

SERIES WITH MILWAUKEE OPENS, WITH TRIBE HOPEFUL OF CONTINUING WINNING DRIVE

INDIANS STEP OUT INTO ANNEX MORE LAURELS

Hear Praises Sung at Baseball Luncheon, Then Tangle With Brewers.

SCOUTS WATCH HEINLE

Baseball enthusiasm of the explosive brand was on tap in this city today as Jack Hendricks' Indians prepared to make their second-place bid to the home fans.

First on the day's program was a baseball luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce, where the popular athletes heard their praises sung over the festive board by Mayor Jewett, John B. Reynolds, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and others.

Then came the ball game at the West Washington street lot with Jack Egan's Milwaukee Brewers serving in the capacity of the opponent.

Due to the fact that the ball team has established such a remarkable record in coming up from last place to the runner-up position in the pennant fight, the Chamber of Commerce and mayor's office decided to give an official greeting should be given, hence the baseball luncheon.

The fair was to be held at the Chamber of Commerce, starting at 12:15, and was open to all fans. Between bites of food and talk, Hendricks and his players gave speeches by John B. Reynolds and Mayor Jewett. Manager Jack Hendricks told the Indians arranged to do it.

The series opener with the Brewers this afternoon was expected to see a big attendance. With the Indians' record, the Tribesmen must every once in a while support now if they are to continue winning and thereby remain in a position to overtake the leading Sox.

The Milwaukee club will be here four days, after which the mighty Sox come down for a series that is expected to develop into a whizbang event. Already fans are making reservations for seats for the Saturday and Sunday contests and record crowds are promised.

However, the rabid rooters are not going to wait until Sunday to get their fill. They are expected to be in the grandstand today to see the Indians' first game of the series.

The Milwaukee club is not an easy one to defeat by any means and the Indians were not entering the series without a considerable amount of struggle.

The Brewers have a bunch of sluggers and are always dangerous. Hendricks' Indians are not to be taken lightly.

Owner Smith and Manager Hendricks have been through considerable handshaking yesterday as fans continued to shower them with congratulations for the wonderful drive staged by the team. It is expected that the Tribesmen will continue to put forth every effort to keep the Hoosiers up in the pennant hunt.

Around the A. A.

WITH EDDIE ASH

Scouts representing the New York Giants, Detroit Americans, Brooklyn Nationals and Chicago Cubs have made inquiries regarding the qualifications of Catcher Butch Henline, who is hitting better than 300, holding up the Tribe pitchers in fine style and in addition he is a youngster, who is looking for a major league talent.

The Indians will not think of parting with Henline, however, until the A. A. closes.

Catcher Dick Gossett, the reliable veteran, has been bothered with an injury, but in the last few games he has caught and hit in all departments.

Gaw, the new hurler obtained from the Cubs, is anxious to show his stuff and he will be given the chance shortly.

Duke Reddy has plenty of stories to tell the evening gatherings regarding the swing around the circuit.

The Celanese put another dent in the Toledo boys yesterday.

Hap Huhn's south side admirers will be out in full force during the Milwaukee series. They're strong for Hap, but prefer to have him do his hard hitting in other parks.

Eddie Zwilling, partner in the tailoring firm of Debus & Zwilling, feels capable of knocking out a few more long ones.

Wonder what Ollie O'Mara and Cal Crum are thinking about these days?

Clint Rogge was slated to open on the mound against the Brewers this afternoon.

Owner Smith says fear of California earthquakes will not deter him from taking the Indians west to play the coast league champs if his Indians overtake the Saints. "I'll be willing to take 'em to China if they keep this pace up," says the jovial Tribes boss.

Jimmy Smith and Hank Schreiber are going like the wind around the keyhole sack.

One of the outstanding features of the Indians' great comeback has been the hitting of Walter Reub. Walter started the season in a terrible batting slump and now he is up among the league's swatters.

Dave Johnson, groundskeeper, has the park in fine shape for "this pennant winners," he says.

Old Guard of Giant Fans Still Pulls for Sight of Slipping Larry Doyle
NEW YORK, July 27.—The older fans who trek to the Polo grounds to yell like wild Indians for the Giants in victory or defeat viewed with sadness the recent benching of the veteran Larry Doyle and not without reason.

Doyle has been an institution at the Polo grounds for so many years that to see the Giants lose without Smiling Larry holding down the keystone is like seeing the Cardinals minus Hornsby or the Braves with Maranville missing.

There is no doubt that Doyle has about reached the end of his string as a major league star. But that does not detract from the sentimental standpoint, for Doyle has always been popular.

Thus, his relegation to the bench was a drab sight to the older fans, as was the fact that he had been taken from some of the younger generation when he failed to deliver in a pinch.

There is an element that attends games at Polo grounds that is altogether devoid of sentiment. It is the betting element about 300 feet from the field, and more than it does of the feelings of a player who falls to come through when his club is in a desperate holding play may mean a victory.

This element razzed Doyle at every opportunity and though he never attempted to "get back" at his tormentors he could not help hearing their jibes. Doyle's case is just another instance of how feckless fame can be.
