

FARRAR OWN COMPETITOR ON SCREENS HERE

One is crushed and seeks the end. Another believes in him in the face of the whole world. The third fights like a tiger—fights with the primitive, natural instinct of self preservation.

Miss Farrar, Adelle Blood and Midge Bellamy portray the three women who are concerned in his scheme.

William P. Carleton is the debonaire prior perit who finally meets the fate he so richly deserves.

Montague Love, Frank Losee and Louis Stern complete the cast.

"The Riddle: Woman" certainly possesses a powerful cast.

In the other Farrar movie, which will be on view all week at Mister Smith's, the opera singer has the role of Lady Isabel Channing in "The Flame of the Desert."

In this movie Farrar resorts to murder to protect the character of Lady Channing, who becomes mixed up in a rebellion in Egypt.

Lady Isabel falls desperately in love with a powerful sheik, who is really an Englishman in disguise.

Both of Farrar's roles offer this talented woman wide scope for her dramatic powers.

It is very unusual to have movies of the same star on view at two theaters at the same time.

WANDA IS A VAMP
BUT OF A NEW BRAND.

"Food for Scandal," a story of poverty, love, loyalty and a girl who just couldn't make her sense of humor behave, will be the attraction at the Isis the first half of next week.

Wanda Hawley is starred in the picture.

Her support includes Harrison Ford.

Miss Hawley is cast as a stage favorite who abandons that she might give aid to a poor devil woman of the screen.

The supporting cast includes a large number of film players.

The bill will include the Vanity Fair Girls in "Alas Aladdia."

She decides that the best way to help him would be to provide him with clients, and looking to this end she turns vampire—not with the idea of gratifying her own personal vanity, but to add substantially to the lawyer's meagre fees.

She even hires herself out as a divorce co-respondent and there is a lively mix-up between a couple who think they want a divorce but who don't, and an Italian count who is quite ready to fall in love with every girl he meets.

WILLIAM FARNUM

BOOKED AT REGENT.

William Farnum's latest movie, "Drag Harlan," opens a week's engagement at the Regent Sunday.

The movie is made from a story by Frank L. Packard, and it is said to give Farnum a big chance to show his power as a strong man. Playing opposite Farnum will be Jackie Saunders, who is known as a dare devil woman of the screen.

The supporting cast includes a large number of film players.

The bill will include the Vanity Fair Girls in "Alas Aladdia."

While she is secretary to Isabel Carter at Crowlands, Blondin comes upon the scene, seeking to add another to his several deceived "sweethearts" in Nina, the young Carter daughter.

Richard Carter is master of the home and of a great business, but has so far disqualifed as manager of his family that his wife leaves him for another man with whom she perishes in a motor accident in Italy.

Carter places Harriet at the head of his household, offering an unsentimental marriage to keep her clear of gossip.

Her efforts to protect Nina from Blondin result in the exposure to Richard of her own affair with him.

He sees it in its true light and excuses it, and succeeds eventually in gaining from Harriet a love as genuine as that he gives her.

JUNGLE BEASTS IN TARZAN FILM.

Plenty of real jungle atmosphere is shown in scenes in "The Revenge of Tarzan," which comes to the Ohio theater for a week beginning Sunday.

The tall, thin trees, the dense underbrush, the wild animals—nothing is missing.

The cast, headed by Gene Pollar as "Tarzan" and Karla Schramm, is augmented by such well known animal actors as the L. K. lions, including four cubs who make their screen debut, the famous gorilla, Joe Martin; the big elephant, Charley; fifty white horses, two camels, several other apes and gorillas and five old mules.

Joe Martin is seen in many dramatic and humorous scenes with Tarzan, while Charley not only has big footage in the story, but played an important role in the producing of the feature, having acted as moving van for much of the scenery.

OWEN MOORE HAS COMEDY ROLE.

Owen Moore has a comedy role in "The Poor Simp," which opens Sunday at the Colonial for a week's engagement.

Moore is seen in the role of Melville Carruthers, "the poor simp," a wealthy young man who is in love with Grace Adams.

Despite the fact that he has known her for a long time he never has mustered up courage enough to propose.

He finally decides to make a desperate attempt, however.

After much preliminary rehearsing he starts off to meet his beloved, armed with an enormous bunch of orchids and a Pomeranian pup.

On the way he stops to see a physician friend and obtains a "prescription" which does not exactly agree with him.

He ruins the orchids on the way by plucking the petals to the accompaniment of the formula, "She Loves Me, She Loves Me Not."

By the time he arrives the orchids have been ruined and the pup lost.

The proposal, which follows, is not the success that he had hoped for, and there follow many amusing situations which form the basis for this picture.

"Civilian Clothes"

With Beautiful Martha Mansfield

The thousands of Indianapolis people who saw "Civilian Clothes" last week, pronounced it the greatest picture of its kind ever produced.

The Federation of Indianapolis Public School Teachers asked that it be held over another week for the entertainment of the teachers who will attend the meeting of the State Association.

So great was the interest in it that arrangements were made to hold it over a second week—starting today.

It's a lively comedy-romance about a society girl who married a uniform and later discovered there was a man inside it.
