

PUSS IN BOOTS JR.

By David Cory.

Well, after a while, Puss left the poor little cat, whom I told you about in the last story, and followed the path down the mountain side until he came to a small village in the valley.

And as he walked through the streets he saw many strange things. There was one little house that looked like a big bed, for it stood on four legs and had four turrets on each corner above the roof. And when Puss got near enough he saw a sign over the door which read:

"Mr. Sleep Man."

So Puss knocked at the door and when it was opened he saw a young man with a poppy flower in his hand.

"What do you want, little cat?" he asked in a soft voice.

"I have never seen Mr. Sleep. I have met the Giant of the Beanstalk and the Thunder Bird and the good Monk at the Mountain Top, but I wish to see the Man who sends sleep."

"I am he," said the young man, and he waved the poppy flower in the air, and then he said: "Come in." So Puss went inside, and when the Sleep Man walked he made no noise at all, for he had the softest kind of sandals on his feet.

And pretty soon he went over to a cabinet and took out a silver flute, and he then began to play a drowsy tune. And sometimes it sounded like the buzz of bees, and then it sounded like faraway bells.

"Do you like my music?" asked the Sleep Man, and he waved the poppy flower back and forth; oh, so slowly. But Puss Junior didn't answer, for would you believe it, he was fast asleep. So you see what a wonderful charm the Sleep Man had.

Well, the next morning, when Puss woke up, he said goodby and started off again, and after he had gone a little ways, not so very far, he came to a queer little shop. It looked just like a big white egg, for it was shaped like one, you know, and on the top was the figure of a dove. So Puss opened the little door and went inside. There was a long counter and behind it stood three fairies. And behind them were rows and rows of little boxes, and on them were written different things. So Puss looked closer, and the first words he read were these:

"Good Disposition."

And then he read over the other labels: "Trustiness," "Honesty," "Faithfulness," "Sweet Voice," "Blue Eyes," "Yellow Hair."

And then one of the fairies said:

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

TUESDAY, OCT. 12.

Jupiter and Mars are in benefic aspect today, according to astrology. Uranus is strongly adverse. The lunation of this day takes place with the Luminaries in the third house applying to the sextile of Mars. This is read as beneficial to railways and is believed to indicate increased efficiency and better working conditions.

Education is to have a more significant impetus than ever before, owing to some utilitarian movement, it is predicted. Inventors should delay important action today, which is most unfavorable, but they have promise of extraordinary success in the coming year. Persons whose birthday it is have the forecast of an active and successful year. Children born on this day will be alert and resourceful. They are likely to possess splendid judgment. Their Medicine Chest For 20 Years

It is characteristic of folks after they pass the allotted "three score years and ten," to look back over the days that are gone and thoughtfully live them over.

I find myself, at seventy-one, frequently sitting back a quarter of a century, when I myself in the little drug store I owned at Bolivar, Mo., making and selling a vegetable compound to my friends and customers—what was then known only as Dr. Lewis' Medicine for Stomach, Liver and Bowel Complaints.

For many years while I was perfecting my formula I studied and investigated the laxatives and cathartics on the market and became convinced that their main fault was not that they did not act on the bowels, but that their action was too violent and drastic, and upset the system of the user; which was due to the fact that they were not thorough enough in their action, some simply acting on the upper or small intestine, while others would act only on the lower or large intestine, and that they almost invariably produced a habit requiring augmented doses.

I believed that a preparation to produce the best effect must first tone the liver, then act on the stomach and entire alimentary system. If this was accomplished, the medicine would produce a mild, but thorough elimination of the waste without the usual sickening sensations, and make the user feel better at once.

After experimenting with hundreds of different compounds, I at last perfected the formula that is now known as Nature's Remedy, which I truly believe goes further and does more than any laxative on the market today. The thousands of letters from users have convinced me I was right, and I am the user of Nature's Remedy as a family medicine, even though he may have used it for twenty-five years, never has to increase the dose.

My knowledge of medicine and the results of its use in my own family and among my friends, before I ever offered it for sale, caused me to have great faith in Nature's Remedy from the very first.

And now as I find myself nearing the age when I must bow to the inevitable and go to another life, my greatest pleasure is to sit each day and read the letters that each mail brings from people as old or older than I, who tell of having used Nature's Remedy for ten, fifteen and twenty years, and how they and their children and grandchildren have been benefited by it.

It is a comforting thought, my friends, for a man at my age to feel that aside from his own success, one has done something for his fellow man. My greatest satisfaction, my greatest happiness today, is the knowledge that tonight more than one million people will take a Nature's Remedy (N.R. Tablet) and will be better, healthier, happier people for it. I hope you will be one of them.

Won't Tell Her Age to Election Board

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 9.—Because she refused to give her age to the registration board, Mrs. F. Ernest Holman, wife of a prominent citizen, was denied the right to register for the State elections. The incident may be made a test case and the courts called upon to determine if it is necessary for a woman to give her age when enrolling for registration.
