

DISCIPLES HOLD ONE-DAY MEETING

District Conference Follows St. Louis Convention.

"World Wide Evangelism" will be the subject of an address by Dr. Royal J. Dye, Pomona, Cal., recently returned from missionary work in Africa, at the night session of the one-day district convention being held today by the Disciples of Christ at the Central Christian Church. An address will also be made by Jesse M. Butler, Kansas City, Kan., on "The Revival Meeting."

Approximately 300 delegates were present at the conference. Addresses were made by O. E. Kelley, Terre Haute, on "The Church and Its Local Program," and H. O. Pritchard, Indianapolis, on "The Church and Christian Education." At a luncheon served in the church dining room short talks were made by Mrs. C. H. Grist and Garry L. Cook. C. M. Yocum, St. Louis, Mo., was on the afternoon program for an address on "The Church and the United Christian Missionary Society." Addresses on "The Church and Evangelism" and "The Church and World-Wide Missions" were made by Mr. Bader and Dr. Dye, respectively.

The conference is a follow-up of the international convention recently held in St. Louis and will be followed next week by a series of county meetings in each of the five districts. In the eastern district the following program will be given: Survey of work done in county, reports of county officers, appointment of new committees and election of officers. Addresses will be given: "The Evangelistic Program of the Local Church," by G. I. Hoover, Indianapolis; "The Program of Religious Education in the Local Church," Miss Florence Carmichael; "United Christian Missionary Society," W. W. Sniff, Union City; "The Women's Missionary Society in the Local Church," Mrs. W. E. Cold, Huntington; "The Educational Program of the Disciples of Christ," Miss Carmichael; "Our State Program of Work," Mrs. Cole; "The Investment of a Life," Mr. Sniff.

300 Register for Librarians' Meeting

More than 300 delegates have registered at the Hotel Severin for the joint conference of the Indiana Library Association and the Indiana Library Trustees' Association, being held today, tomorrow and Friday. The executive committees of each association held meetings this morning to make plans for the ensuing year. Separate business sessions were to be held this afternoon at the Central Public Library, followed by a joint session in the Crosey Auditorium, at which Miss Margaret A. Wells, president of the library association, presides. The program includes an address, "Our Common Task," by Miss Alice S. Tyler, president of the American Library Association; a musical program and reports of representatives at the A. L. A. conference.

A joint session will be held at the Severin tonight, at which Evans Woolen president of the Fletcher Savings and Trust Company, will make an address on "Education and Its Service to Business." The Orloff Trio will give a musical program and Harry F. Kepner, president of the trustees' association, will preside.

Logansport Woman, Teacher 50 Years, Dies

Special to The Times. LOGANSPORT, Ind., Nov. 10.—Miss Ellen Cobling, 84, for more than fifty years a teacher in the Logansport public schools, is dead at her home here. Death was due to an apoplectic stroke suffered ten days ago. In memory of her services in the schools here, all classes will be dismissed during the time of the funeral.

Tax Board Meets Lake County Men

Representatives of twenty-eight industries in Lake County were to be in conference today with members of the State Board of Tax Commissioners to give information necessary for the correct assessment of their property. The factories represented are largely steel industries of the Calumet district.

FOR BURNING ECZEMA

Apply Zemo the Clean, Antiseptic Liquid—Easy to Use—Does Not Stain

Greasy salves and ointments should not be applied if good clear skin is wanted. From any druggist for 35c, or $1.00 for large size, get a bottle of Zemo. When applied as directed it effectively removes eczema, quickly stops itching, and heals skin troubles, also sores, burns, wounds and chafing. It penetrates, cleanses and soothes. Zemo is a clean, dependable and inexpensive, antiseptic liquid. Try it, as we believe nothing you have ever used is as effective and satisfying.

London Has Cemetery For Dogs

The accompanying photograph is the dog's cemetery in aristocratic Hyde Park, London, where canine pets of pedigree have found a resting place. The picture was sent to Dr. Elizabeth Conger, 1714 East Tenth street, by Miss Lucy McGee, 218 1/2 East Pratt street, who is touring Europe. Miss McGee sent the picture with her contribution to Dr. Conger for the Indianapolis Humane Society.

Parasites Flock West for Winter

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Weary Whitties, panhandlers and moochers—those who live on what is given them by the other half of the world—are arriving in Chicago in large numbers from the East. "The East is getting too hard-boiled," said "Jim" Hardy, whose last address was New York. "It's hard to work the sympathy racket so often, they've been stuck so often. We all come West in the winter."

