

YELLOW FEVER
IS CONQUERED?*Malaria and Hook Worm Also Slated to Go.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Remarkable results attained within the last year in the World War against disease, waged by the Rockefeller Foundation, give definite assurance that yellow fever will be wiped from the globe and the southern part of the United States freed from malaria and hook worm, according to Dr. George E. Vincent, head of the foundation.

The greatest brains in medical science are being mobilized by the foundation in every section of the globe in preparation for next year's campaign, which, according to plans disclosed by Dr. Vincent in an interview, was the most aggressive yet waged in the movement to make the world safe from disease.

So great has been the progress of the fight against yellow fever that the disease is now restricted to a few seed beds, Dr. Vincent announced.

He disclosed that it is more than likely that a means of identifying yellow fever has been found through the inventions and experiments of Dr. Hideo Naguchi, distinguished bacteriologist, connected with the Rockefeller Institute.

The Japanese physician has discovered a vaccine which has proved effective in protecting non-immunes from infection. Experiments conducted in forty Southern towns have demonstrated that the control of hook worm is a simple matter.

Loungers, Beware!

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—When loungers refused to get out of his store, J. C. Rodriguez, delinquent, shut his eyes and fired.

He was held on a charge of murdering John Lybette.

"H hung around and didn't buy anything," said Rodriguez.

HOROSCOPE*"The stars incline, but do not compel."*TUESDAY, OCT. 5.

This is an uncertain day, according to astrology. Although Saturn is in benefic aspect, the Sun and Neptune are adverse.

During this configuration appeals to tradition and to old beliefs should be especially potent, and reactionary forces should apparently prevail.

Labor has the augury of a tremendous test that will be victorious for workers.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful to pay strict attention to business affairs during the coming year.

Children born on this day may have to prepare carefully for their life work, but they should succeed by a system of steady progress.—Copyright, 1920.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES*A New Serial of Young Married Life

By Ann Lisle

CHAPTER LXXIX (Continued).

But the assurance that Father saw through Evvy brightened the rest of my afternoon and carried me on wings to wonderful evening. Jim brought home tickets for the theater, where the stage's greatest show on earth is given tonight. Costly he and Father Andrew and I got the dinner—and then we went off to enjoy the first fruits of my boy's salary. Father was as enthusiastic about the "show" as if he were a poor farmer's boy who had crept under the flap of the circus tent to steal his dearest. And because of his absorption, Jim and I were suddenly gloriously alone in that great theater that seats thousands.

"Jim—do you realize that this is the very first time we've been to the theater together since we're married?" I whispered, slipping my hand into his.

"Yes, honey, I do."

Jim's hand returned the squeeze of mine tenderly, and he whispered that I was a little bristly not to mind coming to this kind of a show for our first theater treat.

"Oh, lad, dear, of course, I don't mind you're doing it for Father Andrew. Now, let's talk about—you still liking the job?"

Irritably Jim withdrew his hand.

"I never said I liked that blooming job," I only said I liked Norrers' some man, and this place of his a fine opening to something worth while—I can see that. Of course I'll stick as long as Terry and the good old hippie need me."

I was irritated in turn.

"I wish you wouldn't speak so lightly that wonderful man."

Jim laughed and patted my hand in the dark.

"To the defense! Well, little pepper, sick 'em again. Changeable little me, you're quicksilver."

Just then the curtain went down, and I consciously changed back to calm quiet, so nothing should mar Father Andrew's delight in his wonderful evening.

After the "show" we took my dear dad to a gay cabaret, where he was amused at the wild efforts to shock him—and shocked by the efforts to amuse. And then in high, good humor we taxied home—like millionaires.

When we got into the elevator the boy handed me a package and a note. "Come by messenger just after you went out, m'am," said he.

"Who's sending my girl presents? Why, it's Virginia's writing," declared Jim, peering over my shoulder with boyish curiosity.

"Maybe it's a present for dad," I declared—but even as I spoke I had a premonition that the package didn't contain a gift.—Copyright, 1920.

reached by local remedies applied to the surface.

One remedy that has given splendid results in the treatment of Rheumatism is S.S.S., the fine old blood remedy that has been sold by druggists for more than fifty years. S.S.S. acts by driving out of the blood the disease germ that causes Rheumatism, thus affording real relief.
