

WOMEN TO ASK MEMBERSHIP ON MORE BOARDS

Look to McCray to Give Them
Representation in State
Appointments.

Hoosier women who have been active in politics for the past several years have taken hope that with the incoming State administration they will be more equally represented in membership on the various state commissions and boards of trustees of Indiana's charitable and correctional institutions. Especially are they hopeful that their sex will be recognized to a greater extent on governing boards of institutions wherein women are the main factor.

Under the Goodrich administration but nine women are members of boards of trustees of the State's many institutions. These are the school for the blind, with two women on the board; board of charities, one woman; child welfare and social insurance commission, one woman; Indiana State Sanitarium for treatment of tuberculosis, one woman, and the Indiana woman's prison, with four women representing the entire membership of the board.

These women, with the dates of expiration of their commission, are: Miss William A. Hough, Goodrich school for blind; Jan. 1, 1922; Miss A. Spinck, Indiana State Sanitarium, March 10, 1922; Miss Newson, Columbus, child welfare commission, March 1, 1921; Mrs. Alton Fellows Bacon, Evansville, child welfare commission, March 1, 1921; Mrs. Nevada Duncan, Cloverdale, Indiana State Sanitarium, May 24, 1921; Mrs. Joseph B. Keeling, Indianapolis, woman's prison, April 10, 1923; Charlotte J. Dunn, Indianapolis, woman's prison, April 10, 1923; Margaret Neely, Martinsville, woman's prison, April 10, 1923; Alice Wilkie Paynter, Sullivan, woman's prison, April 10, 1923.

Several commissions of male members of the boards of trustees of these institutions, will expire in 1921. It is this fact that leads women to believe they will be recognized to a greater extent when the time comes for the handing out of appointments.

Commissions which will expire in 1921 are held by Thomas A. Clifton, Covington, School for the Blind, Jan. 1; Demarsh Brown, Indianapolis, Board of Charities, March 1; John H. Holliday, Indianapolis, Board of Charities (commission now expired); Wilmer Christian, Indianapolis, Village for Epileptics, March 15; Charles H. Goss, Indianapolis, Indiana State Sanitarium, John T. Adolph Seidensticker, Indianapolis, Board of Pardons, Jan. 1; Thomas E. Daily, Indianapolis, Board of Pardons, March 22; Joseph L. Bayard Jr., Vincennes, Southern Indiana Hospital for Insane, Jan. 1; E. S. Roberts, Madison, Southeastern Hospital for Insane, Aug. 1.

It is deemed highly probable that many of them will be replaced with women, in addition to the appointment of women to succeed those whose commissions will expire next year. Two facts give rise to these suppositions.

The first reason is that Governor-elect McCray has indicated that he desires more women connected with the administration of State affairs. The appointment of Miss Ada Bush as his private secretary has taken what is considered a big step toward carrying out this desire.

The second reason is political expediency. Republican politicians have not been unmindful of the sources of their great landslide into power in both State and Nation that the women's vote added materially in Republican success Nov. 2. And it is now likewise that the women are not going to be content to sit idly by for four years, just for the chance to again exercise their right of franchise and not desiring any of the political spoils.

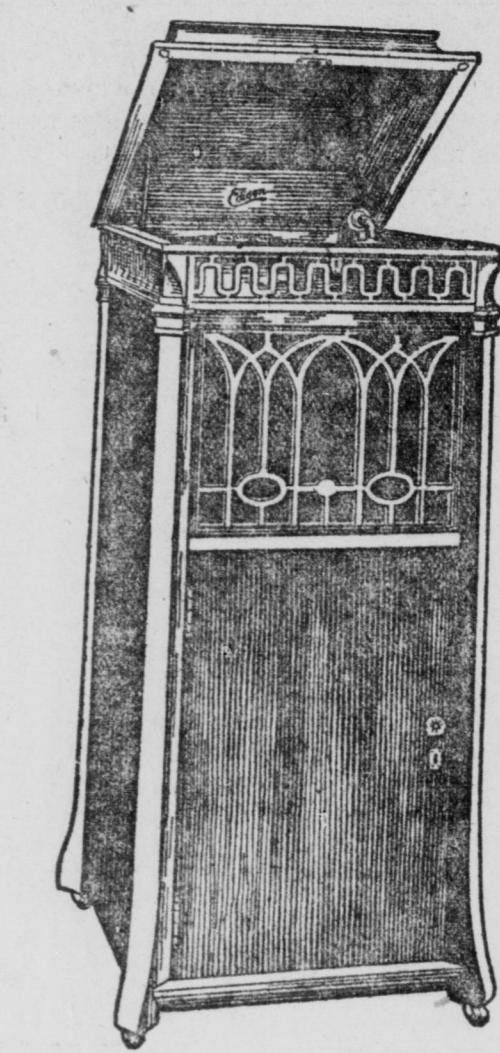

They are going to demand a place in the State administration machinery, and are going to insist that they be heard

The politicians know that unless the women are given some choice political plums they will voice their protest in four years in more ample terms than a resolution of this argument.

Women are going to demand greater representation on boards of trustees of institutions wherein women are inmates. That is that of a successor to Adolph Seidensticker on the board of pardons. This is one of the most logical places for a woman, it is said, because of the humane side of the board's work. Some objection has been raised because it is said

Protect the Children.
Healthy Blood and a Healthy System is a Child's best protection against Colds, Grip and Influenza. Give them GROVE'S IRON TONIC SYRUP. 75c—Advertisement.

There are several of these places where women are confined, such as the various hospitals for the treatment of insane. There are at least nine State boards on which women are not represented. These include the boards for the Village for Epileptics, State Penal Farm, State Prison, Board of Pardons, Indiana Reformatory, Southern Indiana Hospital for Insane, Southeastern Hospital for Insane, Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans Home.
