UTILITIES SEE LIGHT AHEAD

Say Drop in Prices Will Lessen Burdens.

Great optimism in the belief that prices are already on the decline or have reached their peak now, in public utility problems, is expressed in the annual report of the Public Service Commission. Belief is also expressed by the commission that coal costs will become less burdensome during the coming year.

A list of materials, including copper, which is used in large quantities, have recently taken a drop, but several other commodities, including wages, remain high, according to the report.

While wages remain high, the commission says the labor obtained is more efficient, due to the fact that men are more careful of their work, now that there are more men than jobs. The fact that employers are able to pick their men, instead of taking what they can get, has made for efficiency, the commission says.

Falls Dead When Cop Reaches for Pocket

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 16.—Mrs. Catherine Cotter, proprietor of a cafeteria, died of heart disease when she saw a deputy constable who was serving a garishman on her son reach for his pocket, believing he intended to draw a revolver, a coroner's jury found late Wednesday. The jury recommended investigation of the "unjustifiable conduct" of the officer.

DOG HILL PARAGRAPHS

The Tickville town marshal has about made up his mind to resign, as there is no place to stay at night since the livery stable went out of business.

Salom Barlow, our eccentric banjo picker, looked up and spoke to a person yesterday.
