New Albany Shales Show Oil Production

Indiana may find a substitute for the diminishing supply of petroleum and natural gas through the shale investigations of the division of geology of the state department of conservation, was the belief expressed today by conservation officials.

As a result of field work carried on by Dr. W. N. Logan, state geologist, assisted by J. R. Reeves, samples of the New Albany shales collected in Floyd, Seneca and Clark counties prove to be highly carbonaceous and offer considerable promise of oil production.

They have a maximum thickness in Indiana of 125 feet and contain an enormous supply of crude oil, according to Dr. Logan.

The present line of investigation will be carried to other counties in the near future.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

Sunday, Aug. 15, 1920.

Two sinister stars rule today, according to astrology. Saturn and Venus are both in malefic aspect.

They should not join money making schemes, but should give attention to public affairs with wisdom and discretion.

There is a sign that seems to foreshadow for women in politics a tale of real power and they should beware of deception.

Saturn is in a place today most trying to the aged since the way he leads to depress the spirits and to dissipate hope. It is peculiarly unfortunate for old women.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of a busy and exciting year. They should not let money making schemes be beguiled by trusted friends.

Children born on this day may be too fond of pleasure for their own good. These subjects of Virgo should be carefully guided, for they usually have talents that require careful development.—Copyright, 1920.

HOOSIER IS GRADUATED.

Melville O. Burford, Indianapolis, a member of the Methodist Baptist church, is one of the class of seventy which was graduated from the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago Thursday.

SOLDIERS KIND TO WAR MOTHER

Woman Who Aided Fighters Gets Marked Attention.

Mrs. Anna Steinbaugh, 618 West Forty-first street, known to more than 100,000 soldiers as "mother," fell when she stepped on a loose board at the First Division circus last night.

Mrs. Steinbaugh fell only a short distance through the bleachers and was bruised and shaken slightly, but the woman who has done so much for the soldiers of the regular army during the twenty-nine years that her husband has served his country as a soldier, found both officers and enlisted men of the First Division are kind.

When the hospital corps men carried Mrs. Steinbaugh to a first aid station they saw the "war mothers" badge pinned on her waist and she received special attention.

Then some one recognized "Mother" Steinbaugh, and a number of officers hurried to the first aid station to learn how seriously she had been injured.

"I came to see the circus of the Fighting First Division," she said, "and no matter how badly I am hurt I am going to see the boys of the Fighting First."

The officers assisted her to one of the best reserved seats in the big enclosure, and Mrs. Steinbaugh watched the soldiers.

She declared it was the best circus she had ever witnessed.

An automobile was provided by the officers to take Mrs. Steinbaugh to her home.

Indiana Young Woman Says There Is No Medicine Like Trutona, and It Should Be Kept in Every Home.

"In my estimation there's no other medicine like Trutona, and I think it should be kept in every home," Mrs. Mary Smith, a well-known Indianapolis housewife, who lives at 139 West McCarty street, recently remarked to the Trutona representative who called upon her.

"I think I had tried everything I heard of or read about in an effort to get relief from constipation and lack of appetite," Mrs. Smith continued. "Sometimes my bowels would go for three or four days without an action, and I never seemed to be gaining weight or eating."

The little I ate caused me much misery. I would suffer bloating and shortness of breath after meals, and there'd be a gas pressure against my heart. Dizzy spells often attacked me, and soon to be hungry all the time. I no longer suffer the former dizzy spells, and my bowels are more regular than they've been since I can remember. In addition to these benefits, my gaining weight rapidly is a bonus."

"I think Trutona should be kept in every home, and I can surely heartily recommend this wonderful medicine to every one who is troubled as I was."

Trutona is sold in Indianapolis at the Hook Chain of Dependable Drug Stores, and at O. W. Brooks' Drug Store, Pennsylvania and Ohio streets, and by all good druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.
