

Woman Efficient in Various Lines of Business Life

One Takes Charge of Construction Company's Office Just as if She Grew There.

The other day a man remarked in a bank that "woman suffrage has opened a long vista of occupations for women," as he looked around the room and saw stools which used to be the property of men exclusively now perched upon by girls who disposed of their work with an abandon that did not imply they were greatly impressed with the favor bestowed upon them.

His neighbor answered that "it didn't take woman suffrage" to get them the jobs, and went on to explain that when women stepped into unusual occupations during the war they refused to step out of them after the war.

"Of course," he added with a shrug, "you don't find a woman conductor on every street car now, but there are plenty of other places that you will find her. I don't believe that woman suffrage is entirely responsible for all of it, although it will help matters on more rapidly."

Leaving the intellectual discussion of evolution to students of economics and sociology and coming right down to the facts, who ever heard of a woman in the business of building twenty-story buildings when your mother and mine are young? Of course, nobody did, because it was a business that wasn't any woman's business and further than that a woman who attempted to show the knowledge about a building speculation wasn't any longer a woman, but became somewhat mixed on her.

But, "times is changed," for Miss Helen Taylor of the Caldwell-Marshall Construction Company doesn't think she is at all out of place in an office surrounded by a few hundred blue prints.

As the "general in charge" she interviews all the visitors, letting slip trippingly from her tongue a stream of technical terms about "buildings" that fairly dazzle the uninitiated. She discusses plans for buildings, talks materials, takes orders, and does a hundred and one things that imply a thorough knowledge of her business.

"It was all by chance that I got into the business," she explains, "and I have never felt it to my credit especially that I am here. I came here as a bookkeeper without any special desire to enter the contracting business."

"In fact," she said, "the more I work here the less I feel that it is my business. Instead, I feel more and more that I am a part of it."

With pride she shows the visitor the large buildings which "her company" has erected in all parts of the country, explaining in a thorough and efficient way the different types of buildings.

"I do feel, however," she said, "that I am better fitted, temperamentally perhaps, than some other women for this line of work because my father was a contractor, and from him I learned a great deal about the business which might otherwise have taken me a long, long time in actual experience to have learned."

INDIANA G. O. P. SPENT VAST SUM IN CAMPAIGN

Ball and E. B. Ball, all of Muncie, each gave $500 on July 25. The Balls are considered political friends of Governor Goodrich.

Colfax report shows that the committee actively began collecting its huge campaign fund in March, 1920, with a $500 contribution from J. W. Feiler; $500, a loan, from E. M. Wasmuth; on March 19, $500 from Warren T. McCray, candidate for Governor and now Governor-elect; on March 19 the Indiana Lincoln League, which got under way at Terre Haute, Ind., when Governor Goodrich was nominated over Mr. McCray, contributed $500, and on April 12, gave $57.50.

On April 12, Secretary of State Ed Jackson of Lafayette contributed $150, and James S. Baldwin gave $250 on April 2. E. C. Toner contributed $500 and ten days later the Republican national committee gave $2,500.

At this juncture, the report shows, a total of $10,000 was borrowed from the Indiana National Bank between May 8, 1919, to Jan. 17, 1920.

Another interesting feature of the contributions is $200 from W. G. Irwin of Columbus, Ind., which was contributed to the Indiana National Bank between May 8, 1919, to Jan. 17, 1920.

Some of the contributions from May 11, 1920, to Sept. 2, are as follows: Loan from the Republican national committee, $3,000; Warren T. McCray, $1,250; W. G. Irwin of Columbus, $200; Lincoln League, $245; F. C. Gardner of the Atkins Company, $250; H. C. Atkins, saw manufacturer, $250; E. W. Steinhart, automobile, $100; C. W. Craig, automobiles, $100; U. S. Lesh, attorney general-elect, $600; J. C. Travis, La Porte, $1,000; Ira C. Bateman, $500; Robert H. Hassler, auto accessories, $1,000; Ira C. Bateman, $1,000; W. G. Irwin, $500; James E. Watson, United States Senator, $1,000; E. A. Dunsman, Goshen, Ind., $500; S. F. Bowser, Ft. Wayne, $750; Henry C. Berghoff, Ft. Wayne, $250; W. H. Noll, Ft. Wayne, $200; Louis B. Ewbank, State Supreme Court judge, $1,000; U. S. Lesh, $600; W. W. Cave, French Lick, $900; cash donation from Orange County, $3,100; J. C. Travis, La Porte, Ind., $500; and Norman Ballard of French Lick, $250.

Beginning with Sept. 3 and terminating on Oct. 13 many large contributions were made to the big campaign fund. It was at this time that large sums were being daily expended by the committee for every conceivable form of advertising.

