

PURDUE HEAD SETS OUT NEEDS OF INSTITUTION

Dr. Stone Outlines Proposed
University Expenditures
Totaling $1,000,000.

CITES RAPID GROWTH

(Recommended legislation necessary to place the educational institutions of Indiana on a higher plane is contained in statements given to the Times by the presidents of Purdue University, the Indiana State Normal and Indiana University. The needs of Purdue are set forth by President W. E. Stone in the following dispatch.)

Special to the Times.
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Dec. 14.—With the rapid growth of the state, especially along agricultural lines, the equipment of the institution has become entirely inadequate. The Legislature will be asked to make an appropriation of $200,000 additional annually for new buildings and for maintenance.

Purdue this year probably will work in conjunction with other State educational institutions in asking for appropriations. Dr. W. E. Stone, president, and members of the board of trustees of the university probably will meet with the presidents and boards of trustees of the other two State institutions in a few days to determine upon total appropriations and upon a tax rate to take care of these appropriations.

"On account of overcrowding; the division of our funds to absolute necessities and the consequent lack of equipment, buildings and a sufficient number of teachers, in order to put our institution on a reasonable footing with the present number of students we must construct $1,000,000 worth of buildings in the next three years and we must add a total of $200,000 to our current annual expenditures."

Dr. Stone proposes that the appropriations for buildings be distributed equally over a period of three years. The capital expenditures program, he said, includes the erection of a school of agriculture at a cost of $100,000, a school of home economics to cost $200,000, an addition to the chemistry building to cost $100,000, a recitation hall to cost $200,000, a school of engineering to cost $250,000, equipment worth $100,000 and an option on additional land at $50,000, making a total of $1,000,000.

The following additions to current annual expenses also are proposed by Dr. Stone: For salary budget, $100,000; for maintenance, $50,000; for research, $15,000; for expansion, $100,000.

Local Pastor Freed of 'Tiger' Charge

Special to the Times.
NASHVILLE, Dec. 14.—The Rev. A. Sirbu, Indianapolis minister charged with operating a still on his farm in the hills near here, was acquitted in Circuit Court today by Judge J. M. Jackson. The preacher declared he leased the farm from him, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to sixty days on the Indiana State Farm.

The still was discovered several days ago by Federal prohibition agents from Indianapolis working with local officials. George Sirbu, who says he is a teacher in Indianapolis, who came on the farm with the Rev. Sirbu, also was acquitted upon his story that he was merely on a vacation trip in the Brown County hills.

Delay Appointment in Turk-Armenia Affair

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Appointment of a mediator in the differences between Armenia and the Turkish nationalists is being held up by the failure of the League of Nations to make reply to President Wilson's inquiry concerning conditions in Armenia, it was learned today.

The President last week made inquiry concerning reports of a treaty between Armenia and Turkey. He asked whether this would affect the appointment of a mediator. It is the belief of officials that the League of Nations council is withholding reply until conditions in Armenia take a definite turn.

Seven Speakers to Address Credit Men

"The Inventory in View of Present Market Conditions" will be the subject that will be discussed by seven men, representing different lines of business, at the weekly luncheon Thursday of the Indianapolis Association of Credit Men at the Claypool hotel.

The seven men, each of whom is to speak five minutes, are: A. W. Macy, J. M. Caswell, W. M. Miller, O. J. Fanning, M. E. Needler, H. J. Behrmann and J. W. Fisher.

Invitations to the luncheon have been sent to those in business houses that are not now represented in the association.

U. S. Places No Trade Limits With Russia

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The United States is placing no restrictions upon trade with Russia, according to an announcement made today by the State Department. This is the first time since the trade with Russia is the economic disability of Russia, the announcement said.

The State Department's announcement was made in reply to statements by Washington D. Vanderbilt that there were trade restrictions laid down by this Government.

Boy Goes in Quest of Missing 'Pal'

Franklin Langer, 14, left the home of his father, Frank Langer, 1910 Dexter street, yesterday, to locate his missing "pal," whom he believes absconded with their joint savings. The boy is a note showing that he and his friend, whom he referred to as Snyder, had played "hokey" from school and together had earned $210.

