

APPEAL MADE FOR MORE ROOMS

Prompt Response Necessary, Says G. O. P. Committee.

An urgent appeal to the residents of Indianapolis to open their homes for the thousands of visitors who will come here during the week of Sept. 19 to 25 for the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, was again issued today by the executive committee in charge.

Thousands of persons, the committee pointed out, may be without sleeping quarters for the encampment unless a sufficient number of rooms are obtained in private homes.

While the encampment will cover an entire week, most of the visitors will remain only three or four days, it is believed.

"To date, accommodations have been obtained to house approximately 6,000 visitors in private homes," Edward A. Kahn, chairman of the executive committee, said.

"About eight times that number of rooms must be obtained, according to the official figures obtained by the executive committee from persons who were in charge of the encampment in 1919 in Columbus, O."

FREE ACCOMMODATIONS ARE NOT ASKED.

"We are not asking the people of Indianapolis to give these rooms free of charge, although, of course, this is up to the individual," William J. Mooney, a member of the executive committee, said.

"We are asking, however, that where a charge is made the price be reasonable. All of the visitors who will come here will not be veterans of the Civil war, although a large percentage will be," Mr. Mooney continued.

"Many will be women who are members of the organizations affiliated with the Grand Army."

"Many will be the wives and daughters of veterans."

"I feel sure that the people of Indianapolis will fully appreciate the seriousness of the situation. No one wants these people, who are compelled to walk the streets at night during the encampment for want of a place to sleep."

"But that will certainly be the condition unless the present attitude of the citizens of Indianapolis changes."

The executive committee pointed out that with the encampment only three weeks away, there is barely enough time remaining to card index the rooms listed and prepare to assign them to the visitors.

PROMPT RESPONSE WILL AVOID CONFUSION.

If an indescribable state of confusion is to be avoided on the opening day of the encampment, the committee said, the required number of rooms must be obtained within the next ten days.

Efforts to enlist a committee of three women from every church in the city to take an active part in the campaign for rooms were being made today by the housing committee, of which Scott H. Brewer is chairman.

Every pastor in the city will be asked to name a committee of three to five women at the regular services Sunday.

All of the committees will meet next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Baptist church to perfect an organization for making an active canvass for the rooms.

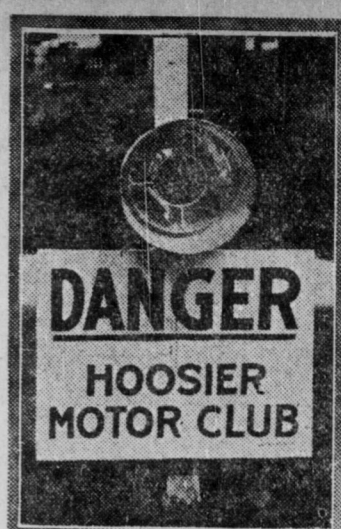

A committee composed of J. Burdette Little, W. H. Remy and Albert Stump is in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

Indianapolis Boy Scouts also will be mobilized next week to complete details for a house-to-house canvass of the city. No efforts will be spared by the housing committee to obtain the required number of rooms in the shortest possible time.

In the day the printed signboard warns motorists of danger and at night a large red reflector sends back the rays of approaching headlights.

The agreement is expected to insure peace in the Illinois field until March 1, 1922, when it expires.

More than 50,000 miners are affected. Frank Farrington, head of the miners, said the men would be satisfied, although their original demands were for $2 a day increase.

It is agreed that during the time the agreement is in effect no effort will be made to modify or change the wage contract.

DEMAND FOR BEST MAKES HIGH COST

People Don't Want the Cheaper Kind, Say Grocers.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Idiosyncrasies of Father Dearborn's diet have scrambled principles of economy and put the yeasts in costs which have produced rising prices, grocers here declared today.

"It used to be a principle of economy to purchase lower quality goods because of the cheap price, but purchasers now believe it is a money-saving habit to buy the best," Sol Westerfield, large dealer here, said.

"They have turned the theory over and I guess maybe they are right—it makes no difference whether it rots in my hands or the consumers' but it is certain the public is not looking for bargains."

"We have to pay a premium for the best grades, and then there is some waste," Westerfield said, explaining that if the poorer grades of food were readily disposed of present maximum prices would be unnecessary.

"We buy fruit and vegetables by the crate and a large percentage of it is unfit to sell our customers," according to George Connors, grocer.

"Each vegetable and piece of fruit must be perfect and therefore our prices have to be some higher to make up the loss."

Grocers try to make a profit of 25 to 30 per cent, M. Baker, proprietor of a large grocery, said. "It costs us from 15 to 20 per cent to do business, leaving us only 5 to 10 per cent margin."

The public's orgy of "first-class buying" is preventing price tumbles, all grocers agreed.

They absolved the producer of blame, saying he faced the same demand they did.

Must Pay Bill to Get Wife's Body and Son

When an undertaker called at the hospital for the body he was told by Dr. T. Beeson that the bill must be paid or a court order secured before the body would be given over, he said.

Chapper protested today he had not sufficient funds to pay the hospital bill.