One Killed, One Hurt at Hammond Plant

Special to The Times. HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 10.—Lewis Sickfuss, 58, was killed and Bloncell Barry, 40, was seriously injured when they were caught under a mass of sheet iron that fell Tuesday at the plant of the Standard Oil Company at Whiting, where they were employed. Sickfuss was dead when dragged from the debris. Barry is in a serious condition. Physicians say his recovery is doubtful.

CASCARETS

"They Work while you Sleep"

You're losing your "pep"! You are constipated, bilious! You need Cascarets tonight sure for your liver and bowels, then you will wake up wondering what became of your sluggishness, dizziness, sick headache, bad cold or upset, gassy stomach! No griping—no inconvenience. Children love Cascarets, too. 10, 25, 50 cents.—Advertisement.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for coughs, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant—children like it.

Four 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly breaks the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Huder, Washington and Pennsylvania streets; southeast corner Michigan and Illinois streets, Indianapolis, Ind., and all leading druggists.—Advertisement.

APPROVES LOVE FOR MARRIED MAN

Mother Sorry She Interfered With Daughter's Liaison.

Otto Paul Milde, age 41, arraigned before Federal Judge A. B. Anderson on the charge of violating the Mann white slave act, will be transferred to Philadelphia for trial, following the declaration of Ada May Taylor, 15-year-old daughter of Mrs. Naomi Taylor, that her love for Milde prompted her to travel about with him through several States, even though she knew Milde was married.

The charges leading to Milde's arrest a few days ago in La Porte, where he was employed as a musician in a theater, were filed before the United States commissioner in Hammond by Mrs. Taylor, who testified that she had followed the couple for several months. Mrs. Taylor was unwilling to continue the prosecution instituted against her daughter's sweetheart, but was advised that the charge could not be dropped, and she then expressed her willingness to let the law take its course, provided she could have the responsibility of her daughter's future and take her home.

Miss Taylor and Milde met when he was a church organist in a small town in Virginia, and since that time the couple were together continuously, except on two occasions when Mrs. Taylor had persuaded her daughter to return home, only to find that Miss Taylor had rejoined Milde a short time later.

Mrs. Taylor declared her daughter loved Milde, that she thought Milde was a man of honor and loved her daughter, and gave her consent to a marriage, provided a divorce suit filed by Milde's wife in Pittsburgh is settled.

Two Arrested Here on Fugitive Charges

Herschel Yettman, 16, of 506 West New York street, was arrested by detectives today on the charge of being a fugitive from justice. The police say Yettman will be taken to Terre Haute to answer the charge of burglary.

Hayes Shaffer, 43, 1718 College avenue, was arrested on the charge of being a fugitive from justice and detectives say he will be taken to Anderson, where he is charged with issuing a fraudulent check.

In Which Kathleen Learns Some Mysteries of the Fur Market

By KATHLEEN McKEE. Are you an aristocratic vamp, one that is an honest-to-goodness exclusive highbrow?

Or are you a cheap imitation? Perhaps you are just a common ordinary, every-day vamp. Well, it doesn't make much difference which kind you are, because if you are of the female variety of the human species you are classified as a vamp regardless of the non-existence of any such animal in the literary columns of the Standard Dictionary.

Meer man hasn't anything to do with vamping, because when it comes to first-class vamping, mere man is rated way down at the end of the alphabet; for the conquest of the vamping profession counts him as an unavoidable incidental.

But a genuine vamp counts her power of seduction by the number of soft, fuzzy skins of once-upon-a-time animals which she wraps around herself while she sweeps through the doors of the department store reducing every other member of her sex to mingled envy and admiration.

Realizing that I would be doomed to perpetual and likewise eternal insignificance if I were compelled to live without the acquisition of a couple of yards of the before mentioned fur, I set out in quest of a special marked up bargain day sale.

MUST DEAL WITH NEW YORK BUYER. Emboldened by smiles from a row of salesladies, possessing the countenance of roses, I demanded the presence of the New York buyer for my important purchase.

"What is good in sets this year?" I inquired, with the dignity of an expert. "Sets are entirely out of fashion," that individual informed me condescendingly. "But of course we carry a few in stock to accommodate our old-fashioned customers."

Just then, our attention was transferred from less important matters to a man who was excitedly telling a saleslady that he couldn't possibly pay the moderate sum of $495.00 which his wife had charged to his account for the small item of one fur coat.

With determination he placed the trifle on the counter, hurling a parting ultimatum as he dashed for the elevator that he would "just as soon pay the first installment on the Marion County courthouse as buy that coat for his wife."

The New York buyer sighed deeply, muttering something about women's evils.

"I tried to sell a woman a scarf last week, and after having shown her a couple of dozen, she told me she guessed she would go home and tell her husband about it."

"What a husband doesn't get the blame for I don't know," he continued belittlingly. "He is the best excuse for not buying when you are just looking, but there are others, such as looking for a friend."

