

Mildy Football Enthusiast Doffs Comfort for Style

According to a psychological definition of fashion it is something which is not practical, but when it comes to a definition of fashion it is entirely unnecessary to refer to psychology. Why not buy a ticket to one of the college football games Saturday afternoon and see the slaves of the all mighty god, fashion, sitting on the bleachers rooting for their home team?

Talking about fashions causes one to wonder whether such great universities as Michigan and Northwestern are behind the styles or whether the Indiana college and high school girls are advanced in fashion upon the subject. Up in Michigan just a few months ago Miss Rosalie, who is on the bleachers, surely bundled up in a wool stocking cap of the colors of her school, a heavy coat, and wool stockings over her shoes. She is reinforced further against the blasts of Jack Frost by a blanket sis in the school colors. Thus, she enjoys the same tucked up "snug as a bug in a rug." At the same time the school gains the advantage of her emphatic decorations.

Change the scene. Miss Indiana toughed out sheer silk hose plus oxfords stockings to the bleachers in an atmosphere of some 20 degrees. Usually she wears a light weight coat; possibly a sweater with her college colors. She wears a blouse which is a slight improvement over the historic garb of Edenville which affords no protection against the cold and winter blasts as nothing. Perhaps she is equipped with a fur coat which has the greater portion suspended over one shoulder so that whatever warmth is contained in it is kept as far away from "my lady" as possible.

As far as gloves are concerned she would not condescend to wear anything that had any semblance of the form of a hand or man's wear at all. Indeed, in Miss Indiana's attire there is nothing to keep the sheep from going into re-circulation.

But why should she worry over such trifles as a feeling that she is about to turn into a piece of ice, if she is fashionista? Fashion is the law of the universe so far as health and comfort in opposition to it.

But pretty custom of symbolizing your respective class has been adopted in other States until it has become a fashion, why not make an innovation in the local fashions among college girls of one that will be more comfortable, and quite as catching in the bargain?

Society

An autumn wedding which takes one of Indianapolis girls away from her home city for future residence, was that of Miss Helen Louise Rapp and Glenn M. Tindall of St. Louis, which took place last night in the home of the bride's parents, 3916 Washington boulevard, the Rev. G. M. Smith reading the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Tindall are the parents of an only daughter, a chrysanthemum, combined with feathered greenery and Southern smilax were used through the rooms, with baskets of pink and white blossoms and cathedral candelabra holding pink lighted tapers, against a bank of palms and ferns, forming the altar.

Mrs. George Eckert sang "All for You," "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" preceding the service, which was sung by Mrs. Francis Whipple Webster, harpist, and Miss Helen Smith, pianist, who also played the bridal chorus from "Lohegenrin" for the procession. A group of harp numbers was played during the ceremony.

The group of attendants included Mrs. Frank C. Kelle, matron of honor; Miss Rita Thompson of St. Joseph, Mo.; Loren Jenks of Chicago, best man, and Lynn Rapp, brother of the bride, groomsman, and Truman Kelle, ring-bearer.

Mr. Kelle wore an attractive gown of orchid satin and carried an arm bouquet of orchid-hued chrysanthemums, and Miss Thornton was an attractive frock of French blue chrysanthemums with a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums.

The bride was charming in a gown of ivory satin veiled in net. Her short tulie veil was arranged coronet fashion, caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower of sweetheart roses.

Following the service, supper was served. The bridal table was attractively decorated in pink and white blossoms and tapers, with a centerpiece of asters and ferns.

Mr. and Mrs. Tindall departed last night for Chicago, the bride traveling in a midnight blue duvetin suit, trimmed with her mother's emerald hat. They will be at home after Dec. 1 at 1929 Missouri street, St. Louis.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Rapp and Miss Isabelle Smith of Kokomo; Mrs. F. E. Smith, Mrs. G. L. Means of Oberlin, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Tindall, Mr. and Mrs. William Tindall, Mrs. C. J. Adams and J. L. Means, of Shelbyville.

R. C. Jessup and Fred Scanlan of Atlanta, Ga., who have been passing a few days in the city, returned home today.

Attendants for the wedding of Miss Emily Rosier and Harold Linsky of St. Louis, which will take place at 3:30 o'clock Thanksgiving day, in the green room of the Cypress Hotel, will include Mrs. G. L. Starkey, matron of honor; Miss Belle Closser, maid of honor; Miss Emily Truett and Miss Adeline Linsky, bridesmaids; Harold Frenzel, best man, and Jerome Steele and Milton Abramson, ushers.

Mrs. Clifford L. Lambert of Woodruff Place was hostess for an attractive tea yesterday afternoon given in honor of Mrs. Roy W. Lambert, who was formerly Miss Florine Hite. Clusters of chrysanthemums, palms and ferns were used throughout the parlors, with an effective decoupage scheme in blue and white carried out in boxes and shaded tapestry. In the dining room, Mrs. Thomas Eldred Stuckey and Mrs. M. E. Clarke presided over the tea table, assisted by Mrs. Charles Ferguson, Miss Betty Schreiber and Miss Pauline Lambert. Assisting in receiving were: Mrs. Joel Wilmot and Mrs. D. L. Wheeler of Louisville, Mrs. Fred Jungclaus, Mrs. W. E. Rosseter and Mrs. Edward Conner.

Miss Sarah Lauter, 612 East Thirteenth street, has gone to New York City, where she will be the guest of her sister, Miss Fionia Lauter.

A luncheon in L. S. Ayres & Co.'s tea room will be given Saturday noon by the officers of the Indiana Federation of Music Clubs. Mrs. Henry Schurmann and Mrs. C. A. Pfafflin will be in charge of the program. Mrs. Minnie Kimball of Greencastle and Mrs. Ada Beckling of Evansville will be special guests.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Thurston, 3322 North Illinois street, have gone to Miami, Fla., for permanent residence.

Enters Oxford

MISS THERÈSE MATHILDE BORN, Oxford College, England, for the first time in its history, opened its doors to women this year, admitting them on an equal basis with the men and one of the group of American girls who have taken advantage of the opportunity is Miss Therese Mathilde Born, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Born, of this city. Miss Born was made an European Fellow.

low at Bryn Mawr last spring, which entitled her to a year's study in any European college or university that she might choose. Owing to her desire to do research work in Elizabethan literature, she chose the English university.

Interesting but decidedly un-American is the fact that she is pursuing her work under the supervision of one Sir Walter Raleigh, who heads the Elizabethan literature department.

The young classicist has made a brilliant record from her early school days, carrying off honors for theme writing in her grade school work. She graduated from Tudor Hall with honors, and on taking her entrance examination, for Bryn Mawr, won the Western matriculation scholarship.

Each year that she has been in college she has been honored with a scholarship. She is a graduate of Bryn Mawr, cum laude, and on receiving her master's degree, made an English Fellow. Then at the completion of her last year's work, having been made an European Fellow, she, with her mother, went abroad, making an extended tour of the European countries, prior to entering Oxford.

Life in Cherwell Hall, the dormitory in which a number of American girls dwell, is very different from Bryn Mawr college life. Miss Born's room is a dormitory room, and on receiving her master's degree, she made an English Fellow. Then at the completion of her last year's work, having been made an European Fellow, she, with her mother, went abroad, making an extended tour of the European countries, prior to entering Oxford.

"I am acquiring the universal European tea drinking habit," she writes in her last letter, "and also eating five meals a day like my English companions."
