Government Office Says Germans Had Bases on Coast.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Premier Lloyd George's charge that the Irish gave aid to the German submarine campaign during the world war was backed up by the Irish office today.

In an official statement issued by the Irish office it is declared that submarine bases were discovered on the Irish coast.

The official statement says: "Just prior to the armistice we announced the discovery of submarine bases on the Irish coast. It was stated that an immense amount of our time was taken up watching the coast."

"After the armistice a great many of these submarine bases were located. 'Care was taken that they should never be used again."

"Not only do we fully endorse and approve Premier Lloyd George's statement, but we are surprised that he did not give stronger proof. Roger Casement was undoubtedly put ashore on the Irish coast from a German submarine."

"A violent battle has been raging in the direction of Nipopol. We drove back the enemy in a southerly direction near Alexandrovsk (Crimean front)."

NEW MOVEMENT AGAINST SOVIET?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—A new military movement against soviet Russia has sprung up on the western Russian frontier, according to Government officials today.

It was reported as being carried on east of present line of the Polish forces and was described as a "white Russian" or anti-Bolshevik movement.

The strength of these "white" forces is estimated at approximately 35,000 men on the southern, or Ukrainian front, and 5,000 on the northern front to the east of Vilna.

Military officials here believed the movement highly important in view of the possibility of it replacing the Polish campaign against soviet Russia.

MOTHER DENIES ANY SETTLEMENT BY LINGENFELTER

financially or somehow," said Mrs. Maple.

Following the refusal of Mrs. Maple to aid in covering up the facts, a lawyer called at her residence one noon asking her to "sign a paper."

"This man said that he was a lawyer for Lingenfelter, and told me that the judge was to believe that Lingenfelter was two years, and if he was allowed to join the navy he would be there for four years," said Mrs. Maple.

Mrs. Glenn Smith of 2225 Langley avenue stated she also heard the confession of Lingenfelter and heard Lingenfelter say:

"I am the lowest type of a man."

Both Mrs. Maple and Mrs. Smith were called before the Marion County grand jury and they answered the summons in person.

The grand jury on two different occasions failed to indict Lingenfelter on any charge.

There was a prearranged plan to induce Lingenfelter of the necessity of standing trial for his abuse of little girls and that in furtherance of this plan there was a conspiracy in direct violation of the law of this State.

The investigations conducted by the prosecutor's office.

First, an attempt was made to bribe witnesses not to testify against Lingenfelter.

Second, an attempt was made to avoid bringing material witnesses before the grand jury.

Third, a successful attempt was made to represent to officers of the United States Navy that Lingenfelter had never been arrested, although he was released from jail only two days before he sought enlistment in the navy.

Fourth, an unsuccessful attempt has been made to cause the parents of the children to believe that the stories told by Lingenfelter, and the confession related by several persons who heard Lingenfelter make it, are insufficient to justify a grand jury in causing him to be brought to trial.

RELATIVE IN JEWETT'S ADMINISTRATION FORCES.

Public interest continues to attach to the reasons for the desperate efforts made to prevent Lingenfelter going to trial.

The fact that Lingenfelter is a close relative of a prominent member of the administration is regarded by many as the explanation of the laxity of officials in handling his case.

Another explanation involving what is declared to be an underground method of "fixing" grand jury cases is current rumor among those who have watched the disposition of cases of men bound over to the grand jury and the success of certain attorneys in defending them.

In spite of all these revelations and regardless of public and personal demands made upon him, Judge James A. Collins of the Criminal Court has so far refused to take any steps toward investigating the law violations that attended Lingenfelter's evasion of justice.

Yet Judge Collins, with a pre-Indianapolis remembrance of two wretched Young Men's Christian Association, still professes to be ardently interested in the welfare of the children of Indianapolis.

EVANGELIST WRITES EDITORIAL.

Letters concerning the Lingenfelter case continue to come to The Times.

The Rev. Chester Birch, an evangelist under the direction of the committee on Evangelism of the Presbyterian faith, writes from Flory, Ind.:

"I have just just gotten hold of clipping from your paper of Oct. 8 and thank you for your bold demand for law enforcement. This has been my program for thirty years over the United States and Canada."

"I am amazed to read of a condition existing in Indianapolis that would call for an article from your pen headed 'To the Mothers of Marion County,' in which you startled me by mentioning the release of a certain abuser of little girls in the face of his confession to several such criminal attempts."

"The article mentioned called for this to you, and at the same time to say I live in Kansas City, Mo., where we are twitted for our lax administration of laws as touching many things, but I do not believe such a thing could happen in our city, and the one in question get away with it, for citizens would be in waiting at the court door, and see to administering a painless remedy, insured to forever prevent further trouble from the person in question."

"Indianapolis has been to me one of the finest cities for homes in the United States. Years ago I was a little boy in Illinois. I loved to go to Indianapolis, and we all spoke of the fine place for a boy and the safe place for girls, and now to hear this, makes my emotions mingle."

Asks Doughboys to Prove They're Alive

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Emil Reding and Herschel McMahon, former doughboys, have been asked by the War Department to prove they are alive.

Both were reported killed in France. Twice letters of sympathy were sent their relatives by President Wilson.

