

K. OF C. INSTALLS OFFICERS TONIGHT

Year's Busiest Week Starts With Initiation of Eighty.

Indianapolis Knights of Columbus today opened one of their busy weeks of the year following the initiation eighty members in second and third degree work, and they will install the newly elected officers of the Indianapolis council tonight.

The officers who will be installed are: Grand knight, James B. Mahan; deputy grand knight, Norman S. Patrick; chancellor, Daniel Doyle; advocate, Anthony Klee; recording secretary, Fred A. Jones; financial secretary, Herman Kirkhoff; treasurer, Fred A. Kirchner; warden, Cletus Krueger; inside guard, Theodore Barrett; outside guard, Edward Brady; trustee, Frank A. O'Donnell.

Wednesday night the Knights will begin their four day's "joyfest," to be held at the clubhouse, 1305 North Delaware street, for the benefit of the Gihault Home for Boys.

Architects Announce Season's Program

The following program for meetings of the Architectural League of Indianapolis, to be held at the Herron Art Institute evenings, has been announced.

Tomorrow evening, president's night, with Robert F. Daggett presiding; Nov. 9, "The Painter's Art in Architecture," with William Forsyth in charge, assisted by Antonio Scherer, and with a small exhibition on display; Dec. 14, "Manufacture and Use of Wrought Iron in Architecture," Frederick Wallick in charge, and with an exhibition on display; Jan. 11, "The Sculptor in Architecture," with a representative of a leading terra cotta company in charge; Feb. 8, valentine party, with a costume ball in sculpture court; March 8, open date, subject to be announced later; April 12, "Painting a Picture," as applied to architects' and craftsmen's sketches, with Clifford Wheeler in charge, assisted by Paul Hatley; May 10, election of officers.

List New Books for Young People's Study

The following books were approved by the members of the Board of Young People's Reading Society in a meeting held in the office of the superintendent of public instruction:

GROUP 1.
Grade 2—"Child's Garden of Verses," J. E. Lippincott Company; "Fables and Plans," Macmillan Company; "Holiday in Mother Goose Land," Newson & Co.; "Tell Me a Story," B. B. Johnson & Co.

GROUP 2.
Grade 3—"Child Life in Other Lands," Rand-McNally Company; "Seven Little Sisters," Glan & Co.; "Tales of the Tapes," D. C. Heath & Co.; "America First," Charles Scribner's Sons.

GROUP 3.
Grades 4 and 5—"Wonders of the Jungle," D. C. Heath & Co.; "Stories of the Bible III," Educational Publishing Company; "Burgess Bird Book for Children," Little, Brown & Co.; "The Young Telephone Inventor," W. A. Wilds Company; "History Stories of Other Lands IV," Row, Peterson & Co.

GROUP 4.
Grades 6 and 7—"Winning a Cause," Silver, Burdett & Co.; "Boy Scouts in Glacier Park," W. A. Wilds Company; "Robinhood and His Merry Men," Rand-McNally & Co.; "Girls of Old Glory," The Century Company; "Tom Brown's School Days," Glan & Co.

GROUP 5.
Grades 8 and High School—"Baldwin's Story of Liberty," American Book Company; "Inventions of the Great War," The Century Company; "Polynesian Growers Up," The Page Company; "High Benton," D. Appleton & Co.; "Famous Leaders of Industry," The Page Company; "A Little Maid of Pearly," W. A. Wilds Company.

Father and Two Sons Held as Moonshiners

Special to The Times.
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 11.—Raid made by Federal prohibition officers working from Terre Haute in the vicinity of Centenary and West Clinton, resulted in the arrest of Jesse Runyan and his two sons, Dan and Browne, who were taken to jail at Clinton, where they were released on $1,000 bonds.
Two fifty-gallon stills, a large quantity of bonded whiskey and a stock of home brew were confiscated and destroyed.
Dick Hixon, charged with "boot-legging" whiskey and beer, was arrested at West Clinton and released on $1,500 bond.

BOYS, 13, TRY GUN PLAY FROM AUTO

Shoot at Other Car and at Farm House—Jailed.

Two 13-year-old boys, William Green, 1413 North Warman avenue, and Floyd Bohanan, 1156 King avenue, are held on a charge of vehicle taking, following their arrest Saturday.

The two boys started out Friday afternoon, equipped with one rifle, bound on a hunting trip.

Their way led them to Lovers' Lane and Big Eagle Creek, where they discovered an automobile.

This they took, picking the lock on the machine with a stick, and began to "drift" their ill-fated including Danville, where they said they passed the night in the car.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot

at a license plate on a passing Ford, in which a woman was riding.

He took the dare but missed the plate, the bullet passing through the glass in the rear curtain.

According to the story, one of the boys fired a shot into a farmhouse, the bullet striking the end of a piano.

The resident telephoned his next door neighbor to "head off" the boys.

After the shooting the boys deserted the machine and were caught by two farmers.

The boys were brought to police headquarters, where they told their story.

A GENIUS.
Miss Gushmore—I hear you're the man who invented that cute little Charlie Chaplin subnasal mustache. How did you ever happen to think of it?

Mr. Zitt—It happened this way. I had trouble getting my safety razor under my nose, so I just shaved the rest of my face and let it sprout there.—Houston Post.

On their way back to Indianapolis in the machine, according to the story, what might really be termed the "rough stuff" of their experience began.

While going at a good rate of speed, one of the boys dared the other to shoot