

WOMEN WORKING IN CAMPAIGN

Organization Chairman Points Way to Service.

Profferting was cited as one of the many fields for needed legislation in public affairs which vitally affect women by Mrs. Martha Yoh Marston, Marion county democratic organization chairman, in an address to the democratic women of the Fourteenth ward at the home of Heydon Buchanan, Morris and Reiser streets, yesterday afternoon.

Campaign plans outlined by Mrs. Marston met with enthusiastic response from the women who voluntarily expressed the desire to do all the work they can.

TO HOLD WARD AND PRECINCT MEETINGS.

The meeting yesterday afternoon was the initial step toward a series of ward and precinct meetings which Mrs. Marston will arrange in Marion county for the purpose of organizing the women. Mrs. Marston urged that the women hold meetings among themselves in small or large groups, and said that she would send a speaker whenever one is desired.

"There are few things which women come in contact with that are not affected by some form of legislation, and therefore women should have some responsibility in deciding these matters," declared Mrs. Marston in answer to the question that a number of women have said that a woman does not have the time to vote if she manages her home.

WOMAN'S STAND ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Mrs. Marston said that she could not understand why any woman who is intelligent and who is capable of thinking and reasoning should see that such an attitude shows gross ignorance.

A brief outline of the organization of the women in Marion county and throughout the state was made by Mrs. Marston, who said that it is parallel to the men's organization and being closely related to it co-operates with it.

In discussing the work of the women she said that she wants really to know that the women are working.

"The most important part of the organization is not to have a list of all the ward and precinct representatives in my office, but to have reports from the wards and precincts that the women are working, registering and bringing democratic women to the polls, and making all women see the fundamental difference between the two parties," said Mrs. Marston.

Stress was laid on the necessity of registration.

"We want to be ready for the registration so we can have one person on each block who will see that every person of voting age in that block is registered, and so after September we can have a list of those who have not registered and talk to them personally."

WOMEN'S MEETING IN INDIANA.

A number of meetings are being held in different parts of the state this week by democratic women.

Miss Gertrude F. McHugh, Mrs. Alice Foster McCulloch and Miss Julia E. Landers left yesterday afternoon for Princeton to attend the all-day rally to-day and will go to Evansville this evening for the big democratic rally there.

Miss Landers will introduce Miss Char Williams, first vice-chairman of the democratic national committee, who will be the principal woman speaker at Evansville.

There will be an all-day session Friday, Aug. 27, of the women's democratic state committee for the purpose of discussing the state organization and going over the county organizations.

The meeting will be open to district chairmen only.

Mrs. McCulloch will speak at Bedford Saturday afternoon and Mitchell Saturday night on the principals of the democratic party and the purposes of the organization.

Mrs. Hortense Tapp Moore will speak at a democratic rally at Arcadia Friday night, and at a similar rally at Lebanon Saturday night.

Mrs. Mason announced that she will hold a meeting for the women of the Third ward Thursday evening, at the home of Charles C. Cahill, 1141 West Thirty-first street.

There will be an informal discussion among the women of questions relating to the work in that ward, and Mrs. Marston will outline the organization work among the women in this county.

May Parole Officials Convicted of Fraud

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 25.—Horace G. Murphy, former prosecuting attorney of Delaware county, who, with Mayor Rollin H. Bunch and others, was sentenced to the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., for conspiracy to defraud by use of the United States mails, has been recommended for parole, it was learned today.

About a week ago it was announced that ex-Mayor Bunch had been recommended to the pardon board, which was called into special session to act on the cases which are now pending at the whitehouse for the president's approval.

Mrs. Murphy is now visiting at Atlanta and it is understood she is planning to bring Murphy home with her.

PUSS IN BOOTS JR.

By David Cory.

You remember in the last story that a band of fairies came to help Puss and the Prince, who were looking for the Prince's father's kingdom. Well, just as the fairies appeared a great oak tree spread out two of its limbs like a pair of arms, and two of its great roots turned into legs, and the next thing that happened a tremendous great giant stood before them. "What may I do to help you?" asked Giant Oaktree, and then all the little fairies began to sing:

"Help us, giant, great and strong, The Prince has need of you. We are afraid, so lend your aid; Bring back his parents true."