They were to have divided their wages a few days ago, but in the meantime the "pal" had disappeared. The police have been unable to locate either of the boys.

Man Fires Wildly in City's Streets

Special to the Times.
EVANSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 14.—After terrorizing pedestrians by firing promiscuously with an automatic pistol in the streets of Henderson, Ky., today, Hardin Mason was lodged in the Henderson jail. Warren Tillison, a driver, was shot and severely wounded and others had narrow escapes as Mason emptied the weapon. Mason offered no resistance to the police, saying he had been crazed by drink.

Society Woman Wins in Clash With Thug

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 14.—By wielding her umbrella and whacking a thug who accosted her, the Mrs. Arthur C. Sharpe, local society leader, saved $100 which she had collected for a local charity organization.

FAILS TO PAY LEAGUE DUES

Argentina Refuses to Settle in Withdrawal.

GENEVA, Dec. 14.—Argentina today refused to pay the financial assessment from the League of Nations and the matter was referred to the league council.

World disarmament struck more snags in League councils, representing France, notified the league that France could not comply with the disarmament committee's recommendations that national armaments exceed their present armament budgets.

"It will be impractical for France to do so until Germany fulfills the terms of the Versailles treaty," said M. Bourgeois.

The disarmament report pointed out further difficulties. It said that as the United States lacks law to prevent private concerns from exporting arms, other countries would refuse to sign such an agreement because it would result in all such business going to the United States.

Viscount Ishii, head of the Japanese delegation, had previously warned the league that Japan would not reduce its armaments so long as the United States continued to increase her land and sea forces.

counties south of a line drawn through the northern boundary of Marion County also declined to comment upon Mr. Tighe's statement.

When it was pointed out that his statement was being considered a criticism of the prohibition officers, Mr. Tighe declared he had not meant it as such. The prohibition officers spent some time trying to find out how the statement could be substantiated.

Officials who declined to be directly quoted expressed deep resentment. They said that it is as much the duty of the bureau of prohibition as it is of the prohibition officers, Mr. Tighe declared he had not meant it as such. FOUR JUSTICES MAY QUIT JOBS

Harding Would Fill Vacancies
Caused by Retirements.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—It is regarded as very probable in Washington that President-elect Warren G. Harding is going to be confronted with the task of filling three, possibly four, vacancies on the bench of the United States Supreme Court before his administration is very old.

Four sitting members of the court, including the Chief Justice, are eligible for retirement and, if the normal course of events is followed out their places will be filled by the incoming Harding administration. Those eligible for retirement are Chief Justice White, who is 75, and Associate Justices McKenna, 77, Holmes, 79, and Day, 71.

The present makeup of the court is five Republicans and four Democrats. Of the sitting members, three are Wilson appointees, McKenna, Brandeis and Clarke; two are Taft appointees, Vandenberg and Pitney; two are Roosevelt appointees, Holmes and Day, and Justice McKenna was appointed by McKinley.

Chief Justice White was a Democratic Senator from Louisiana when appointed to the bench by Grover Cleveland. He was made chief by President Taft in 1910.

A number of recommendations have already been made to President-elect Harding in anticipation of these expected vacancies.

Standing out pre-eminently among them is the name of William Howard Taft. The ex-President's friends confidently predict that Harding will take the first opportunity to name him to the bench and in case of Chief Justice White's retirement make him chief justice.

Taft is said by his friends to be very anxious to wind up his long and brilliant career in the calm dignity of the supreme bench, aloof from political attacks and partyanship.

Another suggestion that has been made to the President-elect is that of a man scarcely less distinguished—Charles Evans Hughes, who was assigned from the court in 1916 and who came very near being elected President of the United States.

Other names which have been put before Senator Harding as Supreme Court possibilities are those of ex-Senator George R. Sutherland of Utah and Senator John Knight Shields of Tennessee.

GEORGE GIPP DIES OF PNEUMONIA

managers and was expected to sign with the Chicago Cubs for an outfield position on the first year's team. He was a member of the law class at the university and would have graduated next June.

