'Lent Out' Plan to Provide Happiness for Many Children

Mothers Aid and Man Who Remembers Toyless Childhood to Bring Joy to 'Kids.'

Under the supervision of the Mothers' Aid Society, an organization which cares for mothers, together with their children, a number of their proteges will spend Christmas day "lent out." The kiddies will not only experience the pleasure of a day in a comfortable home, but will be made happy for the entire year with gifts of recreational and material benefit. They will be given candy, toys and clothing and will make a close acquaintance with a Christmas tree.

"Have a Christmas Fairy in Your Home," is the slogan of the families who are planning to have some wee tots spend either Christmas day or the holidays with them.

One little girl is going to a mother who lost her own little girl. She is just the age of the mother's own baby, and on Christmas day she will be in the place of the little girl who died, and in the evening when she goes home, she will wear the clothes which belonged to the absent tot.

Another family which will be made happy consists of a poor mother and three little tots, who will be the guests of Mrs. Frank A. Richards, 838 Oakland avenue.

Did you ever look back to the Christmases you spent, recalling the full stocking and the toys around the fireplace. Well, according to Paul P. Parker, people can all look back, but can't all have that memory. At least he didn't, but this year he is going to see that some "kiddies" have that joy. Under his guidance many of the little charges of the Mothers' Aid will be made happy Christmas morning when they find the toys which Santa Claus has left them through the agency of Mr. Parker, whom they want to have toys, toys, toys.

"I want them to have toys, toys, toys," declared Mr. Parker. "I can remember when I was a boy how I longed for the toys that I never got, and I want to make some children happy in the way I have always wanted to be happy." And so Mr. Parker has invested all his "charity" in toys.

But, "spending the day out" is not the only way that the children can be made happy and comfortable on Christmas day. A Christmas party is going to be given by the Broadway M. E. Church to the children of the Fairview Settlement, and the Central Avenue M. E. Church will give an entertainment for the purpose of raising funds to purchase presents for their stockings.

The King's Daughters Church will also give an entertainment for Christmas cheer, and the teachers and clerks of the city are planning to fill a number of baskets with substantial Christmas dinners.

William J. Bowen, president of the Bricklayers', Masons' and Plasterers' International Union of America; Thomas R. Reese, first vice president, and William Dobson, secretary, will go to New York Wednesday as voluntarily witnesses in the "building trust" investigation.

They will reproduce testimony to the effect that they received several thousand dollars from the Marble Dealers' Employers' Association for "special and extraordinary counsel and advice."

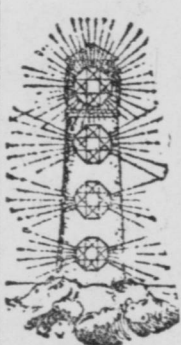

Mr. Bowen said he had information that marble workers, stone setters and stone cutters in New York received $9 a day, while contractors were charging builders $14.50 for these men and then collecting an additional 10 per cent.

He said he had information also to the effect that contractors charged $16.25 for the services of union foremen while they were being paid only $10 a day.
