

BOWLING

The Marquette and Kramer and Beechem were the feature performers in the Knights of Columbus loop. The Marquette rolled three 900 totals, one for the high count of 991, to win three games from the La Salles, while Beechem topped the single game award with a 267 score rolled as an eye-opener.

Kramer may not have ripped up any records, but he saved the bacon for his team by connecting for 224 in the third game. He also had a 200 score in the second game and just barely lost out in the first.

Fox got lucky and drew a 230 tally in his second game with the Columbians. He couldn't do it again if he owned the drives and had 'em in his own front room.

The Columbians didn't go at all bad, winning three games from the Isabelles without the least bit of trouble.

Jim Sheridan and Jess Gavin sent the Santa Marias up over the 900 line with a brace of big counts in the third round.

The Santos "clashed" the Ninas out of three victories. The Pintas hung it on the Genos three times in a row.

Brackett's 101 was the best single score posted in the Sutherland Sunday School division, which is not according to schedule. The Sutherlands are generally due.

The Ushers made use of Brackett's scores to win two from the Singers, after starting with a loss. The Deacons thumped the Parsons.

It was also an off night for the Beam shooting with the St. Paul Hawks, and one with the Zion Eagles.

Here's that Nicholson fellow of the Nicholson team in the Wholesale loop again. He gets another brace of 200 counts.

Staffen of the K.-W.-Bass shot a powerfully mean stick, but came up for real distinction only once.

Bidwell couldn't do any better than 190, while Hacker was down to 192 and 191.

The Turbines of the Midwest loop didn't get loads and loads of wood, but what they got they can be thankful to Grimes. He cracked the maples hard every game and finally captured the 213 score that won the marbles.

Streeter of the Stop Shocks stopped after he had shocked the wood for a 200 score.

The Bemis Baggers were there with the weekly contributions, Goss outguessing the rest of the crowd and copping the big score.

Reinking didn't hit like he generally does, but he managed to get his share.

The Cottons beat the Bieschers by one stick in the rub game of their scrap.

The Solvents of the Eli Lilly organization solved the Liquid Blands in a hurry.

Hollenburgh of the Solvents let 'em all take a squirt at his 220.

Roth of the Croco-Quinines was just two pins behind Hollenburgh in the one game race. An 890 total by the Cocos was worth the team ribbon.

Woody Machines took two games from the Jones-Whittaker team in a special match.

WELLY PENNY CAPTAIN.
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—Rex D. Wray of Monmouth, Ill., was, Thursday, elected captain of the University of Pennsylvania football team.

Future Intersectional Gridiron Battles Will Clear Title Differences

Intersectional football is going to grow in popularity from year to year until, before so very many seasons have passed, it will be possible to select a national champion as a result of comparative scores.

As things stand now, with the Big Three in the East and the Big Ten in the Middle West playing mostly among themselves and meeting no teams that can furnish a basis for comparisons, such a thing is impossible. But the day is coming.

This year there were many interesting intersectional contests. The games between Harvard and Centre and Virginia, Yale and West Virginia, Princeton and West Virginia, Michigan and Tulane, Dartmouth and Washington, Nebraska against Washington State, Rutgers and Penn State and Notre Dame against the Army were games that enlisted interest in widely-scattered sections.

The Ohio State-California game at Pasadena on New Year's day will be watched with keen interest, and it promises to be quite a contest. California has a wonderfully strong eleven. It ran all over Washington State, which team defeated Nebraska, and in Ohio State it will meet the best eleven in the Big Ten. The schedule makers at Harvard, Yale, Princeton and some schools in the Western Conference are ready to contract for big intersectional games, and once the custom is established football will profit by it.

New Normal Leader

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Dec. 16.—Curt Letsinger of Jasonville, Ind., was elected captain of the 1921 Indiana State Normal football eleven Thursday at a meeting of the letter men of the school. Letsinger played as tackle.

It was announced that De Pauw, Franklin, Hanover, Eastern Illinois State Normal and Rose Polytechnic were included on the 1921 grid schedule.

Basket Sectional Meet at Mt. Comfort Carded for Independent Quints

A sectional meet of the Indiana Amateur Independent Basket-Ball Association will be held at Mt. Comfort for the teams in Marion County outside Indianapolis, the date being set for Feb. 6. The tournament at Mt. Comfort will be under the supervision of Cleo Dunham of that city, who has proved to be one of the leading basket-ball managers in the central part of Indiana.

Wayne Emmelmann of Indianapolis, who is at the head of the association, announces that twenty district meets will be held over the state, and the winners of these sectional tournaments will play in the final games at Indianapolis Feb. 25, 26 and 27.

Any teams in the above-mentioned district desiring to receive information concerning the district meet at Mt. Comfort are requested to write Wayne Emmelmann, 219 West Washington street, in Indianapolis.

THE CHESS WIZARD

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Jose R. Capablanca of Havana, chess champion, played thirty-five opponents simultaneously at the Manhattan Chess Club here last night, and after three and a half hours of play finished with a total score of thirty-two victories and three drawn games.

Lee Fohl, Former Boss of Cleveland, May Get Task of Rebuilding Browns

It looks very much as though Lee Fohl, former manager of the Indians, will manage the Browns next season. He was coach of the St. Louis pitchers last season.

Fohl ought to be able to lead the Browns out of the rut. While he failed to give Cleveland a pennant he lifted the team to the front ranks.

Fohl attracted the attention of big league clubs by his success as a developer of players while managing the Waterbury team in the Eastern league. He was called to Cleveland by Somers, then the owner of the club, to be coach of the Indian staff. He became manager of the Indians May 22, 1915, and reigned until July 19, 1919.

The team finished seventh in 1915, sixth in 1916, third in 1917 and were runners-up in 1918. When Fohl resigned in midseason, 1919, the Tribe were in third place, five and a half games behind the leaders.

Fohl began his career as a catcher for Pittsburgh in 1902 and then played with Des Moines, Cincinnati, Youngstown, Akron, Columbus and Charleston before going to Waterbury.

If the public insists on pre-war prices, then everything must fall, including wages and living conditions

There is no doubt of it—every one knows we have been going through a period of falling prices, due largely to the fact that the public has not been buying. But how far do you want prices to drop? Do you want them to fall so low that WAGES must be radically reduced? Do you want to have to lower our American standards of living? If not, we had all better begin buying again.

Kahn prices are as low as they can be made, consistent with present conditions

Christmas Specials

Bring in your old coat and vest and let us see if we can match it from our big stock of odd trousers. Many of these are of suiting fabrics. All miscellaneous trousers that sold for from $10 to $17.50 are grouped into three special lots.

LEVINSON

for Christmas

EACH CHRISTMAS we issue Gift Bond Certificates which entitle the bearer to any piece of headgear or pair of gloves in the house whose price is that on the face of the certificate. This is the most simple, most practical and least worrisome method of fulfilling a gift obligation. At the same time you have the satisfaction of knowing that the recipient has the liberty of personal selection. A man can't have too many hats or caps, so have no fear of giving him something he doesn't need. And the fact that it comes from Harry Levinson, the foremost hatter in the middle west, gives it his final stamp of approval.

Attention, Employers!

LAST year many employers took advantage of our Gift Bond Certificates for the male employee, inasmuch as it eliminates a lot of detail work. These bonds are issued in any amount desired. They are redeemable at any time for gloves, hats or caps. Just mail in your list, together with a check covering the amount to be spent, and we will prepare and deliver the certificates to you.
