

REGISTRATION CHARGES STILL IN PIGEONHOLE

Prosecutor Adams Shies at Sifting Pre-election Allegations.

VOTERS UNPROTECTED

Failure of Prosecutor Adams to conduct a grand jury investigation of charges made by Democratic County Chairman Reginald Sullivan in a sworn petition in a mandatory proceeding to obtain free access to the registration books that there is a large number of fraudulent registrations in this city and county, leaves the voters unprotected as far as the prosecutor's office is concerned.

It is a matter of record in Superior Court, Room 5, that Chairman Sullivan, in his petition for a mandate to compel County Auditor Leo K. Essler to permit him and his representatives to examine the records of the first registration, stated under oath that he believed and charges the fact to be that in instances too numerous to here set out that "many of the applications for registration now in the hands of the defendant (Essler) are false and fraudulent."

Judge T. J. Moll saw fit to issue a mandatory order on the request of the Democratic County Chairman who deems access to the registration blanks in an effort to detect the alleged fraudulent registrations.

SULLIVAN SPECIFICS THE PLACES.

Sullivan, in his application for the mandate swore that he had information that fraudulent registrations exist in the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth precincts of the Third ward; First, Second, Third and Fifth precincts of the Fifth ward; the Seventh, Eighth and Ninth precincts of the Third ward, and Second, Third and Fourth precincts of the Sixth ward.

In face of this accusation made in a court of competent jurisdiction in mandatory matters, Prosecutor Adams has not taken a single step to summon Mr. Sullivan or any others in an attempt to prevent the voting of alleged fraudulent registrations at the coming election.

Neither has Judge James A. Collins of the Criminal Court, who receives all reports of the grand jury, and who, under the law, is charged to direct the grand jury's attention to such matters, ordered the grand jury to investigate the charge, which, if true, would result in fraud and corruption on election day.

Deputy Prosecutor Ralph Jones, who is in charge of the grand jury, has summoned no witnesses, saying he has not been directed to investigate the charge. Sheriff Robert F. Miller has received no summons ordering the appearance of any persons to appear before the grand jury relative to the alleged fraudulent registration.

The statement, sworn to by Chairman Sullivan, stands uncontradicted in the case of Judge Adams.

NOTHING WRONG.

Leo K. Essler, county auditor, and prominently identified in the Republican county organization, and in whose custody the registration records are kept until election day, contends there are no fraudulent registrations.

"There are probably a hundred or two hundred people who have registered in the wrong precincts and that will be submitted to the various chairmen," said Essler.

Continuing, he said, "Every day we are receiving registrations by mail but they are too late and we are notifying them of that fact by mail."

"I will go so far as to say that I will offer $100 reward if the Democratic county chairman can show that a single member of the registration boards in September criminally and fraudulently put illegal registrations on the books."

Chairman Sullivan specifically charged in his petition for a mandate that the law was violated at the first registration in that "voters whose names appeared on the applications did not sign them" and that some applications "purport to be signed by various voters in said precincts but that they are not so signed."

This easily could be done without the registration officials willingly or even knowingly doing it, as hundreds of applications were made out at places other than the registration headquarters.

Not a single step has been taken so far by Prosecutor Adams to determine whether there are fraudulent registrations on the books.

Auditor Essler has never announced that he has made a personal investigation to determine whether there are false registrations in the precincts and wards specifically named by Chairman Sullivan in his mandatory petition.

Building to Provide For Industry

New plant of S. M. Bixby & Co. in course of construction.

Shrubs, flowers and trees in the big front lawn, and large recreation grounds at the rear of the building, are included in the plans to make the new plant of S. M. Bixby & Co. especially attractive.

The building, work on which is progressing rapidly, is of reinforced concrete; is of the latest type of construction, and will be four stories high in addition to the basement, which is of such height above the ground as to give it really an additional story.

BUILDINGS ATTRACTIVE.

In addition to this main building there is a one-story powerhouse and pump-house.

The total length of the building is 375 feet and its width 75 feet. It will be trimmed with mother brown brick, to add to the attractiveness of its appearance, and will have a sixty-foot tower of attractive design, in which there will be a huge tank for an automatic sprinkler system and beneath that, service tanks for the plant.

The various shoe polishes manufactured by the company will be made on the top floor of the building and from there will be piped to the other floors, which will be devoted to packing and shipping departments.

The tract on which the building is being constructed is at Morris and Harding streets, contains sixteen acres, and has two spur tracks from the Belt Railroad.

PLANT SUPPLIES WESTERN TERRITORY.

The present plant of the company is at Brooklyn, N. Y., but the company also has a plant in this city, on Division street, where two of the many polishes of the company are manufactured and shipped to points west of Ohio to the Pacific coast.

It was established in this city, because of the city's central location, during the war, as the company had a contract with the Government for shoe polish for the army.

