

SAYS FARMERS TO HAVE VOICE IN GOVERNMENT

McCulloch Promises Them
Place on State and County Boards.

PLEDGES GOOD ROADS

Special to The Times.
JASONVILLE, Ind., Aug. 27.—Dr. Carlton B. McCulloch, the democratic candidate for governor, pledged himself in an address delivered here last night to bring about measures, if elected, that will make farm life more attractive and to give the agriculturist a voice in the settlement of affairs that vitally concern him.

He urged that the farmers have representation on both state and county tax boards and promised to "recognize the rights of small communities property to spend their own money for their own roads."

In speaking of the state board of agriculture the nominee emphatically declared it "should be broadened."

"The very foundation of our prosperity and well being depends upon the farmer," said Mr. McCulloch, "and yet in matters of legislative construction he has been the most neglected."

"Several fundamental ideas should permeate in looking after his welfare."

"First comes the question of an adequate force to operate the farms."

"The high wage of the cities has tempted so many of our young men and women to leave the farms, the comforts, advantages and attractions of city life have proved so alluring, that the shortage of help is not a future, but a very present condition."

"Unless farm life can be made equally attractive, and these young men brought back, we shall be confronted with the gravest economic conditions."

"We shall find unproductive acres that should be adding their quota of grain to the world's markets."

"Tractors and other mechanical implements can not take the place of strong arms and contented minds."

"Therefore, every possible agency that tends to discourage undue migration to the cities must be employed."

"Under this head come good roads, with their provision of easy access to the surrounding towns and their stores and amusements."

"This is entirely apart from the absolute necessity of good roads, and plenty of them, in order that farm products may be marketed promptly, and to the best advantage."

"I shall do all in my power to promote and carry out a comprehensive and carefully planned system of state, county and township roads for these two very essential purposes."

"I shall discourage every attempt to cripple these advancements, and shall recognize the rights of the small communities to properly spend their own money for their own roads."

"The rural school must be brought to the highest state of efficiency."

"These schools have been miserably neglected in the past, and parents naturally have wanted to live where their children can get the best preparation for the battle of life."

"I shall endeavor, therefore, to promote the welfare of these schools in order that all communities may be in close touch with the highest possible educational advantages."

"This means proper school buildings, adequately paid teachers and a school year of sufficient length."

"If these things are carried out I am convinced that we shall have less transient tenants and more owners of farm property, all of which redounds to the good of the nation, of the state and of the individual."

"A great source of loss to the farm is the inadequacy of transportation."

"Perishable products are hung up en route, or are imprisoned on the farms and gardens by this lack."

"It should be the duty of the railroads to secure adequate and equitably distributed rolling stock to handle these products, and for that reason, moreover, the farmer has a very direct pecuniary interest in coal strikes and railroad strikes."

"Therefore, when conferences are held for settlement of such disputes it is only proper that the farmer should be heard and his interests considered."

"This is a step which has not had consideration in the past, and the farmer has been one of the heaviest sufferers."

"A bureau of markets should be established with all the advantages that such a bureau, well equipped, could confer."

"It would operate toward getting better prices for the products of the soil, and at the same time more reasonable prices to the consumer."

"There is no legitimate reason why apples should sell for a dollar a bushel in the orchard, and $4.50 a bushel to the consumer—$3.50 profit is entirely too much to be picked off by the middle men."

"In the marketing of live stock, the farmer again has been at a great disadvantage."

"Certain abuses at the stock yards regarding the prices charged for feed, and detention as to the price and grading of cattle, hogs and poultry have made their marketing a one-sided affair, always to the disadvantage of the seller."

"These matters can be controlled by appropriate legislation, and should be."

"Cold storage warehouses also should receive state legislation, looking toward a provision against manipulation of the markets to the disadvantage at once of the seller, and the ultimate consumer."

"Our federal laws on these subjects are excellent, but our state should extend its help."

"I repeat, the farm is the foundation of national prosperity, and should have the first, rather than the last consideration."

"Most wealth primarily comes of the soil, and the workers thereon are more than worthy of their hire."

"There should be opportunity for collective bargaining in the disposal of their products along lines which have so successfully tried out in the great fruit regions of the west coast, and in the state of New York."

"Opportunities for the purchase of land on favorable terms should be amplified."

"The federal land banks act has done much."

"The joint land banks can do more when released from litigation."

"I pledge myself and the democratic party to do everything possible toward the realization of these and other measures."

"Here surely their interest is vital and more than worthy of such recognition."