"I can't tell whether I am mad or ready to sob my grief for such conditions. 'Your appeal to mothers is great, but if mothers continue to show indifference to political principals, such as give birth to such heinous doings, we are to continue to hear of just such shocking propaganda as will make any city or county the kindergarten of conditions such as existed in Rome in Nero's days. I am now conducting an evangelistic campaign which takes in Carroll County and our prayers will be for God's hand to guide as his cloud did the children of Israel."

DRY BANS ON HOMES LIFTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The head of every family can make as high as 200 gallons of "non-intoxicating" cider or fruit juices, containing one-half per cent or more of alcohol by volume, when it is exclusively for use within his home, the Internal Revenue Bureau announced today.

The bureau ruled that such cider if fermented to the point where it contains excess of one-half of one per cent alcohol, is not subject to tax.

Likewise fruit juices, if they are within the 200-gallon limit for family use, are free from tax payment.

If more than 200 gallons are made the maker must give bond and pay tax.

If such excess amount is intoxicating, the bureau holds, double the ordinary tax will be collected.

Muncie Man Elected State Realtors Head

Special to The Times.
MUNCIE, Ind., Oct. 15.—Roy M. Friedley, president of the Muncie Real Estate Board, was elected president of the Indiana Real Estate Association at the closing of the annual convention late Thursday.

Lafayette was selected for the next meeting place.

Among the reports of the resolutions committee was a recommendation for the appointment of committees to assist in the endeavor to bring about a change in the present tax system, under which, it is asserted, real estate bears more than a just burden of taxation.

The address of principal interest was that by Dick Miller of Indianapolis, whose subject was "The Business Outlook."

The conditions which are necessary to put the country on the firmest possible footing, he asserted, are the development of foreign trade and the repeal of the excess profit tax law.

SAYS INVESTIGATION IS WELCOMED

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—"The Federal trade commission has had the complete freedom of the Chicago Board of Trade offices for three years," said John R.

MANUF, secretary of the board, today when advised that President Wilson had ordered the commission and the Department of Agriculture to investigate charges of wheat price manipulation here.

"There are many things connected with the grain business," Manuf said, "that the average citizen knows nothing about. For that reason we welcome a real investigation."

ROOSEVELT SURE OF HOOSIER VOTE

Cox's Running Mate Passes Through City.

"Tell them Indiana is going Democratic as sure as fate," said Franklin D. Roosevelt when he came through Indianapolis this morning, en route from Evansville to Noblesville.

"And tell them," he continued, "that I am going to have enough voice left to help it along the rest of the time I am in the State."

"Anyway, I am going to have enough left to last until Nov. 2, and it is going to be good and strong, too."

Mr. Roosevelt, who has been traveling continuously since the early part of August, looks in better condition than the night he spoke at Tomlinson Hall two months ago.

He declared that the Indiana "folks" are a great people, and his welcome has been enthusiastic all over the State.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who has been accompanying her husband the last few weeks, deserves all the credit for his "perkiness," according to those who accompany them.

"Mrs. Roosevelt is the only one who can do anything with her husband," remarked one, "and it is to her credit that he is just as fit as the day he started out, Aug. 10."

Mrs. Roosevelt declared that the reception she received in Indiana was "more than kind."

When asked if she thought Indiana would go Democratic she said that such a question was superfluous.

She remarked that the people were listening with more attention to the campaign speeches and with less demonstration than customary, which she said is an indication that this year the American people are seriously thinking.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt were met at the train by a reception committee of the League of Nations Motor Corps, under the direction of Mrs. Anna Buskirk, chairman, and J. W. Mellon.

The party left for Noblesville by motor at 9 o'clock, where Mr. Roosevelt spoke this morning.

Transportation here was furnished by the League of Nations Motor Corps, under the direction of Mrs. Anna Buskirk, chairman, and J. W. Mellon.

The call is supplemented by a request from Dr. Clarence D. Royce, State director, to throw in something bright—a red ribbon or a girl's green sweater—some article that will take the Armenian's mind off his dark and tragic condition.

WILSON ORDERS WHEAT SIFTING

Charges of Manipulation of Prices to Be Gone Into.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—President Wilson has ordered the Federal trade commission and the Department of Agriculture to make an investigation of the charges of manipulation of wheat prices by the Chicago Board of Trade, preferred by Governor Allen of Kansas, it was announced at the White House today.

The President, through Secretary Tumulty, has asked Governor Allen to forward to the Federal trade commission all evidence he may have to substantiate his charges of unfair practices by wheat dealers, through which the farmers will lose huge sums of money.

Governor Allen, Oct. 5, telegraphed to the President urging that an investigation be undertaken of the practices of dealers on the Chicago Board of Trade, charging unfair practices and competition were being resorted to in order that wheat prices might be manipulated and that through these practices prices were being driven down with a consequent loss of millions of dollars to Kansas farmers.

Secretary Tumulty made public the following letter which he has sent to Governor Allen:

"The President has received your telegram with reference to the wheat situation and he has received a number of others of a similar tenor. He fully recognizes the importance of the question you raise and has requested the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Agriculture to look into the matter at the earliest possible moment with a view to determining what action, if any, can properly be taken."

In the meantime he will appreciate it if you will be good enough to forward to the Federal Trade Commission any information which, in your opinion, tends to indicate a decline in wheat prices due to the unfair practices or competition, or to other artificial practices."