When the new plant is in operation there will be manufactured in it the same line of products as are manufactured by the company at its Eastern plant, and while the Eastern plant will handle the export business and that of the Atlantic and Pacific Coast States, the Indianapolis plant will supply the remainder of the country.

It is expected that the building will be completed about Jan. 1.

The equipment for it is especially designed for the purpose by the engineering department of the company at the home plant.

OUTGROWTH OF SMALL BEGINNING

The business came from a very small beginning, about sixty years ago. S. M. Bixby was engaged in the retail shoe business in New York and conceived the idea of giving a box of polish with each pair of shoes sold.

At first he bought the polish he gave away and then began to manufacture it in a small way—and the present business is the outgrowth.

ATKINS ESTATE GOES TO HEIRS

Disposition of $500,000 Property Made by Will.

The bulk of the $500,000 estate of the late Mrs. Sarah F. Atkins, widow of E. C. Atkins, founder of the E. C. Atkins & Co., goes to her children and near relatives, according to the will which was made public following the giving of $800,000 bond by Henry C. Atkins, a son, and president of the E. C. Atkins & Co., and Sarah Frances Kackley, a daughter, who were named executors under the terms of the will.

The surties on the bond, which was approved by Judge Mahlon Beach of the Probate Court, were Fred Gardner, 402 South Illinois street; Merritt A. Pottes, 1704 North Pennsylvania street, and William A. Atkins, 402 South Illinois street.

Under the terms of the will, Rev. Addison Parker, a brother, is to receive $3,000 and each of the following grandchildren $200—Frances M. Dean, Mary D. Johnson, Ellis C. Atkins, Keyes W. Atkins, Henry C. Atkins, Sarah Frances Kackley, Thomas R. Kackley, Emma L. Davis and Francis M. Davis.

Carra A. Wadhams is to receive $500 and John Mills of Indianapolis the same amount.

The household furniture goes to the children.

The executors are each to receive $3,000 for their services.

The will bequeaths to Henry C. Atkins, a son, 300 shares of capital stock of the E. C. Atkins & Co.

It is stated that 675 shares each have been previously assigned to Mary Gladling, a daughter; Sarah Frances Kackley and Carra A. Wadhams.

A balance of ninety-two shares is ordered assigned to Thomas R. Kackley, a grandson.

The property at Meridian and Thirtieth streets was bequeathed to the executors.

One-fifth of the remaining estate, after all obligations and assignments are made, goes to the daughter, Emma A. Davis, and the remaining four-fifths to Henry C. Atkins, Mary D. Gladling, Sarah Frances Kackley and Carra A. Wadhams.

The will devotes considerable attention to a number of promissory notes for $75,000 and specifies their settlement.

This is the largest estate to come before the Judge of the Probate Court and the inheritance tax appraiser since the Charles Warren Fairbanks will was probated.

Chicago Breweries Face Confiscation

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Seventy-five breweries and 4,000 saloons here face confiscation when their case comes up before Federal Judge Landis, according to Internal Revenue Collector Harry W. Mager today.

Mager declared the breweries manufactured 3½ per cent beer and that it was sold by the saloons.

In addition, Mager charges the breweries and saloons failed to pay a war tax.

Mager claims, under an old act the Government has the power to seize the property and manage it.

Stage and Screen

THEA TO VAMP IN PERSON AT MURAT.

Theda Bara, the originator of the movie vampire, will vamp in person all next week at the Murat, as her engagement in "The Blue Flame" opens Monday night.

Miss Bara's vehicle for this plunge into the spoken drama is "The Blue Flame," written by George V. Hobart and John Willard, from a play of the same title by Leta Vange Nicholson. Mr. A. H. Woods, whose enterprise is responsible for Miss Bara's temporary desertion of the screen for the spoken drama, is the producer.

"The Blue Flame" will reveal Miss Bara in a familiar role—that of a beautiful young girl with the heart of a vampire.

That Miss Bara brings to the spoken drama the same high quality of art that marked her many successes in pictures has been admitted everywhere she has played.

Naturally she appears to good advantage for the play was written especially for her particular brand of talent and is produced with a disregard of cost, it is said.

That Miss Bara has merited the faith of Mr. Woods in her ability to embellish the speaking stage with her person is clearly established by the record-breaker business that has attended "The Blue Flame" since its production.

HOUSE CHANGES ARE LOOKED FOR

Census Expected to Affect National Presentation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Changes in the character and probably the size of the House of Representatives will follow announcement of results of the 1920 census, according to census bureau officials and Congressmen today.

Some of the anticipated changes are: The size of the House may be increased to nearly 500 members, if the basis of representation is kept as it is now, or it may be decreased by increasing the number of persons each Congressman represents; the number of city Congressmen will be increased and the number of rural Congressmen decreased; some States will gain more members if the basis of representation is unchanged.

If it is unchanged, many States will have fewer members.

The census results made public yesterday show there are 105,988,108 persons in the country, a gain of 13,710,342, or 14.9 per cent since 1910.
