

SAYS INDIANA MINES HAVE NO COAL FOR STATE

The statement of Thomas M. Fitzgerald, president of the Capitol Coal Company that Indiana miners have no coal to sell to Indiana consumers and the statement by Howard Young, counsel for the Indiana Special Coal and Food Commission, that the commission will not attempt to place any legal interpretation regarding its orders, were the outstanding features of the hearing on complaints of coal retailers, wholesalers and operators yesterday in the Senate chamber of the Statehouse by the commission.

J. B. Bunting, president of the Bunting Coal Company of Warsaw, who presented the commission with the first petition for a rehearing following the issuance of the coal orders, was the first coal dealer called by Chairman Eschbach.

All dealers were sworn, a procedure heretofore ignored in hearings by the commission.

Scale books and other data were presented to the commission in Mr. Bunting's request for a modification of order No. 3, as affecting his company.

Delivery expenses to large and small consumers, according to Mr. Bunting, vary to such an extent that he can not operate at a marginal profit of $2.25.

J. H. O'Neill, state examiner, testified regarding the statements of Mr. Bunting and of the records submitted to the commission.

Mr. O'Neill gave figures showing that 1,175 tons of coal has been sold for $10,000 from April 1 to Sept. 1 this year.

The expense of unloading coal amounted to 10 cents a ton; stable expense amounted to about 13 cents a ton; office expense, including salaries, amounted to 45 cents a ton; general expenses, including rent, taxes, insurance, advertising, depreciation, amounted to 12 cents a ton; hauling expenses averaged 65 cents a ton, giving a total handling expense of about $1.49 a ton, he said.

He said his sale loss on the amount of coal given above for the same time was $501.01.

Mr. Fitzgerald included items of cost and expense as his grounds for a modification of order No. 3.

Following his examination by Counsel Howard Young, Mr. Fitzgerald asked what he could do about the sale of coal now under contract.

Mr. Young stated that was a matter for Mr. Fitzgerald's attorneys and that the commission would not undertake to decide it for him.

George Givens & Sons of Cedar Point, operators, asked for a re-classification.

He had failed to give the commission any information that might authorize them to classify him previously to the coal orders and in his hearing asked to be placed in class four, he was told.

SAME REQUEST.

SAME ANSWER.

S. D. Lindsay, Brazil, made the same request of the commission and received the same answer.

A. J. Hansen and C. T. Tolson and other retailers of Linton presented the hauling of coal to large and small consumers and the various methods of hauling, pointing out that the price allowed for coal would not meet the hauling expenses in many instances.

A. J. Morris, representing the Morris, McBride & Hyde Coal Company of Brazil, asked to be classified in the Brazil block class.

The company operates their own mine, which has just started, and in September mined 161 tons of coal, while only sixteen tons were mined during August.

Five days a week average the running time.

Nine coal operators were requested to provide coal to schools, hospitals, individuals and public utilities by Chairman Eschbach of the commission and replies from four operators promised no material results.

The telegrams inquired how much coal the operators would provide for the commission to distribute for emergency purposes.

The messages were sent to Crawford Fairbanks, Terre Haute; William Zeller, Brazil; John T. Oliphant, Oliphant; Johnson Coal Company, Vincennes; Benjamin Rosse, Besse Coal Company, Evansville; H. A. Brattin, A. J. Freeman, Robert J. Smith, Walter Bledsoe & Co., and James H. Person of the Queen Coal and Mining Company, all of Terre Haute.

The replies gave information that the mine output had been contracted for, that the mines had more orders than they could fill and that no coal was available for the Indiana coal and food commission.

Refusal to obey orders of the coal commission are subject to a fine of $5,000 or imprisonment for a year.

Action under this provision will be considered by the commission, if co-operation cannot be obtained any other way, it was stated.

LEGION QUARTERS TO REMAIN HERE

Removal Rumor Is Without Foundations, Says Galbraith.

The American Legion is not contemplating the removal of national headquarters from Indianapolis, and if there is any talk to that effect it is purely local, and did not have its origin from any action of the legion," said Col. Frank W. Galbraith Jr., of Cincinnati, national commander of the American Legion yesterday.

Col. Galbraith is spending the week in Indianapolis at national headquarters, where he is acquainting himself with the new duties given him at the recent convention of the organization in Cleveland.

Colonel Galbraith said the $5,000,000 fund to be given the legion by the Knights of Columbus will be used in the erection of a memorial at Washington, D. C., which will be entirely separate from the administrative side of the legion.

"It will be purely a memorial erected in honor of the soldiers who returned from the war, in memory of those who died in the country's service," he said.

The new commander declared the legion would at all times endeavor to perpetuate the ideals for which it was formed and would work for the removal from office of every official who was found to be disloyal.

I refer to Louis F. Post, Assistant Secretary of Labor.

