

FIRMS WOULD LOCATE HERE

Chamber of Commerce Active in Giving Industrial Information.

Despite business conditions, an unusual number of inquiries from out of town concerns have come into the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce during the past few days, asking for information on the city and as to the availability of factory sites.

"I do not believe the average business man in Indianapolis realizes how many cases are given particular service by the Bureau of Industry of the Chamber of Commerce during the course of a month," says Myron R. Green, director of the Bureau of Industry.

"During the first six months of this year nearly 300 special cases were handled by our bureau; thirty-one, or nearly 10 per cent, resulted in new industries for Indianapolis.

"We give as much attention to a small concern as we do to a large concern.

"The industrial survey which is now being made is showing us the industries that are needed in this city to balance the work now being done here.

"We are finding many cases where factories are forced to go out of the city to buy raw material or parts, which could be made just as advantageously in Indianapolis.

"During the next six months we will concentrate our efforts to secure for Indianapolis these industries."

WOMAN COPPERS' HISTORY IS OUT

Board of Safety Booklet Ranks Indianapolis Second.

A history of the Indianapolis department of women police has been issued by the board of public safety in the form of a booklet.

It contains all the pictures of Miss Clara Burnside, superintendent of the women police, Miss Mary Egan and the fifteen women who compose the staff.

The department which was organized in June, 1918, under the supervision of Miss Burnside, is second largest in the United States, the larger being that at Washington, D. C.

The major part of the work of the department consists in registering alien women, tracing girls who leave home and cases of shop-lifting and stealing by women.

The other members of the force who have a standing equal to that of a city patrolman are: Mrs. Emma Baker, Mrs. Irene Beyer, Mrs. Anna Buck, Mrs. Mary Cantlon, Mrs. Bertha Ducas, Miss Lillian M. Jaschka, Mrs. Ella Gregoire, Mrs. Isabelle Phillips, Mrs. Margaret Hildebrand, Mrs. Carrie V. Marshall, Mrs. Mary E. Mays, Miss Sadie M. Osborne, Miss Rena Reiser, Miss Verna Sweetman and Mrs. Elizabeth Gillespie.

Ft. Wayne Electric Men Go on Strike

Special to The Times.

FT. WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 18.—Sixty-five electric linemen are on a strike here demanding a 50 per cent increase in wages. The strikers are employees of the Home Telephone Company, the City Light and Power Company and the Indiana Service Corporation.

Heads of the union say the men will not return to work until the increase is granted, while the officials of the companies state the demands are impossible.

Utilities Get Power to Seek More Money

Authority has been granted by the public service commission to the city of Kendallville to issue $70,000 in 6 per cent bonds for the improvement of its municipal electric plant.

A petition has been submitted to the commission by the Noblesville Heat, Light and Power Company for permission to issue $15,000 of second preferred stock.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

A New Serial of Young Married Life

By ANN LITTLE

And for her Jim was conquering the ill temper from which I hadn't been able to win him. He seemed to feel at home with Virginia, and everything I had done for him had the effect of making him act surly and sheepish. I comforted myself with the thought that he wanted to serve me, and so having me wait on him humiliated him and brought on gulks which were used to disguise feelings he might have thought "babyish." Satisfied with my own explanation of Jim's attitude toward his sister, I managed not to let one atom of jealousy creep into my manner toward her. And I tried not to let it upset me when she turned on me with an angry exclamation:

"Anne Harrison, you ought to be ashamed. You haven't even a job on this poor boy's ankle. Haven't you any idea what to do for a sick man?"

"Oh, my poor Jim! Were you suffering without the icebag? We haven't one, but I'll run right down to the corner and get the best they have—and anything else you say, Virginia," I replied meekly—for me.

By the time I returned from the errand on which even Jim's protests could not prevent my going, Dr. Kellogg had arrived. He was a splendid big, gray-bearded man in the kindly zone of the late fifties.