Gipp's death ended a hard battle. The illness, which he contracted only after a desperate struggle, relatives frequently were summoned to the bedside only to be sent away, as Gipp, with the aid of physicians, fought his way through a series of crises.

"He won't quit," the doctors often said. "His girl is remarkable. You would think he was on the football field again."

In addition to his mother, brother and brother, who came here from Laurium, Mich., two weeks ago, Coach Rockne and a number of the Notre Dame football players were at the bedside when the star died.

Gipp died from pneumonia. The official cause given was declared to have been streptococcal throat trouble following an attack of tonsillitis. Gipp was first attacked by tonsillitis following the Notre Dame-Northern game at Evanston, Ill., Nov. 20, after he had entered the game during the last quarter against the doctor's orders, while suffering from a broken shoulder sustained in the game with Indiana a week before.

His final game as a football player was the Northwestern game was Gipp's last athletic appearance with Notre Dame and it was at his own request that he was allowed to play in that contest.

Returning to South Bend he attended a banquet given the Notre Dame team by the University Club, but was forced to leave because of a sudden attack of throat trouble. He went to the hospital Nov. 24, and a few days later pneumonia developed.

Gipp never had played football until he came to Notre Dame. He had been a baseball player and was ambitious to make the college nine. During football practice in the fall of 1916 Gipp appeared on the gridiron and when an oval rolled his way he picked it up and dropped-kicked from the sixty-yard line for a perfect goal. He was asked to try again and he did.

He had little difficulty making the eleven. His ability at the forward pass was one of the football sensations of the Middle West. Gipp hurled the football with the accuracy and ease with which he threw a baseball.

Gipp's longest drop kick was in 1916, when he booted the ball sixty-two yards for a score while playing with the Notre Dame freshman eleven against Kalamazoo (Mich.) Normal. This was the next to the longest drop kick on record, the record being held by Payne of Dakota Wesleyan, who kicked sixty-three yards in 1915.

Arrangements for the funeral, which probably will be held at Laurium, Mich., his parents' home, were to be made late today.

All flags in South Bend, including the flag that floats over the St. Joseph County Courthouse, were at half mast today in honor of Gipp.

Former Governor's Son Faces Slavery Charge

FT. WORTH, Tex., Dec. 14.—W. H. Lindsay of Wichita, Kan., who says he is a nephew of former Mexican Governor and a nephew of Judge Ben R. Lindsay of the Denver juvenile court, is charged by complaint in the United States District Court here today with violation of the Mann white slave act.

Lindsay, it was alleged by Federal officers, following arrests last night, brought pretty 18-year-old Olga Snodgrass, daughter of a Wichita laundry owner, here for immoral purposes.

All Pay Tribute, in the Final Analysis, to Old King Coal

Profiteering in Mine Product
Declared National Disgrace
by Senate Committee.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Profiteering in coal has been largely responsible for the serious building and housing shortage from which the American people are suffering, it was stated in a preliminary report of the Senate Committee on Reconstruction and Production, submitted to the Senate today by Senator Calder, Republican, of New York, its chairman.

"Coal profiteering has continued unchecked by the Department of Justice and is a national disgrace," the report said. "Coal speculation has been permitted to monopolize the transportation facilities of the country, retarding necessary construction, and increasing the basic cost of manufacture and distribution of commodities in general. It has held the home owners, public utilities and industries."

"The housing situation is a menace to the health of the people," the report said. "The operators who apparently control the output of coal, might as well understand that if there is power under the Constitution, as we believe there is, Congress will find a way to exercise that power to prevent the continued plundering of the American people."

"If profiteering in coal is to go on, I for one, harsh as the remedy may be, shall favor taking over the mines."

"There is little question that legislation will be required to straighten out the fuel situation, especially as it affects the average citizen to name but a whole. Senator Edge, Republican, of New Jersey, another member of the committee, said: "I am convinced the coal industry cannot bring order out of the prevailing chaos."

NEW GUARD TO ASK ASSEMBLY FOR $200,000

ing plans for next year. Although no announcement has been made, this is taken as an indication that he has received assurance that he will be re-elected by Governor-elect McCreary as adjutant general.

