

RED CROSS AGENTS
ARE BEING SOUGHTPlea for Support in Fourth
Roll Call Made.

"The peace time program of the American Red Cross, probably the most far-reaching in the history of this organization, and one that contemplates service benefiting directly or indirectly, every man, woman and child in the United States, cannot be carried out unless the people extend their support by enrolling as members during the fourth roll call."

This message was brought to the attention of Indiana chapter roll call directors at the Claypool Hotel by Dr. S. E. Brewster, of Lake division headquarters, Cleveland.

Speaking on "The Relation of the Fourth Roll Call to the Peace Time Program of the Red Cross," Dr. Brewster sketched the stupendous task faced by the Red Cross, both abroad and in the United States.

Telling of the work of the Home Service Section in handling the cases of 781,282 ex-service men, he emphasized the vastness of this task by declaring that to have shaken the hand of each man as he passed by would have taken 13,021 hours, or three years of 240 working days a year.

"Last year we spent $147 per capita to protect boys from having big choleas and the enormous sum of 29 cents per capita for public health," was one of Dr. Brewster's graphic comparisons. He then added: "But the great American Red Cross is going to help change that disgraceful record."

H. B. Dickson, division roll call director, outlined working methods for the membership drive Nov. 11 to 23, and suggested modes of procedure for various conditions to be met by the chapters.

Mrs. Harrison Ewing, head of the Junior Red Cross department in the Lake Division, told of the remarkable growth of the Junior Red Cross since it entered on an era of international usefulness in 1917.

The chapter representatives displayed keen interest in Mrs. Ewing's portrayal of the part the Junior Red Cross is performing in cooperating with the United States Bureau of Education in the promotion of instruction in civics in the schools.

Mrs. Ruth Mougey Worrell, author of "The Red Cross of Peace," the program to be produced all over the country during the membership enrollment period, impressed on the directors the vital role the program will play in explaining the transition of the Red Cross from a wartime to a peace basis.

The Indianapolis conference was the first of three called for the States constituting the Lake Division—Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky.

MCCRAY BUSY
FIXING HIS WAR
BOND RECORD

tax returns for the year commencing March 1, 1919, that he returned to the assessor of Jefferson Township, Newton County, Ind., in answer to the question "How many government bonds did you purchase during the war," that his answer was $18,000.

"This affidavit is made to correct the records which the assessor inadvertently recorded on the assessor's sheet as $18,000. Witness my hand and seal, this 15th day of June, 1920."

(Signed) WARREN T. MCCRAY.

"Subscribed and sworn to before me, a notary public, in and for said county and State, this 15th day of June, 1920."

WILLIAM E. TOWERS,
Notary Public.

Newton County residents familiar with the facts point out that while the assessor's sheet contains the question "value of Government bonds," Mr. McCray's affidavit sets out that he answers to a question asking "how many Government bonds did you purchase during the war?"

ASSESSOR COMES INTO LIMELIGHT.

Nothing more was done with the record until the present campaign swung into full tilt, and then the assessor, who is charged with having made the false entry, was called upon to file an affidavit.

On Sept. 21, 1920, the assessor of Kentland Township, Charles W. McClain, filed the following affidavit, which was pasted on McCray's return of more than eighteen months before.

"State of Indiana, Newton County, ss: I, Charles W. McClain, being duly sworn upon his oath, states that he is the regularly elected and acting assessor of Newton County, said county and for the town of Kentland, which is located in said township, and that his attention has been called to the assessment of Warren T. McCray for the year 1919, in said towns of Kentland, and to the error which was made by said assessor in the assessment sheet of said McCray for the year 1919.

"Affiant states that he called upon said Warren T. McCray in his official capacity as assessor and proceeded to make out the assessment sheet for 1919, by asking the necessary question of Mr. McCray and from his answers, making the assessment sheet."

"Affiant states that in answer to the amount of Liberty bonds said McCray owned on March 1, 1919, McCray told said affiant that he owned Liberty bonds to the amount of $18,000, and that affiant, in writing in said amount on said assessment sheet, erroneously wrote in said assessment sheet, the amount of $18,000.00, instead of the amount of $18,000.00, which said McCray at the time said he owned."

"That said Warren T. McCray owned Liberty bonds on March 1, 1919, to the amount of $18,000.00, according to the statement made by said Warren T. McCray to this affiant, as assessor as afore-said."

"That affiant wrote in the assessment sheet of said Warren T. McCray, for said year 1919, by error, that said McCray owned Liberty bonds on March 1, 1919, to the amount of $18,000.00."

"Affiant states, that when his attention was called to the error he went to the office of the auditor of Newton County, Indiana, for the purpose of making the correction in said assessment sheet and upon examination found that the correction had already been made."

(Signed) CHARLES W. MCCLAIN.

"Subscribed and sworn to before me this 21st day of September, 1920."

"R. R. CUMMINGS,
Notary Public."

It is noted here that while McCray said in his sworn statement that he was replying to the question, "How many Government bonds did you purchase during the war?" that the assessor in his affidavit said "that in answer to the amount of Liberty bonds said McCray owned on March 1, 1919, Mr. McCray told affiant that he owned Liberty bonds to the amount of $18,000."

Probably the attempt to correct Mr. McCray's Liberty bond record on the eve of a political campaign would not have caused so much comment here had it not been for the fact that the Discount and Deposit Bank of Kentland, of which Mr. McCray is president, trailed the other Newton County banks in responding to the Government's financial appeals during the war.

Figures published by the Seventh Federal Reserve Bank district show that when the Government was preparing to inaugurate the third Liberty loan drive the Discount and Deposit Bank subscribed to only $2,000 worth of treasury certificates of indebtedness.

McCRAY BANK LOW BUYER.

The bank took $1,000 worth of the issue on Feb. 27, 1918, and another thousand on April 22, 1918.

At the same time the Kent State Bank, McCray's financial competitor in Kentland, took $20,000 worth of the certificates.

Other banks in Newton County were liberal subscribers to the same issue, according to the Federal Reserve report.

The first National Bank of Goodland took $10,000 of the issue; the State Trust and Savings Bank of Goodland, $5,000; the Citizens State Bank of Morocco, $3,000; the Farmers' State Bank of Morocco, $2,500, and the bank of Mt. AY, $3,000.

At the time of the third drive the banks were hard pressed at times for available money, as the Government demanded the actual money.

In the fifth and last Liberty loan crusade, however, the banks taking treasury certificates of indebtedness simply put up their subscriptions as collateral to the Government.

On this drive, months after the war was ended, the Discount and Deposit Bank, outdistanced all other institutions in Newton County, taking $105,000 of the issue.

Limberlost Cabin Makes Ideal Home

Miss Catherine Vincent writes her father, Judge Vincent Clifford of Superior Court, Room 4, that she is living in the famous Limberlost cabin at Geneva, which has been made famous by Gene Stratton Porter.

Miss Clifford is principal of the schools at Geneva and she writes that the cabin makes an ideal place for school teachers to live.

Just as she prepares herself for it, so will most favorable conditions prevail when her child is born.

Police Say Auto Jam
Revealed 'White Mule'

When William Scholler, 241 East Minnesota street, driving an automobile at Meridian and Vermont streets, collided with another automobile last night he was arrested on the charge of operating a blind tiger and speeding, but another man who was riding in his car disappeared, it is said, immediately following the accident.

The police say they found a bottle of "white mule" whiskey and three sacks of corn mash in Scholler's automobile.
