

MARY GARDEN TALKS 'BABY TALK'
To Her Pet Dog and She Lunches on Apples and Figs

Are you not "wild" to know some of the things that Mary Garden, famous soprano, does? She gives a concert at the Murat next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, does in private life?

Her press agent has lifted the "veil" and gives in detail some of the strange ideas and habits of this wonderful person.

The value of Mary's collection of furs exceeds $150,000. In the evening she wears a sumptuous chinchilla wrap reaching to her feet. A coat of seals bordered with seals is also in her possession.

She never wears a pair of gloves more than once. Her luncheon, when she lunches at all, consists of an apple and some dried figs. With her tailored suits she wears in her buttonhole a crimson camellia. Two strings of pearls around her neck, she says, are the largest specimen in the world.

She promises to write her memoirs. Furthermore, she says her story will contain no equivocations. She always speaks the truth. Chicago is the prima donna's favorite city in America. Philadelphia amuses her. New York appalls her. She talks "baby talk" to her dog. She laughs at the "Teutonic hips" of an American singer in opera. A race of charming people she says she has discovered.

The Cinematograph, she calls them. She has excellent taste in other things as well.