"We have much evidence now against Post, and we will have more, and we will not discontinue our efforts to have him removed from office until action has been taken by the President."

Colonel Galbraith intimated that if the President takes no action on Post's removal that the case would be taken before the next Congress with the demand that he be impeached.

Colonel Galbraith will remain in the city until the latter part of this week, and will return to the city next week, he said.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 12.—The death of Miss Lina Wright, 31, after several days of illness, said to have been due to drinking whisky more than a week ago, has caused authorities here to become active in an effort to find who was responsible for the young woman's death.

ARMENIAN RELIEF WORKERS MEET

New Plea for American Help Made at Claypool.

Pleas to succor Armenian orphans were made by the speakers at the Indiana Near East Relief State Conference, held in the Palm room of the Claypool Hotel yesterday.

American money is now taking care of 16,000 orphans, while there are 200,000 more wandering over the deserts, it was said at the conference.

Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the national organization, declared there is no hope for "suffering Armenia" if she is deserted by American philanthropy, and that it will be necessary to feed and clothe them another year.

Dr. Isaac M. Yogan, a native of Assyria who was driven across the desert with a party of 80,000 refugees by the Turks, gave an account of the horrible experience of that journey, emphasizing an appeal for Armenian and Syrian relief.

Mrs. Edith V. Hoffman, American Red Cross nurse, who served with the organization in Armenia, gave an account of her experiences in relief work in the refugee camps, telling of the great accomplishments among the children.

"Could all American mothers get one glimpse of some of my returns they would keep their hearts open to all future appeals from the Near East Relief," she said.

A program for the State work was laid out by Clarence D. Royce, State director, and Alonzo E. Wilson formulated a permanent constituency consisting of churches, Sunday schools, women's organizations, business and fraternal organizations and labor organizations.

At the luncheon at the Riley room John H. Holliday presided as chairman, the speakers being Dr. Yogan, Mr. Vickrey, Miss Elizabeth B. Kelly, national secretary, and Senator James E. Watson.

COST SERVICE PLAN OPPOSED BY DR. JAMESON

Dr. Henry Jameson, president of the board of directors of the Indianapolis Street Railway Company, told the board of public works yesterday he has changed his mind and is opposed to the service-at-cost plan, which several months ago he stated was the salvation of the company's financial plight.

He made this statement during a discussion of re-routing of cars in the downtown district.

His change of attitude has resulted from a study of results of the service-at-cost plan in other cities, notably in Boston, where it has brought an increase in fares to 10 cents with only $17,000 more profit than was earned with the 5-cent fare and a loss of the good will of the public, he indicated.

The service-at-cost plan, which has been approved by Mayor Jewett and Corporation Counsel Samuel Ashby, provides that the company shall be permitted to increase its fares to cover anticipated costs of operation and improvements so as to guarantee fixed return on the investment.

SUGGESTS CROSS-TOWN LINE.

When President George Lemaux of the board suggested that since the tracks in Virginia avenue have been laid and service running through that highway with a consequent lessening of street car traffic on South street that it is time to begin consideration of the establishment of a cross-town line running from the end of Virginia avenue through South street to the end of Kentucky avenue, Dr. Jameson said the company stands willing to cooperate with the board at any time.

The board talked over with Dr. Jameson and James Trotter, superintendent of the company, petitions of the West Washington Street Merchants Association and thirty-nine south side residents for re-routing downtown of lines of interest to them and decided to deny both.

The West Washington street merchants asked that the West Michigan, West Tenth and West Washington street cars be run from Capitol avenue and Washington streets south to Maryland street, west to Illinois street, north to Washington street and west to Capitol avenue instead of vice versa as the routing now stands.

WISH SOUTH-SIDE ROUTING.

The south side residents desired that all south side cars running into the business district over Virginia avenue be run through Maryland street to Meridian, north to Washington street and east to Virginia avenue, instead of west in Maryland street, south in Pennsylvania street, west in Georgia street, north in Meridian street and east in Maryland street to Virginia avenue, as at present.

In letters to the petitioners President Lemaux stated it was impossible to grant the demands because the time has come when all the cars cannot be routed so as to touch the corners of Illinois and Washington streets and Meridian and Washington streets.

"Indianapolis has outgrown such an arrangement," Mr. Lemaux said, adding that there should be a general conference of citizens to arrange for an entirely new routing system.

The board received one proposal for the grading, graveling and curbing of Virginia street from Tenth street to the first alley north of Twelfth street from George W. McCray, who bid $3.17 per lineal foot.

Man Shoots Self; Inquest Ordered

Browder S. Morgan, 32, white at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Fannie Shaffer, 2120 Winter avenue, shot himself in the head with a small revolver, but the bullet failed to penetrate the skull, causing only a slight flesh wound.

He was arrested and his case was continued in city court yesterday pending a sanity inquest.
