

MYRTLE STEDMAN HAS HER VIEWS

On the Star System in Vogue in Movies

How can you tell about these movie folk, they are always doing something "different."

Usually it is buying an airplane for their personal use, or dancing with a prince, or adopting regiments, or—but you know the line. Myrtle Stedman, however, has found something which seems absolutely new and unused.

Miss Stedman comes out with the announcement that she does not want to star any more.

Fancy that, a movie actress who does not want to star.

What Miss Stedman prefers is to be featured in all-star productions. She believes that only when all the cast in a production are stars there is an artistic performance. She prefers to be one of many excellent actors in a picture to being a star with a supporting cast of mediocre or worse talent.

Miss Stedman is one of the old favorites in pictures and was long a star with such companies as Artercraft, Vitagraph, and Selig and Pallas.

At present she is playing in Mayflower pictures.

NOMINEE'S NERVE IN WAR RECALLED

Veteran Tells of Experience With Dr. McCulloch.

"Dr. Carlton B. McCulloch was one of the coolest men I ever saw under fire," said C. D. Reitenour of Union City, in discussing some of his experiences overseas while serving with the Democratic candidate for Governor.

Mr. Reitenour, now a student in the Indiana University School of Medicine, was a first-class sergeant in the United States medical corps and was with the doctor from the time the latter entered the service May 23, 1917, until he was mustered out April 17, 1919.

"I have seen him perform operations while shells were dropping about the hospital and while enemy aviators hovered overhead," said Mr. Reitenour.

"Dr. McCulloch was in command of operating team No. 12 attached to the Third French Army at Compiègne when the Germans crashed through the front.

"Although ordered to leave he stuck to his post as long as the stream of wounded men poured in.

"After he had seen the patients safely on board barges he sent away all of his men with the exception of a few who remained with him.

"It was that night that one of the hospitals was destroyed by aerial bombs and Dr. McCulloch had a very close call from a bomb that killed six horses not far from him.

"He stood at his post operating on the wounded soldiers for thirty-six hours at one stretch.

"It was for evacuating the hospital full of wounded men under fire that won for him the Croix de Guerre."

Wasn't One Bit Like Tales of the Sea

BOSTON, Oct. 13.—Life on the briny deep isn't all it's cracked up to be, according to five Greater Boston youths who have just returned to New Bedford after a three months' cruise on the whaling schooner, A. M. Nicholson.

The boys were stricken with homesickness about two months ago, but their plea of "Oh, Mr. Captain, stop the ship; I want to get off and walk," was unavailing.

The adventurous youths, however, returned with plenty of experience and full beards.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

A New Serial of Young Married Life

By Ann Lisle

CHAPTER LXXXIII. (Continued.)

"Listen to me, little girl. When you're reporting a conversation, your memory and your vivid interest in people give every word you repeat a great deal of charm and value. But don't try to figure out what is going on in people's minds—because you're not much of a judge of human nature. That's why I forgive you when you're horrid to my Jeanie."

I tore myself from his lingering arms and sprang to my feet.

"So, I'm no judge of human nature! I didn't make friends with your Terry at once. I didn't recognize the splendid qualities of Anthony Norreys!"

"Sure you did," agreed Jim, complacently. "couldn't miss them if you tried, little innocent. But you fell down on Betty, who's the salt of the earth. And you don't get Jeanie at all."

His superiority hurt. I felt belittled, and I turned away. Here I had been trying to do something big and constructive and helpful for Virginia—and Jim only laughed at me as if I were a cunning kitten, whose antics amused him. And in a moment he seemed to forget that I had once been a successful business woman and that I'd stood by him in his hour of need. If a day or two of success was going to make him assume this patronizing attitude toward me, what could I hope for if he ever really made himself felt in the business world?

"Then you don't care to know what Mr. Dalton said about your sister?" I asked in a tone that I didn't have to struggle very hard to make cold and aloof.

Jim rose and sauntered over to me with a tolerant and pleased air of possession. He put his hand under my chin and tilted my face up for his kiss. Then with a secure air of certainty and leisure, he ran his fingers through my hair.

"Pretty little Miss princess—what vast piece of evidence have you extracted from Pat this day?" he asked, indifferently.

Across my mind there flashed a picture of Pat Dalton leaning across the table and murmuring with an eager note I'd never heard before in his reckless voice:

"Virginia—what does she say about me?"

Jeanie never mentions me.

"I know that," she wouldn't.

I knew that meant something. But if I told Jim in his present mood he would only laugh at me.

"It really doesn't matter what he said. Virginia isn't the least interested in him any more, is she?" I asked, with seeming innocence.

Jim's eyes darkened to green—the remote green that marks the moments of reserve when he goes into himself and will reveal nothing of what he thinks and feels. I couldn't read his eyes.

At last he answered coldly:

"When Jeanie wants to give you her confidence, Anne, she will do so. I suppose."

Doctors Stand Amazed at Power of Bon-Opto to Make Weak Eyes Strong—According to Dr. Lewis

Guarantee to Strengthen Eyesight 50% In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that, according to Dr. Lewis, there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me. A lady who used it says: 'The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses.' Another who used it says: 'I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes which induced severe headaches. I have worn glasses for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me.'"

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two or four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or mist glasses. I can highly recommend it in cases of weak, watery, itching, stinging, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, dust, or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto, referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturer guarantees it to strengthen eyesight to 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by the leading druggists, including the Hook and the Haag Stores.