"I will," roared the Giant Oaktree, and after that he stretched forth one of his great arms and pointed to a little hut that was half hidden in the trees.

And then Puss and the Prince, accompanied by the fairies, did as Giant Oaktree told them. And when they looked into the window there sat the Lord and his Lady chained to the wall.

"Now," said Puss, "I will test the magic of my golden feather, and see if it again has the power, well, and if the twinkle of an eye it springs open. And after that he touched the chains that bound the Lord and his Lady, and in a moment they were free.

And then they heard a voice that sounded like the wind amongst the leaves. It was the voice of Giant Oaktree telling them to hasten away, for he could see from his topmost branches the robbers returning.

And then the fairies changed four of their butterflies into horses so that Puss and the Prince, with his parents could ride away swiftly, and in less time than I can tell it to you they were safely out of the forest and on their way home to the castle.

And the Prince was so grateful to Puss that he gave him his purse and after that Puss said good-by and went on his way.

HERE IS THE LATEST MOVIE NEWS

And It Concerns Two Splendid Favorites

There are sure to be some fans who will want this picture for their scrap-books, because it shows the charming profiles of their favorite actors, Alice Joyce and Robert Gordon.

It is seldom indeed that one gets a photograph of both a popular man and woman star.

And it is quite unusual to have Alice Joyce and Robert Gordon appearing in the same picture. Robert Gordon was borrowed for two Vitaphone specials and that is why we find him with Alice Joyce. He plays opposite her in "The Vice of Pools." This photograph shows one of the scenes in the play where Robert finds it particularly hard to tie the formal knot and Alice is helping him out.

The latest news about both players is that Robert has bought himself and wife a home near Ithaca, N. Y., where he has been making pictures recently.

Concerning Alice Joyce, she is to be directed by none other than the famous Mrs. Sydney Drew in the future.

This means that Mrs. Drew has given up her own plans about acting and will confine her work to directing in the future.

The first picture she will direct with Miss Joyce in the lead will be "Cousin Kate."

NO CHANGE IN THE MOVIES FROM YESTERDAY: "Peg O' My Heart" at the Murat; "Tid Bits of 1920" at the Park; "Abe Martin" at English's, and vaudeville at the Lyric, the Broadway and the Hialto.

AT THE MURAT. Peg, with her inimitable brogue, her dog Michael, her fly away red curls and endless stories of "me father," Peg, just as she is enshrined in the hearts of millions of theater goers, is being revived this week at the Murat theater.

The Stuart Walker Players' bill for the week is "Peg O' My Heart," than which there isn't a better play and Mr. Walker has given it a beautiful production.

Beatrice Maude, a Walker favorite of long standing, who rejoined the company only last week, plays Peg just as she should be played.

George Sommes enacts the role of Jerry, who'd be classed as the hero, if Peg herself didn't occupy so much of the spotlight.

Elizabeth Patterson, she's great any place she goes, is Mrs. Chester. Tom Kelly is Alaric, and draws a

5. Notification of the winner by the judges will be made sometime on Wednesday, Sept. 1.

As a special feature for the farewell week of the Stuart Walker company, the management of the popular Massachusetts avenue repertoire company, in conjunction with The Indiana Daily Times, offers a prize of a box to "30 East," Thursday night of next week for the best answer to the following question:

What play presented by the Stuart Walker company this season have you most enjoyed?

First, state the play, then go on and elucidate. Tell why?

Was it the play that intrigued you? Or was it the cast? Be explicit.

When you have penned a hundred words place your effort in an envelope and address it to "The Stuart Walker Best Play Contest," care of dramatic editor, The Indiana Daily Times.

Drop it in the nearest letter box and await developments.

Two judges have been selected to officiate in the contest: Stuart Walker, himself, and Felix T. Bruner, city editor of The Indiana Daily Times.

In order to refresh your memories, below is a list of the thirteen plays already given by the Stuart Walker company this year.