Strength and love and understanding seemed to fill the room and his keen eyes and firm manner foretold knowledge and skill. Rest, a tonic and the icebag were a large part of his prescription and to these he added a sedative for the pain in Jim's ribs, and an injunction that "the lad" mustn't be permitted to worry.

Immediately on his departure Virginia went firmly to the phone, called up the cap factory, asked for the manager and announced that Mr. Harrison would not return to work there and would like his check mailed to him. Then she advanced upon me almost scornfully:

"You might have saved Jim all this suffering, Anne, if you'd just taken the trouble to realize that if he had been fit for such work he might have had a government inspectorship instead of working in this—playhouse cap factory."

"Virginia!" I cried defensively. "I tried to get Jim to resign last night."

"And I resigned for him this morning!" she replied, coldly. "Really, Anne, I don't see how a woman can justify herself for letting a wounded soldier slave to support her—"

"Virginia!" I said. "It was Jim's voice that broke in on us harshly. 'Anne couldn't prevent my taking this position. How dare you accuse her of letting me slave for her! Why that little girl would face poverty—and worse, for me.'"

Virginia's eyes flashed as she turned on me.

RELATES EXPERIENCE OF SOLDIER WHO HAS "FLU"

Homer Lewis, Weakened by Scourge at Camp, is Restored—Wife Tells Facts.

Homer Lewis, one of the Indianapolis men who responded to the war call when it came, did not get a chance to face the Huns "over there," but, nevertheless, he had a struggle with a dread flu, according to his wife.

Lewis is a construction man for the Cusack Company, and lives at 2372 Cornell avenue.

The foe against which he struggled was the scourge influenza, which he contracted at Camp Sherman and which prevented him from going overseas. The battle with the disease left him in weakened condition. He was in a bad shape. When discharged from the army he came back to the job with the Cusack Company that was waiting for him.

Worry over her husband's condition complicated difficulties of Mrs. Lewis, who was subject to nervousness, caused by indigestion of a chronic nature. She says:

"I would become sick at my stomach after eating, and the formation of gas was so great that it frightened me. The pressure would crowd my heart and cause palpitation and severe pains.

"My husband's stomach was also out of order and he was in bad shape on account of the effects of the flu, which he had at Camp Sherman.

"Both of us took Pepsogen and this remedy has made our digestive organs normal again.

"Pepsogen seems to me to be a wonderful tonic, and I sincerely believe it will help others as it has my husband and myself."

To be charitable toward your neighbors brings its own reward. It not only helps others, but gives a happy satisfaction to ourselves. Charity does not mean the giving of money alone, but means to lend a helping hand to anybody who may be in trouble.

If you have been a great sufferer with stomach, kidney and liver ills and have been relieved by Pepsogen, would you not consider it a charitable act to recommend it? If by your recommendation 100 people should regain health or even one, would you not be well satisfied?

It is the great humanitarian spirit that induces people to tell their experiences with Pepsogen. They have been restored to health and they want to spread the good news. They like to tell how they were helped so that others may employ the same means.

Pepsogen has won endorsements from people where it has been introduced. It promotes sound, healthy, refreshing sleep and brings good color to pale cheeks.

SHE CUTS MEN'S HAIR LOTS MORE JOYOUSLY NOW

MRS. STELLA WILDS.

Mrs. Stella Wilds, 656 East New York street, is one of the five women barbers that Indianapolis boasts.

Mrs. Wilds was left a widow seven years ago, and, confronted with the necessity of making her own way in the world upon her husband's death, she took over his barbering business.

This place of plucky enterprise on the part of Mrs. Wilds was all the more commendable in view of the fact that at the time she was not in good health. Regarding her condition she says:

"I had stomach trouble for many years. No medicine seemed to help me. Everything I ate caused formation of gas. I could not drink coffee on account of the heartburn it caused. Eating of fruits would cause distress. I was told I had chronic gastritis, but efforts to eliminate it were unsuccessful until I got Pepsogen."

