

TEACH GIRLS HOW TO MAKE MODEL WIVES

From All Over State Students Will Gather During Fair.

HOLD BABY CONTEST

Ninety-seven girls are going to have a grand and glorious good time for ten days at the Girls' School of Home Economics, which will be conducted at the state fair grounds in the women's building under the auspices of the state board of agriculture during fair week.

It is a coveted honor and privilege to attend the school, for only one girl from each county in the state has the opportunity.

She is usually selected by the farming organizations of her county, which pay her expenses.

The experimental stage of the school is past and this second school of home economics promises to be a "dead sure" success among the girls.

In the upper floor of the women's building is a large dormitory with 100 individual beds where the girls sleep.

Downstairs there is a large dining room, a kitchen with every modern appliance and an assembly hall.

Here the girls are instructed in preparing good things to eat and are taught correct table service.

There are lessons in homemaking and dressmaking, too.

Tasteful selections of clothing, individual style and harmonious color matching are among the multitude of arts that make home life attractive in which instruction is given.

They have access to a new shows in the fair, and during their leisure hours take sight-seeing trips through the grounds.

There will be many social features.

Then there are numerous social features during the ten days, theater parties, automobile rides through the city, and visits to the parks.

A number of lectures are also given on subjects closely allied to the home.

Mrs. Charles Lindley of Salem is chairman of the school this year.

She will be assisted by Mrs. Lewis Taylor of Indianapolis and Mrs. Charles Sewall of Okauchee.

There will also be a large corps of instructors from Purdue university, who will assist in giving the instructions.

Another big feature in the women's building will be the "better babies" contest, which will be held for the first time this year.

Dr. Ada Schwartz of the Indiana board of health will have general charge of the contest.

There will be prizes for the best babies from the cities, towns and country districts.

Triplets and twins will have their own private contest to which individual babies are not admitted.

The best boy baby and the best girl baby will also be rewarded.

Babies in the contest must be between 12 and 36 months of age, and the entries will be closed Aug. 23.

DR. CLARK WILL MAKE EXAMINATION.

Dr. James Clark of Indianapolis, specialist in babies' diseases, will examine the contestants.

Each examination will be a public demonstration in the glass enclosure of the women's building.

The mother will receive the information of the baby's physical defects if it is any, the kind of food it needs and practical instructions as regards its care.

A chart showing its physical rating will also be given the mother.

On Monday babies from the cities of 10,000 or more population will be examined and judged.

Those from towns of under 10,000 population will be judged Tuesday.

Those from the villages and farms.

Twins and triplets from any part of the state will have their turn Thursday.

On Friday the winners from each contest will be assembled on a big platform in the Coliseum where the prizes will be awarded.

The champion boy and girl babies will receive prizes of $25 each.

The first prize for the twins and triplets is $25 and the second $15.

NEW HOME FOR SECURITIES CO.

99-Year Lease Obtained on Baldwin Block.

The Indianapolis Securities Company has just finished, today, the removal of its offices from the Law building to the Indianapolis Securities building, formerly the Baldwin block, on which it has a ninety-nine-year lease.

The company will occupy the front half of the fifth floor of the building, which has been repainted and redecorated throughout, and has received a number of improvements.

It has been announced that the company will within a few years erect a new building on the site of the present building, which is at the southwest corner of Delaware and Market streets and that all but one or two of the present tenants of the building are on thirty days' rental terms, and that no lease has been given to a tenant of the building for a term of more than two and one-half years.

The Indianapolis Securities Company, which was established in 1912, obtained its lease on the old Baldwin block some months ago.

DARING DASH TO THE SOUTH POLE

Shown in Shackleton Movies, Due at Ohio

This is an actual photograph of a movie "still" showing "The Endurance," the boat used by Sir Ernest Shackleton in his unsuccessful attempt to reach the south pole, trapped in a gigantic ice field.

Shortly after the movie was taken of the boat trapped in the ice field 800 miles from the nearest point of civilization, "The Endurance" was crushed to pieces by the ice.

The authentic movies of the Shackleton dash to the south pole will be shown all next week at the Ohio, starting Sunday.

The first showings of the authentic movies of Sir Ernest Shackleton's attempt to reach the south pole will be made Sunday at the Ohio when "The Bottom of the World" will open an engagement.

The explorer did not rely upon a written journal to record his experiences, but carried with him camera men who recorded his progress toward the south pole on little reels.

These movies have been assembled under the Robertson-Cole banner and now offered for public approval as entertainment.

As the experiences of Sir Ernest are known to have been as thrilling as a novel, it is to be supposed that these movies will make interesting diversion.

The one big thing not to be overlooked is that the pictures are authentic and that there is no "acting" but real experiences only recorded.

The engagement opens Sunday at the Ohio for a week.

Now on view.

