

BUNGALOW OPEN; FRANK LEWIS IS THE PROPRIETOR

ing: "You get the booze and I'll wait here in the car."

Tom ran across the street and in less than five minutes returned with the whisky. Then the start was made to the bungalow.

The brand of whisky brought by the taxi driver was "Woodland Straight Kentucky Whisky, bottled by Grigler & Grigler, Covington, Ky."

The Government stamp showed that the whisky had been made in the spring of 1914, and bottled in the fall of 1920, which would indicate that the Federal law had been violated by the bringing of the liquor from Kentucky into Indiana.

"Whenever you want whisky," suggested the taxi driver, "just go around Steigmeier's and ask for John Grose, who hangs out around there. He will get it for you."

SAID HE USUALLY WENT TO THE OKLEY CLUB.

The taxi driver from Texas drove north on West street to Sixteenth street, where he stopped, and leaned back, remarking that he was new to Indianapolis and that he had been taking most of his fares out to the Okley Club.

He said he had never been to the bungalow, although he had heard that they were "going big out there."

"Which way do you go from here?" asked Tom.

He was directed to drive north and was told that the road would lead to Brighton boulevard, on which the bungalow is located.

As the car passed the Brighton Beech roadhouse, the big dark building rose ghost-like, a gray monument in the darkness of midnight erected to the crimes of other years.

It was early for the festivities at the bungalow, but a negro was playing a fox trot as the visitor entered and dancing was in progress.

The records, however, do not show that a dance license was issued for the bungalow for that night, but that evidently was not deemed necessary.

The women's police department, under whose supervision dances in public places are supposed to be conducted, was not noticeable by the absence of any representative.

A bottle of cold beer, minus a "kick," was served by a negro woman who was acting as bartender.

The "joy rider" then visited the dance hall.

PLENTY OF ROOM LEFT FOR DANCING.

There were few tables in the place, so that there would be plenty of room for dancing.

Everett ("Shiner") Middaugh, Republican politician, who has been convicted of gaming and boot-legging, and who served the Republican party in the last city election by hauling Judge Pritchard to his speaking dates, was there.

Three white men and three white women were dancing.

"Shiner" was one of these, and he seemed very much at home, as he was wearing what appeared to be a pair of tan house slippers.

Another man sat at a large round table on which were seven small glasses, some empty and some partly filled.

The contents of these glasses did not smell like lemon soda, nor look like coca-cola or C. V.

The dark piano player thumped away at the ivory keys, and the volume of music increased when the visitor laid a silver coin on the piano.

Middaugh appeared worried, and the other dancers, both the men and women, appeared more than worried when they noted the visitor.

"Shiner" said: "You ain't going to write this up are you?"

His breath smelled like the commercial distillery at Terre Haute in the days before the war.

Lacking the assurance that the visitor would put the "soft pedal" on the affair "Shiner" and his friends got into a big automobile and disappeared in the darkness of Brighton boulevard.

The piano quieted for an instant, but as footsteps sounded on the porch of the notorious roadhouse, the music started again.

This time it was the "Blues" that was played.

Another drink of beer without a "kick" was served and this time a negro, who said he was Frank Lewis, was the bartender.

Lewis said he was the proprietor and that he was trying to think of a new name for the place instead of the Bungalow.

He said he always liked the name "Blues," as he had been the proprietor of the "Blues" cafe on Indiana avenue after the police had put Mike Glenn, ex-city detective, out of business some years ago when he attempted to go "wild."

Frank assured the visitor that he was no relation of "Chip" Lewis, who is known as the proprietor of the notorious "Red Onion" roadhouse on Prospect street, east of the city, but said he knew "Chip."

FIVE NEGROES DRIVE UP IN BIG MACHINE.

"Chip" Lewis is a Republican political power among the negroes, and is a professional bondman to whom the Jewett "good government" forces have shown special privileges at police headquarters.

An automobile stopped and there entered three men and two women, all negroes. One of the men was "Chip" Lewis.

While a tall negro with "Chip" explained to the visitor that he was from Peoria, and had come to Indianapolis to see "Mr. Lewis," and that he thought that the negro baseball team here had played a rotten game against a white all-professional aggregation, another negro, all dressed up and wearing a cane, who was with "Chip," appeared carrying a platter on which was a boiled ham.

The man with the cane, Frank Lewis and "Chip" Lewis, stood at one end of the bar and made sandwiches while the thumping of the piano continued in the dance hall.

Two more automobiles, loaded with negroes, reached the bungalow and the visitor said "good bye."

A fight occurred at the bungalow the other night, but no police were in the vicinity and no arrests nor police investigation has been made of the affair by Jewett's "good government" police department.

Following the battle a big, husky taxi-driver appeared in front of Steigmeier's cafe and told of how he was mugged up.

According to other taxi-drivers the man who was mugged up was Jess Stevens, and the trouble was about a woman at the bungalow.