LOCAL OUTFIT FIRST TO BE INTERESTED
The number of companies of the new guard already are being formed and a number of others have been designated. The first company to be ready for Federal inspection will be the First Infantry Company of Indianapolis, commanded by Capt. Robert J. Axtell, who headed a company of infantry in the Spanish war.

Indiana's quota in the new guard has not been definitely determined by General Smith's staff, but he is believed to be organizing along lines which he believes will be approved.

The plans call for a regiment of field artillery equipped with 155-millimeter guns and completely motorized. Plans also are being made for the formation of a regiment of infantry, including a machine gun company.

FLA. CALLS FOR MOTORIZED OUTFITS.
Other separate organizations, according to present plans, will be a motorized ambulance company, a motorized field hospital, a battalion of engineers, a mounted gun battalion and an aerial squadron.

The aerial squadron is to be the only one in the division of which the Indiana Guard is to have a unit. No definite details have been determined, it is understood that the aerial squadron probably will be formed at Kokomo, where a landing field which is looked upon as the best in the State is situated.

General Smith has already sent requisitions to Washington for motor equipment for the guard.

Work of recruiting is going on rapidly and the general and other officers have been inspecting armory sites. In some cases buildings for armories have already been leased.

Believe Body That of Missing Croesus

GALVESTON, Texas, Dec. 14.—An inquest was to be held today over the body, believed by police to be that of John P. Hamill, missing millionaire of Ottawa, Ont., for whom a nation-wide search had been instituted.

The man was found in a drying condition near the property of the Mexican Petroleum Company of this city about 5 o'clock Monday morning. He died while on the way to a hospital.

By means of a poster in the local police station and telegrams from Ft. Worth police, identification of the body as that of the missing millionaire was made practically certain, according to the police.

Raps Packers' Request for Delay; Sets Date

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Refusing a request for further delay in the litigation involving the rights by which the large packers proposed to dispose of their unrelated industries, including the stockyards, Justice Stafford in Supreme Court of the District of Columbia today set Dec. 29 for argument in the matter.

The court held that too many postponements had already been granted. It is expected that the Government will press its motion that the court appoint trustees to take over the interests of the packing concerns and dispose of them.

BELIEVE GUNMAN KILLED COLSIMO

Police Find New Clues in Chicago Murder.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Police of New York and Chicago are combined in an effort that is expected to bring about within a few days the apprehension of the slayer of James (Big Jim) Colosimo, widely known figure in Chicago's cabaret life. New clues have been discovered, the police declare, regarding the identity and motive of the slayer.

The new evidence, it is alleged, bears out the contention of Rocco De Stefano, Colosimo's attorney, that $100,000 belonging to the slain restaurant proprietor vanished with his death. Police now declare that both revenge and robbery were motives for the slaying.

The slayer of Colosimo, who was shot down in his cafe last May, is believed to have been "gunned" imported from New York and a vigorous search for him has been instituted in that city.

BODY IDENTIFIED; MAN IS SOUGHT

Nude Corpse Believed That of Wealthy Western Woman.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—With identity of the woman whose nude and mutilated body was found in a grove here believed to be that of Mrs. Mary Sadow, a wealthy woman, police today telegraphed to authorities of a nearby city to place under surveillance a suspect whose name has been linked with that of the woman.

The victim, according to police, was Mrs. Mary Sadow, 34, wealthy real estate owner here, who mysteriously vanished last Tuesday.

Jeff Sadow, husband of Mrs. Sadow, asserted he believed the body is that of his wife.

A dentist also identified dental work on the teeth of the victim as that which he had done on Mrs. Sadow's teeth.

Detectives declare they have information indicating Mrs. Sadow had told friends she feared death at the hands of a man whose name and whereabouts are unknown. Mrs. Sadow, who had been recently declared by her husband to have been in the possession of the man under suspicion has disappeared, detectives said.

guilty to pool selling for two of the defendants.

But Judge Pritchard upset the attorney's carefully made plans to get his clients off easy with the cooperation of the police and the prosecutor, and he made Mrs. Sadow $10 and costs and ten days in jail.

