circus Pets.

"Afraid? Not a single bit."

That is what little Mary Delano will answer if you question her regarding the quartet of tiger cubs which she dandles fondly with all the joy of the mistress of a family of dolls.

The pets belong to the "baby section" of the great new Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows.

Mary belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Marco Delano, performers with the big circus. The mothers, for reasons that may well be imagined, have merely a nodding acquaintance.

Mary has named her playmates, "Winston," "Franklin," "Dorothy," and "Ned."

When she strokes their backs they purr like kittens.

Sometimes Mary tries to make the trio sit up in chairs just as her teddy bears do.

But the cubs are much more content when sprawled out on the floor.

Of course, there will come a time when the tiger kittens will be put to work.

The tiger kittens were born in captivity and this will have a tendency to make them less ferocious than their parents when they grow up.

And who can maintain that the influence of little Mary Delano will have its effect, too, on the cubs?

There are many baby animals with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Shows and more than a thousand grown ones.

Included are a number of trained dumb actors such as polar and black bears that skate, dance or ride bicycles; monkeys and dogs that play upon musical instruments and ride bareback; and whole companies of prancing Shetland ponies in war drills.

Of course there are elephants—the greatest number ever toured in America—five troupes of trained seals and many other wonderful dumb actors.

Exhibitions are to be given here Monday, Aug. 9.
