"This commission is to assist our consumers and every fair-minded producer and distributor of coal, and you need never hesitate to come to us at any time with any just grievance.

"Your citizens and this commission appreciate your generous action.

"Very truly yours,
"STRICTLY COAL AND FOOD COMMISSION."

Members of the deal commission held a conference in the office of Governor Goodrich this morning.

When asked if new orders would be sent out in a day or two, Chairman Egan stated he "did not know," and added that his men were hard at work making arrangements for the order affecting repairs and the modification of the order affecting the wagon mine operators of the coal company.

Although the suits have been filed since Saturday the papers have never been turned over to the judge of the Circuit Court, Judge Harry Chamberlain states.

Indications are that some of the retailers contend that the price as fixed by the commission is fair, but others in other coal selling centers contend it is unfair.

The following retail coal dealers Wednesday afternoon announced their opposition from the special coal and food commission, in which the dealers asked that the order of the commission's coal price be set aside by the court: McKinley Coal and Supply Company, Frankfort; Deming and Thompson, Frankfort; Cullen Feed and Coal Company, Frankfort; Robert C. Keene & Son, Frankfort; Pinnell-Dulin Lumber Company, Noblesville; Erie Coal Yards, Huntington; B. & M. Coal Company, Peru; Greenfield Ice and Fuel Co. and the Greenfield Lumber and Ice Company, Greenfield; Conklin Lumber Company, Greenfield; Decker Lumber Company, Decatur; Kirsch-Reppert Company, Decatur; E. L. Carroll & Sons, Decatur; and J. L. Vickery, Sheridan.

No written protest was presented to Judge Harry Chamberlain of the Circuit Court for dissolving of fourteen of the seventy-nine coal appeal cases.

FEDERAL QUIZ - MAY BEGIN

Charles P. Tighe, special agent of the United States Department of Justice, declared today that he believes the Federal Government should interest itself in the charges made by Jesse Eschbach, chairman of the special coal and food commission in a letter refusing to accept the offer of the Bunting Coal Company of Warsaw to turn over its plant to the commission.

Mr. Tighe said Mr. Eschbach's statements amount to a charge that the retailers who have been protesting at a low cost are refusing to do business in order to protect other retailers against charges of conspiracy.

ARTICLE 10 CURB ON 'NATIONAL CUPIDITY'—COX

powered to make such a recommendation.

The facts and recommendations would then be cabled to the President of the United States, who would lay them before Congress.

"Congress, he said, would thereupon determine the course of action, 'just as it does now.'"

If the action contemplated, Governor Cox continued, is not approved by our representative in the council—either because his judgment is not in accord with the others, or because after table conference with the President and the congressional committee on foreign affairs, he is convinced that Congress would not endorse the recommended action, he would cast his vote in the negative and thus exercise his power of veto.

STILL ANOTHER
CHECK ON ACTION.

"On the other hand, if he approved the action and voted with the others, the unanimous recommendation of the council would be cabled to the several governments represented on the League Council, our own, of course, included," the Governor said.

"We should never in the haze of wiggling statements and wobbling pronouncements, lose sight of the incontrovertible fact that under article 10 the council can be the sign of that reservation or any action cannot be taken unless every representative, including our own, votes in the affirmative."

Furthermore, the fourth Hitchcock reservation, "approved by President Wilson and voted down by the treaty wreckers in the Senate," provides that in signing the covenant the United States relinquishes no part of her sovereign right "to determine her national duty," Cox said.

"I want to state very emphatically," he added, "what I have repeatedly said, I am in favor of that reservation or any similar reservation that will tend to reassure the American public and at the same time remind all other members of the league of our constitutional limitations."

Following his address Governor Cox left for Baltimore, where he was to deliver afternoon and evening speeches.

ENOUGH FOR CROWD.

Senator Warren G. Harding's name was blazed by an audience which packed a big theater here today to hear Governor Cox.

The demonstration against Harding's name came when the Governor mentioned that the Republican candidate signed Senator Lodge's "round robin" against the peace treaty.

A short time before the crowd blazed and boomed mention of Lodge while President Wilson's name was applauded.

The theater where the Governor spoke and stood for about half of the people who sought to hear him.

Streets nearby were crowded with people when Cox began his speech.

Although in the home city of Coleman DuPont, whom he has been attacking as "the Krupp of America," the Governor did not mention his name.

HISTORY DIVISION SCENE OF JAM

The Hotel Severin assembly room proved inadequate to accommodate the number of teachers who wished to attend the history section of the State Teachers' Association today.

It is estimated that 300 teachers were turned away.

F. S. Bogardus, vice president of the history section and professor of history at the Indiana State Normal School, presided.

The speakers were Henry F. Sherwood, Franklin College, and Professor Paul L. Haworth, West Newton.