Then Hartman appealed both cases to Criminal Court, putting up a $100 cash bond.

Saturday, for some unknown reason, new affidavits were issued causing the arrest of Dold on the charge of keeping a gambling house and affidavits for visiting a gambling house were issued against Andrew Weeks, negro, 1848 Highland place; John Coleman, 1247 North Illinois street; Harry Haugh, Ohio hotel; William Moore, 2301 Cornell avenue, and Melvin Rorer, 581 North Meridian street.

When the case was called for trial today in City Court, Hartman did not appear as attorney for Dold and the five men, but William E. Reley was their attorney. He made a brief statement of the records of the case to the court, pointing out that there were general statutes and special statutes in the law and that the plea of guilty to pool selling had been entered under the special statute last Friday, and that the other charges had been dismissed under the special statutes and therefore his clients had been in jeopardy on the charges before the court, unless the police had some further evidence to offer.

Suggested help admitted to the court that all the gambling evidence he had to offer was that of pool selling, and Judge Pritchard dismissed the charges of visiting a gambling house against five of the defendants and of keeping a gambling house against Dold.

Rotary Club to Give Party for Children

With thirty-five members yet to hear from, there are 182 boys, 168 girls and 34 babies whose fathers are members of the Rotary Club. And yet these children have never been entertained by the club as a whole.

Amends are to be made for that, however, on Tuesday, Dec. 21, at 5:30 p. m., with one of the big events of the year—a children's Christmas party, for Rotarians and their families.

There will be, of course, a program especially adapted to the occasion.

The special feature for the noon luncheon at the Rotary Club today at the Claypool hotel, was an address by "Relation of Agriculture to Business," by John Napier Dyer of Vincennes.

Charred Body Found in Ruins That of Man

Special to the Times.
FT. WAYNE, Ind., Dec. 14.—The portion of the body found on the Merritt Chapman farm, six miles east of Hartford City, which was sent to Ft. Wayne for decomposition of the sex, has been declared to be that of male by Dr. E. W. Rhamy, chemical expert.

The body was found in the ruins of a farm house which had been burned down and mystery surrounds the cause of the fire and the death of the man.

Great Lakes Storm Warnings Sent Out

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The Weather Bureau today issued storm warnings on the Great Lakes and on the Atlantic coast between Cape Hatteras and Eastport, Maine.

CHARITIES SCHOOL BILL DISCUSSED

Institution Heads, Butler and Hines Confer.

In the third conference to be held between the Indiana departments of charities and education and the heads of the various State institutions for children, a discussion of provisions of a bill to place the educational systems of these institutions under the supervision of the Department of Education, was held today. The bill will be presented at the regular session of the Legislature, which convenes Jan. 6.

L. N. Fines, State superintendent of public instruction, Anna W. Butler, secretary of the State Board of Charities, and heads of the boys' school at Plainfield, the Clermont girls' school, school for deaf, and school for the blind, as well as representatives of the various State institutions, attended the conference.

The bill, which may be slightly modified later, is as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, that the State board of education shall visit and inspect the educational work maintained in the State benevolent, charitable and correctional institutions and in the State educational institutions for children. Said visits shall be made by its members or its representatives as often in each year as practicable and it shall inquire into all matters relating to the educational work, the courses of study and modes of instruction, and the text-books used in such educational work of such institutions and make suggestions to the management thereof.

Sec. 2. The board shall report promptly to the Governor the results of such inquiry with such suggestions as appear pertinent. A special report on the educational work of such institutions, with such recommendations as are deemed advisable, shall be embodied in the biennial report of the Department of Public Instruction.

County Assessors to Meet for Conference

More than 150 county assessors and deputy assessors from Indiana counties will be in Indianapolis Wednesday for the annual conference of the officials with the members of the State Tax board and the Governor and Governor-elect. The conference will end Thursday evening.

Fred A. Sims, chairman; Philip Zoercher and John G. Brown, members of the tax board, as well as Governor Goodrich and Warren T. McCreary, Governor-elect, will address the assessors. Operation of the new tax law and general discussion of tax affairs will be discussed in the conference.