The amusement calendar for today is as follows: "Baby Mine" at the Murat, summer vaudeville at the Lyric, the Broadway and the Rialto, "The Slim Princess" at the Circle, "The Valley of Doubt" at the Colonial, "Wires Down" at the Regent, "The Prince Chap" at English, "The Virgin of Stamboul" at Master Smith's, "The Third Woman" at the Ohio and "Let's Be Fashionable" at the Isis.

RYAN WASHBURN AT THE ALHAMBRA.

We are familiar with the plays in which the heroines change from an ugly duckling, but the idea of having a man do the same has not been used as much.

Bryant Washburn uses this plan in "The Sins of St. Anthony," which is his latest picture.

Washburn tries this with great success.

From a bookworm and wall flower he changes to a "man of the world."

We consider this picture one of the best that Washburn has produced in recent months, as it has a touch of reality that makes it very entertaining.

It is comical, but is not a farce. It is a love story.

It is just one of those stories that has a universal appeal; one that is versatile and covers a wide range of thought.

This is just the kind of a photoplay that we like to see Washburn in.

The character that he portrays is one that is nicely fitted to his personality.

"The Sins of St. Anthony" is a likable story.

And it has none of the silliness that is to be objected to in a great number of the late comedies.

It draws a good portrait of a country town, with its country club and its eligible bachelors listed by the matrons of the community.

The invading element of the city is portrayed by Washburn's leading lady, a dancer in a Broadway show.

The action is well sustained, but it has a leisurely moving plot that is pleasing every minute.

The cast is fair, but not nearly as good as Washburn deserves.

Saturday will be the last day for this play at the Alhambra.

'Quack' Tree Doctor Is Practicing Here

A bogus tree surgeon, who is said to have caused the death of several trees in the vicinity of Broadway and Twenty-third street, is being sought by the department of public parks.

The "surgeon" is said to have painted the bodies and trunks of the trees with a solution containing kerosene, which caused the death of the trees.

The park department has not issued a warning against such operations, but asks that the activities of the "surgeon" be reported promptly to that department.

Bill Provides for State Aerial Stations

By the provisions of a bill which today awaits the signature of the governor, any city or county may acquire and maintain aviation fields or suitable landing stations.

The bill was introduced in the lower house by Representative Charles A. Phelps, Allen county, and in the senate was passed under suspension of the rules on motion of Senator William E. Bowers, Allen county.

The bill applies to every part of the state, but is of particular import to the city of Ft. Wayne in its plans to cooperate with the government in the establishing of aerial mail service.

GAS CITY CASE SET FOR OCT. 4

Federal Judge Warns Union
Men About Contracts.

That the United States district attorney may have time to file additional information in the contempt proceedings against twenty-three striking employees of the Illinois Glass Company at Gas City, Ind., Judge A. B. Anderson of the federal court yesterday continued the case against the defendants until Oct. 4.

Attorneys for the strikers made an unsuccessful attempt to have the case dismissed on technicalities, but Judge Anderson said it was plain the temporary restraining orders of the court had been flagrantly violated and the offenders must be punished.

Judge Anderson obtained promises from James Madison and John S. Roberts, strike leaders, that they would remain away from Gas City until after the date of the trial and that they would not engage in further strike activities in that district until the case had been settled.

The men first said they would stay away if ordered to do so by the court. Judge Anderson remarked that they were Americans and he did not issue orders regulating their comings and goings.

It was then that they voluntarily agreed to remain away from Gas City.

Enoch Burgoon, chief of police of Gas City, was severely censured by the court.

Judge Anderson finally told Burgoon that he would be put on probation and if he did not discharge his duties properly he would be put in jail.

Burgoon asked the court what he should do in the future. He was unable to make affidavits against violators.

"Don't ask me," said the court; "if you don't know what your duty is then resign."

"If you do know what your duty is then do it."

"If you don't then you will go to the Marion county jail."

The court declared that the public was losing sympathy with union men who are not willing to abide by their contracts, and said if the coal miners do not quit breaking contracts the public will soon lose its sympathy with collective bargaining.

District Attorney VanNuy said he already had considerable information concerning the violations of the injunction by the strikers and would file it in due time.

CLIMBS RIGHT UP—AND DOWN

Negro Tree-House Worker Routed by Screams.

A man up a tree gave Mrs. Alma K. Joy, 2051 Kenwood avenue, a fright last night and her scream caused the tree climber to climb down in a hurry.

Mrs. Joy telephoned the police, who investigated and found that a negro had climbed a tree in the yard of Mrs. Joy's home with the evident intention of peering into an open window on the second floor of the home of Mrs. Joy's neighbor.

The prowler escaped.

Mrs. W. F. McDermott, apartment 23, the Plaza flats, at Pennsylvania and Pratt streets, discovered a man on the rear porch of her home at 11:30 o'clock last night.

The man was trying to open a window, but when Mrs. McDermott screamed he ran down the stairs and escaped.

William Horton, 327 Hendricks place, today reported to the police that some person had stolen $25 from his coat pocket, the coat being in a locker at the Peoria & Eastern railroad roundhouse.

