

FACES TASK OF FIXING WORLD STATUS OF U.S.

America's Standing With Other Nations Foremost Problem of New President.

ELEMENTS ARE WEIGHED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Sweepingly victorious in the presidential and senatorial elections the Republican party today faced the task of fixing America's status among the nations of the world and of ending a technical state of war that has endured longer than actual fighting of this nation.

President-elect Harding himself has said that detailed plans for meeting this task are as yet unformed, but today these things stood out:

President Wilson having been defeated in the "solemn referendum" on the League of Nations, is expected to take no further action looking to the adoption of that pact.

Senator Harding favors first the declaration of peace by congressional resolution and second the formation of a new association of nations to which task he has promised to call the country's best minds.

The new Senate will be Republican, and even some Democrats will be for Harding and against the Wilson peace ideas—notably Reed of Missouri and Watson of Georgia.

That is the outline of the situation of which the new President will be the center when he calls a special Congress session which he is expected to do soon after assuming office in March.

Within his own party he will, of course, have the irreconcilables, returned in full force by the election of Brandegee, in Connecticut, and Moses, in New Hampshire, while Johnson and Borah remain in the Senate.

On the other hand, he will have a group representing the ideas of ex-President Taft and Herbert Hoover that while the present League must be modified, it should not be expurgated totally.

Republicans here hope that when Harding's plans are unfolded in detail he will have the support of both these groups, as well as that of many Democrats who are anxious to have America's world status fixed.

accept my cordial congratulations and good wishes." The following message was sent to Chairman Will H. Hays of the Republican national committee: "Congratulations to you on the leadership of the most successful contest."

SENATOR BORAH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The election of Senator Harding is regarded as the platform, but as indicated by the vote of the people they did not think so. "Governor Cox made what I consider a remarkable one-man fight, and with enough money in either State or National headquarters to pay for postage."

"I congratulate my opponent, Senator Watson, and wish him the best of luck and hope Senator Harding and Mr. McCray's administrations will be successful. "So far as I am personally concerned I have no regrets, and I want to take this opportunity to express to the people of the State and the Democratic organization my thanks for the splendid support they gave me. "This campaign has given me an opportunity to see more of Indiana than I have ever seen in the past, and I am certainly proud of our good old Hoosier State, and to know it you must travel over and through it and come in contact with the great hearty and cordial greeting which I received from Hoosiers of all political parties."

DR. C. B. McCULLOCH

"I am glad the result was decisive, because it makes very clear the desires of the people," said Dr. Charles B. McCulloch, defeated candidate for Governor of Indiana.

"We can now all turn to and give our best efforts to solving the problems that confront us. "Governor Cox made a courageous fight against tremendous odds, and the National and State organizations pulled every last pound that in them lay. "Mr. Taggart was indefatigable and inspiring. "Every candidate and worker was loyal and untiring. "So while we are disappointed in the result, we know we did all we could. "I wish for Senator Watson and Mr. McCray every good thing, and pledge them the cordial support of a devoted Indian.

"It was a bully good fight."

JAMES E. WATSON

"The President asked for a 'great and solemn referendum' and he got it," said James E. Watson, Republican, who was returned to the Senate. "It was surely a 'great' one for the Republicans and certainly a 'solemn' one for the Democrats."

HIRAM JOHNSON

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—"It's the end of the League of Nations," was the emphatic declaration of Senator Hiram Johnson, commenting on the victory of Senator Harding.

The Senator today issued the following statement: "No amount of sophistry or pretense can obscure the issue in Tuesday's election. "The men and women who bear the burdens and pay the price of war finally have had the opportunity to pass upon the foreign policy of their country. "On the one hand was the internationalism of the League of Nations, and on the other the American policy of Washington, Jefferson and Monroe. "The menacing, dangerous and entangling league has been emphatically and overwhelmingly repudiated. "The sons and daughters of America have determined that America shall remain the nation we have ever known, continuing steadfastly in the old path that has led to our present greatness and glory. "It's the end of the League of Nations; it's the recrudescence of Americanism. "The victory of Senator Harding is the response of the American spirit to the endeavor to denationalize it."

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 3.—"The result of the election in no way changes the duty of this country to join the other nations in the splendid effort to solve international difficulties, to end militarism and to avoid future wars for all time," declared Franklin D. Roosevelt, defeated candidate for Vice President, in a statement issued here this afternoon.