"Pepsogen has freed me from the stomach trouble with which I suffered so long. I am in better condition than ever, but still continue to take Pepsogen to be sure that I do not relapse. I take the laxative with the tonic."

"I surely recommend Pepsogen to all who have stomach trouble."

Pepsogen may be obtained at Henry J. Huder's drug stores, Washington and Pennsylvania streets, Illinois and Michigan streets, or from any other first-class drug store anywhere.—Adv.

KNOWS WHAT HE WANTS; GETS IT

F. J. Bowers Refuses to Accept Druggist's Substitution—Glads He Was Firm:

F. J. Bowers, who is a mechanic at the Atlas Engine Works of Indianapolis, was so strongly impressed by the statements concerning Pepsogen that he read in the newspapers that he asked his wife to get a bottle of it for him.

The Bowerses reside at 900 East Twenty-second street, and when Mrs. Bowers went to a certain drug store and asked for Pepsogen the clerk, for reasons best known to himself, urged her to take a bottle of something else. Mrs. Bowers permitted herself to be persuaded, she says, but with her husband it was an altogether different matter. He declared that Pepsogen was what he had asked for and that Pepsogen was what he wanted. He absolutely refused to accept a substitute. The substitute bottle went back.

Mr. Bowers got the Pepsogen he wanted and he is glad he did, on account of the beneficial results. "Substitution" is a practice that is frowned upon and no longer has a place in up-to-date stores, and in this case it certainly brought no good to the one who tried to put it over.

Referring to the need for the remedy and the effect of it, Mrs. Bowers says: "My husband had stomach and kidney troubles. His kidneys acted too freely. He had to be careful about what he ate on account of the distress that certain foods would cause. He was bothered by headaches at times."

"Pepsogen has regulated his kidneys and his general condition is much better. "Knowing what Pepsogen has done for my husband I would recommend it to persons having kidney and stomach trouble."

Pepsogen, the new stomach medicine made by the American Drug Co., of Dayton, O., has the gratitude of thousands of people because Pepsogen has given them that kind of richness—"health-wealth"—of which the stomach is the source.

Pepsogen is a natural medicine for sick stomachs and weakened systems through which stomach sickness has spread like a baneful poison.

Pepsogen is delicately adapted to stomach needs and it makes wealth by building health through the stomach, blood and nerves.

COLLEGE AVENUE RESIDENT GIVES CREDIT TO PEPGEN

C. G. Curry, Traveling Salesman, Tries Remedy on the Advice of a Friend

C. G. Curry, who resides at 2337 College avenue, in one of the handsome homes of that fine Indianapolis residence section, has had remarkable benefit from Pepsogen, according to the statement made by his wife.

Mr. Curry is a traveling salesman for a large aluminum goods manufacturing concern, making his headquarters in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Curry says: "My husband suffered with stomach trouble. He was badly constipated. Food caused formation of gas with painful pressure and he was extremely nervous."

"A friend told him how he had been benefited by Pepsogen and my husband tried that remedy. It relieved the formation of gas and he says his stomach feels very much better."

"I am bothered a bit with indigestion and my husband has advised me to take Pepsogen for it, as I need a good tonic anyway."

When digestion is bad the entire system suffers and even the best food can not overcome the difficulty. Getting back to healthy condition of body and mind can be had in many cases by the tonic treatment.

If a tonic is selected it must be a tonic which has a good influence on the entire digestive tract. Many tonics stimulate digestion but do not affect the intestinal tract, or that portion of the body through which the food passes after it leaves the stomach. About three-fourths of the digestion takes place after the food leaves the stomach, therefore, the value of Pepsogen, as a tonic, can be plainly seen, when it is known that this new preparation is designed to relieve the entire intestinal tract, as well as strengthen the action of the kidneys and liver. By stimulating these organs Pepsogen relieves constipation, sallow skin, headaches and "tired feelings" which usually come from disordered condition of these organs.

Pepsogen relieves misery after eating, indigestion,