Look them over carefully before you begin to write: "The Miracle Man," "Polly With a Past," "The Storm Bird," "The Show Shop," "The Gypsy Trail," "The Lodger," "Temperamental Heart," "A Very Good Young Man," "A Little Journey," "Peg O' My Heart," "Baby Mine," "Too Many Husbands."

"Goodness me," said Puss to himself, "I must get back to Mother Goose Country. Giant and fairies and robbers are too much for me," and he looked round to see which road he would take. "I will leave it to my horse," he decided, and dropping his reins upon the neck of his snow white steed, Puss let him take his own way, and pretty soon he came to a bridge that spanned a deep river.

"Give me toll," said the man who kept the bridge. So Puss opened the purse which he had just received from the Prince and paid the toll keeper, and then he crossed over, and wasn't he glad to find himself once more in dear old Mother Goose Land, for right in front of him was a post with a signboard on which was written in large letters:

"This is the road to Banbury Cross."

Robert Gordon and Alice Joyce in a very domestic scene from "The Vice of Pools."

Julia McMahon plays the difficult role of Ethel and plays it well, as she does every role she has essayed this season.

Oscar Craik is Brutus, the villain; John Wray is the lawyer; Robert McGonarty, the butler, and Luel Davis, the maid, thus completing a very competent cast.

COUNTY LEVY TO GO TO 33 CENTS

Annual Budget Shows Big Increase From 1919.

With the county budget calling for the appropriation of $1,580,477.50 for next year, as against $1,418,683 this year, the new county tax levy will be approximately increased from nineteen to thirty-three cents, County Auditor Leo K. Fesler estimated today.

Increases in every levy, with the exception of that of the state, Mr. Fesler believes, will bring the tax rates which taxpayers residing in the city must pay to the following figures:

Indianapolis, in Center township, $2.30 on Indianapolis, in Warren township, including Irvington, $2.43 (approximately); Indianapolis, in Washington township, or all that part north of Maple drive, $2.55 (approximately), and Indianapolis, in Wayne township, $2.40 (approximately).

Most of Indianapolis lies in Center township.

The estimated rates here are compared with last year as follows: City, $1.04, against 73 2-10 cents last year; school city, 68 cents against 45 cents; township, 4 9-10 cents against 4 8-10 cents; county, 33 cents against 19 cents, and state, 18 cents, which is the same as last year.

"The higher rate in Warren, Washington and Wayne townships," said Mr. Fesler, "is caused by the building of concrete bridges, for which bonds have been sold."

WASHINGTON. "Washington township alone has issued more than $600,000 worth of road bonds in the last two years."

"Its bond tax for the next year will be at least 27 cents of the $2.55 rate."

"Warren township's road rate will be at least 25 cents of the estimated $2.45."

Mr. Fesler said he believed the total city rates have been boosted above $2 because of the deficits due to the rates established last year by the state board of tax commissioners.

"I predict now a very radical reduction in the tax rate in 1922," he said.

"The rates for the last few years have been: 1916, $2.68; 1917, $2.95; 1918, $2.98, and 1919, $1.60."

"The increase of approximately $182,000 in the county budget this year is made necessary by payments on bonds, increased cost of fuel and supplies for the poor farm, Juliette Asylum, Children's Guardians' Home and Sunnyside Tuberculosis hospital, increased salaries for deputies in the Center township assessor's office and increased cost of supplies for county officials," Mr. Fesler said.

"The estimates of needs for the various county funds for next year may be found in the legal notices of The Times today."

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

After the morning hours this day is uncertain in its planetary influences, astrologers announce.

It is not a favorable day for winning public approval and political candidates should be exceedingly wise and cautious.

There is a sign read as presaging many campaign sensations that will eliminate suddenly. The unexpected is to be a greater menace than usual.

The hours before ten in the morning should be fairly favorable to most lines of business.

Investors will be anxious and there will be runs on banks as well as other signs of financial apprehension.

The prophecy that there would be a tightening of the money market was accompanied, when first made, by the assurance that there would be but a brief stringency.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of a prosperous year, but they must assure success by unusually hard work.

Children born on this day should not assume great responsibilities for they are likely to be temperamental and fond of freedom from any sort of anxiety.