It required the united efforts of five men to whip Jess Stevens, they said. Stevens, however, is said to have suffered a couple of cracked ribs and numerous other injuries.

He is now reported to be looking for the five battlers who mugged him up.

FINDS PLACES WHERE WOMEN 'CHEAT A BIT'

It proved to be "Raisin Jack" whisky with a real kick to it.

The piano was still drumming out dance music as the visitor left the place with an invitation from one of the women to "come and see me, dear boy," ringing in his ears.

Perhaps things are not as they once were on East Court street and throughout the old east end red light district, but there are places where the women say "we are cheating a little bit."

It was in one of these places on Miami street that the visitor was introduced to a woman called Mattie.

Mattie was not selling liquor. The cops were making frequent visits to the place and while she said they never really searched the house, of course, they might happen in at the wrong time.

Mattie was sociable and she seemed happy in spite of having had two visits from the police within twenty-four hours.

She got quite confidential and told of having been robbed.

"Yes, it was about a year ago," said Mattie.

"A certain fellow sneaked $40 out of the dresser drawer in my room, but he left $23. I saw him leave the house and then I went to the room and found I had been touched. Gee, but I was mad. I went to his room and tore up the place."

"But you know I couldn't make a squak to the cops, for I was selling whisky in those days."

"But there is nothing doing in the booze business now. Oh, yes, we are cheating a little bit, but old timer, there is no booze here."

Skin Sufferers Do Not Want Mere Temporary Relief

Of course, if you are content to have only temporary relief from the terrifying itching and burning of flery, flaming skin diseases, then you are satisfied to remain a slave to ointments, lotions and other "local remedies" applied to the surface of the skin. Such form of treatment, however, can make no progress whatever toward ridding you of the discomfort which often becomes a real torture.

But if you desire to free yourself from any form of skin disease, first of all you must realize that any disease must be treated at its source. Real genuine relief from eczema, tetter, scaly eruptions or any other form of skin irritations can not be expected until you free your blood of the germs which cause these disorders. And for this purpose there is no remedy that gives more satisfactory results than S.S.S., the old blood remedy that goes down to the source of every blood disorder and routs out the germs which cause the trouble.

S.S.S. is sold by all druggists. Begin taking it today, and if you will write a complete history of your case, our medical director will give you expert advice without charge. Address: Chief Medical Director, S.S.S. Laboratories, 468 East 9th St., Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.—Advertisement.

HAD NERVOUS BREAK-DOWN

But Health Restored to Texas Lady
Who is Now Well and Strong,
Able to Do All Her Housework and More.

Rosebud, Texas.—Mrs. Annie Lange, of R. F. D. No. 4, this place, writes as follows regarding her experience with Cardui: "Some time ago I had a nervous breakdown of some kind . . . I was very weak, and so nervous. It all seemed to come from . . . trouble, for at . . . I had fainting spells and suffered a great deal, but more from the weak, trembly, no-account feeling than anything else. I knew I needed a tonic, and needed it badly. "I began the use of Cardui, to see if I couldn't get some strength, as I knew of other cases that had been helped by its use. I felt better . . . I soon saw a great improvement, so kept it up. "I used seven bottles of Cardui, and can say the money was well spent, for I grew well and strong. Now able to do all my house work and a great deal of work besides."

If you are rundown, weak, nervous, and suffer from the ailments peculiar to women, it is very likely that Cardui will help you, in the way it has helped thousands of others, during the past 40 years.

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. —Advertisement.

"My Little Girl Had a Severe Cough"
Says Menthio-Laxene
Quickly Relieved Her

MOTHERS! MOTHERS! If only you could know how well and strong your little girl is now, you would not be so worried when your children catch cold—for colds often develop into serious illness, such as pneumonia, tonsillitis, croup, etc.

At the first sign of a cold, give this pleasant, pure syrup, and your fears will be needless. It is antiseptic; it is demulcent; it allays irritation, disperses inflammation, and loosens the secretions promptly. Mrs. E. A. Paige, Grand Rapids, Mich., writes: "My little girl had a severe cough which it seemed I could not cure. Was afraid it would turn into pneumonia. I thought I would try Menthio-Laxene, and can say it relieved her of the cough, so that she sleeps all night without complaining at all."

Myriads of mothers have had similar experience. Your druggist has it. A small bottle makes a pint, mixed with sugar syrup.—Advertisement.

TROUBLES FROM MY AGE

Mrs. Baney tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her Through the Change of Middle Life.

Rochester, Ind.—"My troubles were from my age and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me wonderfully. I took doctor's medicine and other patent medicine, but the Vegetable Compound has helped my nerves more than anything I have ever taken. I am thankful to the one who recommended it to me and will surely do my part in telling others what the medicine has done for me."—Mrs. LETTIE BANEY, 468 East 9th St., Rochester, Indiana.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and dizziness should be heeded by middle-aged women and let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carry them safely through this crisis as it did Mrs. Baney.