TRIES TO FOCUS ATTENTION AGAIN.

I murmured something appropriately sympathetic, hoping to revolve the cycle of his cranium to any specific incident, but was successful in starting more grandfather's reminiscences.

Some of these professional shoppers who think the department stores are a free show and who stroll up and down admiring themselves in a $1000 fur coat for a couple of hours need a nurse-maid to keep them at home," he remarked, at a 200-pound lightweight champion who had been strutting for the last fifteen minutes before the largest glass in the room.

"Now, I bet you a peanut that she will stay downtown until she is invited to leave the store, and the last seat in the street car, and tell her neighbor over the telephone what a 'de-se-lightful time she had looking around.'"

The plot of my attention was changed to a rival of the lightweight champion, who was telling the saleswoman that her husband saw a woman on the street the other day with a scarf in which the paw was arranged "just so," and she wanted one with the paw made just that way.

New York buyer shook his head in desperation and returned to his elucidation of the "latest thing."

"Have you seen the Dolman style?" he asked.

"Mr. Dolman? No, I don't believe I have met him." I returned, only to be informed that it was a style of fur wrap.

"Now in the chokers!" "I don't intend to be choked for anybody," I interrupted, but he continued ignoring me, saying the styles which predominate this fall are made from Russian Sable, Hudson Bay seal, Stone Martin, Aristocratic Beaver, Blue Fox, Silver Fox, Bann Martin.

"Wraps and coats," he said, "are good only in squirrel, scotch moire, beavers, chip mink, Hudson seal, dyed muskrat, Alaskan seal, black lynx, white ermine." "That's enough," I said, "what's in a name anyway, and, by the way, are they being served with or without tails?" "It is merely a matter of choice," he said, throwing out the remains of an animal which must have had tails like the thousand-legged worm has legs.

"Now here's one that is the natural ring tailed tail," he said, exhibiting a specimen with plenty of luxurious tails, but no rings—which caused me much amazement.

"Now here is a nice little coat for $785, just marked down from $800," displaying a coat which had the appearance of being slightly moth-eaten in spots. Hastily I glanced at my wrist watch, and murmuring something about having forgotten I had an appointment I made my exit past the floorwalker.

New Police Captain Proficient in Firing

Edwin Ball, newly appointed captain of police, today received another honor when he was awarded a special certificate of proficiency from the Small Arms Firing School.

The certificate was signed by Lieutenant Colonel McNamara of the United States Cavalry, commandant at Camp Perry during the rifle matches last August.

The certificate states that Edwin C. Ball of the civilian rifle team has demonstrated his proficiency in small arms firing and is recommended as an instructor in the use of the service rifle, and that he qualified as "expert" in the regular Army course, Aug. 25, with a score of 261.

MR. H. H. HILL, Chemical Engineer of the Bureau of Mines, in discussing the future of gasoline says: "It is up to the refiners to extract more of petroleum's useful factors from the crude."

This he says can be effected through efficient management and by improved methods of cracking and blending.

Mr. Hill thus expresses the opinion which has dominated the policy of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) for many years and has enabled this Company to raise its efficiency peak year after year.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been a leader in developing processes to increase the yield of gasoline from crude oil.

The best known and most successful of its improvements is the the Burton process, originated in the laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Speaking of the Burton process, Mr. Hill says that "since it was first installed on a commercial scale it has produced approximately 40 million barrels of gasoline from heavy distillates, and has thus saved approximately 150 million barrels of crude that would have been necessary to produce an equivalent amount of gasoline."

This vast saving has been accomplished without sacrificing quality.

Red Crown, the motor gasoline, made and sold by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is acknowledged by petroleum chemists and other authorities to be the standard fuel for motor cars. It more than meets Government specifications, which require an initial of not more than 140 degrees F; 20 percent off at 221 degrees; 50 percent off at 284 degrees; 90 percent off at 374 degrees; and a dry point (complete vaporization) at not more than 437 degrees F.

During the semi-annual test conducted in July 1920, the average for Red Crown Gasoline showed an initial of 102 degrees F; 20 percent off at 210; 50 percent off at 281; 90 percent off at 387; and a dry point of 427 degrees F.

This shows an initial 38 degrees better than Government specifications, which means easy starting; 20 percent off at 11 degrees better than Government specifications; 50 percent off at 3 degrees better than Government specifications; and 90 percent off thirteen degrees higher than Government specifications, which is more than made up by the 10 degrees difference in dry point.

This proves that, notwithstanding the greatly increased quantity of gasoline which this Company is able to take from the crude, it has in no way sacrificed quality, and is another indication that the large scale operations of this Company have worked to the distinct advantage of every user of gasoline.