Praise Harvester Co. Profit-Sharing Plan

CHICAGO, July 30.—Industrial heads here declare the new policy of the International Harvester Company, one of the most comprehensive profit-sharing programs thus far undertaken.

The plan provides that employees yearly will receive 60 per cent of the profits after 7 per cent has been paid on invested capital.

The benefit is open to all employees in the United States and Canada with certain limitations on length of service.

After paying dividends on capital stock last year the company had a balance of $12,000,000.

Wanted Excitement; Started Seven Fires

Robert Alexander, 19, of 1009 Cornell avenue, who confessed in juvenile court to having started seven fires in the neighborhood of Martindale and Columbia avenues, has been sentenced to the Indiana reform school at Pendleton.

Under the cross-examination of Charles Hoover, assistant state fire marshal, the Alexander boy admitted he committed arson to "cause some excitement."

SEEK OWNER OF OLD SKELETON

Boys Have Grewsome Play-thing in 'Cave.'

Wanted—The owner of a lost skeleton.

This is the announcement issued today from police headquarters, following the discovery of the skeleton in a "robber's cave," dug by some boys in the dumping ground south of the Robert W. Long hospital.

Mrs. Oma Dodge, 413 Hanson avenue, saw the boys racing in the dumping area, dragging the skeleton to the dust, and called the police, who rescued the bones from the "cave" and placed it in the city morgue.

Disparaging officials deny ownership of the skeleton.

WOMEN SPEAKERS TO TOUR COUNTRY

Gov. Cox to Have Support of Many Loyal Workers.

NEW YORK, July 30.—An exceptionally strong campaign to capture the women's votes for the democratic national ticket.

Mrs. George Bass, national chairman of the women's bureau of the democratic national committee, announced after a conference with National Chairman George White and former Chairman Homer S. Cummings, at the women's headquarters in the Waldorf-Astoria.

About 100 women speakers are to tour the country for Gov. James M. Cox, but, added Mrs. Bass, there is to be no "buttery special," such as the republicans sent out in 1916 with such unfortunate results from the republican standpoint.

Mrs. Bass will open the campaign with a speech at Chautauque, N. Y., on Aug. 5. She announced that headquarters for the women's work would be opened Monday in the national headquarters in the Grand Central Palace.

"The democratic party," she said, "has a strong position to offer to women voters."

"First, they offer equal partnership in the management of the party, so that the party is now the best medium for the women to express their desires in any field of political endeavor."

"Gov. Cox and I conferred on the issues of the campaign and after I talked with him I made up my mind there was some mistake about this being a republican year."

"In 1916 I predicted that the women's votes would go to President Wilson, and they did, ten out of twelve of the suffrage states going democratic."

"I believe that in 1920 the majority of the women's votes will be for the party that gave the women every plank relating to social welfare that they asked for, and for the party that has given them a candidate of the quality and courage of Gov. Cox."

"I am proud to support him and to lead the women's campaign for him."

Veteran of Lincoln's Volunteers Is Buried

Special to The Times.

NOBLEVILLE, Ind., July 30.—Isaac Rinehart, one of the oldest men in the southeastern part of Hamilton county, was buried here Thursday.

He was 83 years of age, and served four years in the Civil war, being one of the first to enlist when Lincoln called for the first 75,000 volunteers.

Mr. Rinehart was present at and remembered distinctly the mobbing of Fred Douglass near Pendleton just previous to the breaking out of the war.

PEARL RECEIPT CAUSES RIPPLE

$500,000 Importation Largest Since Before World War.

CHICAGO, July 29.—The arrival in New York of $500,000 worth of pearls from overseas caused quite a ripple of excitement among dealers.

It was the largest importation in a long time.

It would have attracted no attention in the days before the war.

In the present world shortage of pearls, however, it was an event of importance.

The demand for pearls, not only in the United States, but throughout the world, is far above the ability of the trade to supply.

This is due to the small output of the Indian ocean fisheries from which the best quality of pearls come.

Few pearls of good size are being found.

For large pearls, the trade has depended for several years on purchases from private sources.

Pearl necklaces sell at from $750 to $125,000.

Importers have to spend several months in the gem markets to find matched pearls for the more expensive strings.

The pearl shortage has turned attention to the fresh-water pearl supply.

These pearls are found in the shells of mussels of rivers of the Mississippi valley.

They are beautiful as gems, but far inferior to oriental pearls.

Too Much Alcohol in Anderson Cider

Special to The Times.

ANDERSON, Ind., July 30.—Fifty barrels of cider, that had been on sale at the soft drink parlors here, are being held by J. M. Montgomery, federal prohibition officer, as a result of a report made by Dr. W. C. Roush, city chemist, that it contained from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 per cent alcohol.

The estimated value of the confiscated goods is $4,000, the wholesale cost being $80 a barrel.

Cider that was found in jugs or bottles in the various drinking places was emptied into the sewer.

All barrel cider was placed under ban and put under government supervision.