BIG FUND PASSED UP TO COMMITTEE. Some of the contributions made within that period, were as follows: Everett Sanders, Congressman from Terre Haute, $100; Ira C. Bateman, Bloomington, $500; W. G. Irwin, Franklin, $500; U. S. Lesh, $500; Louis B. Ewbank, $500; Omar H. Hinesworth, Richmond, $500; D. M. Kittelman, E. F. Kittelman and A. L. Kittelman, associates of Gov. Goodrich, $500 each; U. S. Lesh, $500; R. C. Ellis, $200; Miles Polndexter, $2,000; J. D. Oliver, wealthy plow manufacturer of South Bend, Ind., $1,000; U. S. Senator James E. Watson, $1,000; Fred Lyons, $1,250; F. S. Fish, $500; A. R. Erskine, manufacturer, $500; John C. Shirk, manufacturer, $500; U. S. Senator James E. Watson, $1,000; Louis B. Ewbank, Judge, $500; R. E. Breed of the American Gas and Electric Company, $1,000; U. S. Senator Harry S. New, $1,000; W. H. McCurdy, Evansville, Ind., manufacturer; Guy Dausman, $500; F. L. Barrows, $500; E. D. Johnston, $250; S. R. Artman, $200; R. G. Leeds, $100; borrowed from the Indiana National Bank, $15,000, and J. T. Moorman, $250.

From Oct. 16 to Oct. 26 some of the larger contributions were made by Judge David B. Myers, $200; E. P. Branch, $150; Will E. Irwin, $1,000; Judge Louis B. Ewbank, $1,000; Ira C. Bateman, $500; Julius C. Travis, $750; United States Senator Harry S. New, $1,500; James B. Keating, $1,000; borrowed from the Erwin bank, $3,000; Fred Lyons, Brook, Ind., $5,000; Miles Polndexter, $2,000; James Oliver, $1,000; Joseph D. Oliver, Jr., $1,000; Susan Catherine Olive, $500; from the Elkhart County Republican central committee, $425; John H. Edwards, $500, and W. C. Marmion, $250.

The other extreme to which the committee went to gather funds to increase its campaign fund from which to manage the campaign is well represented by the following contributions: Rachel K. Turner and James W. Turner, Jr., 50 cents each; Henry Thrine, 25 cents;

Included in the receipts were pamphlets on the League of Nations, estimated in value at $400.

The way the committee spent these thousands of dollars collected in huge and little sums is told in many pages of finely typewritten paper. The biggest part of the expenditures were for office expenses, supplies, rental for headquarters at the Severin Hotel, for advertising purposes, for buying subscriptions to friendly papers; for traveling expenses and salaries of speakers, both men and women; to the telegraph companies, for stamps and used to replenish the treasuries of a number of the Republican committees in the various counties.

HOW SOME OF MONEY WAS SPENT. Some of the items, showing the way the committee disbursed and overspent the total fund collected, are as follows: July 19, Whitehead & Hoag, advertising, $524.05; Casack Sign Company, for street display signs, $771.83; the Owen Leader, 200 subscriptions, $50; R. Harry Miller, expenses of Marion, Ohio, trip, $497.35; Oct. 6, the Indianapolis Bill Posting Company, $1,000; Oct. 8, the Coburn Photo and Film Company, advertising, $1,200; Oct. 9, Helen C. Benbridge, traveling expenses, $18.63; Oct. 9, the Union Agency, advertising, $1,703.57; Oct. 13, Western Union, telegrams, $1,015.10; Oct. 18, Ray & Rudd, automobile locomotive advertising, $1,000; National Republican, advertising, $1,000; Oct. 20, Western Newspaper Union, advertising, $847.15; Oct. 26, Whitehead & Hoag Co., $464.08; William B. Burford, supplies, $5,020.03, and Oct. 30, Eleanor P. Barker, traveling expenses, $1,046.20.

The report of the treasurer shows that the following sums of money were sent to the county treasurers of the Republican county committees just prior to the election: Vigo County, $2,000; Vermillion, $250; Miami, $300; Allen, $2,000; Johnson, $150; Jay, $200; Clay, $500; Du Bois, $200; Brown, $100; Jennings, $250; Posey, $500; Jackson, $200; Spencer, $200; Marion County, $5,000.

The "salaries" paid by the committee is well shown by the following: Oct. 30, Owen Leader, 200 subscriptions, $50; to Fred Robinson, $325; to Perry Reeves, $325, and Zell Swain, $250.

On Aug. 14, the report shows that $700 money over the entire State, are only a few of those contained in the voluminous report of Mr. Goodrich, showing the expenditures of $22,308.44.

The report shows there was a "balance" of $129.71 on hand on Nov. 17, 1920, although the committee owes $77,202.62, the report shows.

On Nov. 1, the day before the election, the following are some of the larger contributions which were received: W. H. Kloppe, Washington, D. C., $5,000; J. B. Keating, Indianapolis, $5,000; A. E. Meyer, New York, $2,500; Eugene Meyer, Jr., $1,000; Ruth L. B. Pratt, $2,500; William Sloane, $2,000, and John Sloane, $2,000.

The report shows that a total of $20,893 was deposited in the bank to the credit of the committee on Nov. 1, the day before the election. On Nov. 15, fifteen days after the election, a total of $19,000 was borrowed from "bank," the name not given.

On Oct. 28 A. Bennett Gates gave $500; on Oct. 29 the following contributions were received: James H. Brewer, $1,000; J. D. Oliver, $2,000; W. T. Durbin, $200; E. D. Johnston, $250; S. R. Artman, $200; R. G. Leeds, $100; borrowed from the Indiana National Bank, $15,000, and J. T. Moorman, $250.

On Oct. 30 contributions were received from T. W. Whitaker for $50 and Ogden L. Mills for $2,500.

LAST CALL FOR BIG CONTRIBUTIONS. On Nov. 1, the day before the election, the following are some of the larger contributions which were received: W. H. Kloppe, Washington, D. C., $5,000; J. B.
