

Street Car Co. Is Granted 1 Cent Transfer

EX-GRATIS STREET CAR COP CAUGHT WITH WOMEN FOLLOWING GUN PLAY

George Winkler Suspended—Marie Jenkins, 22, and Iris Ellis, 22, Facing Child Charges After Party.

Following an all-night party, in which liquor is said to have played a prominent part, a shooting affray occurred at 2222 Schurmann avenue at 5:40 o'clock today, which resulted in the arrest of two women and the suspension of a policeman.

George Winkler, former sergeant of the morals squad, who was in the house with the two women.

It was Winkler's revolver that did the shooting, but stories of who used it differ.

The party is said to have been held at Jake Neubauer's place, New Jersey and McCarty streets, and Winkler is said to have taken the women home in a taxi.

The trouble occurred, according to police reports of the affray, when John W. Billingsley, 2018 Schurmann avenue, owner of the property at 2222 Schurmann avenue, went to that house and found it to have been attacked by Winkler.

Winkler was beaten badly, but the police reports of the affray are decidedly more than that told by the women after their arrest.

The women are Marie Jenkins, 22, and Iris Ellis, 22. The former is charged with neglect of her child and the latter with contributing to the delinquency of a child and with shooting in the city limits.

Billingsley is said to have been hit on the head with a brick.

The police received a complaint from Wesley Jenkins, 1818 West Ohio street, husband of Marie Jenkins, two days ago, demanding that his wife, who was staying at 2222 Schurmann avenue, be arrested.

The man said his wife lived there with another man.

Lieutenant Cox was sent to investigate and called at the house Thursday night. He was met by a man who said his name was Edward Ellis and that he had just moved into the house Monday, having lived at 1044 Laurel street, and that he lived there with his wife.

Lieutenant Cox did not know the Jenkins woman and the man declared he had never heard of a woman by that name.

He made a report to Chief of Police Jeremiah Kinney and yesterday the Jenkins appeared at police headquarters and made a second complaint. He was told to swear out affidavits against his wife and the "other man."

Another lieutenant went to the Schurmann avenue address last night to investigate again but the place was dark.

LABOR PLANS TO MEET MOVES IN LEGISLATION

Anti-Strike Measures in Congress to Have Opposition of A. F. of L.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Development of the next few weeks will furnish the answer as to whether the American Federation of Labor and other big labor organizations will do to meet anti-strike legislation, the open shop drive of many big employers and wage reductions.

It is not likely that the law will be passed, it was said.

Moves so far include: Railroad Brotherhood heads are meeting here, and it is understood that new attacks on the Esch-Cummings law may be launched.

Congressmen and Senators friendly to labor have met with the Brotherhood heads and other labor leaders to discuss anti-strike legislation and other moves hostile to labor.

The fight against anti-strike legislation will come up today or Monday, when Senator McPherson will move to reconsider passage of the Pointdexter bill, making strikes that interfere with interstate or foreign commerce felonies punishable by heavy fines and imprisonment.

Not only is the right of railroad employees involved in the present fight, but the whole value of the La Follette senators' act is admitted to be at stake. The Pointdexter bill, passed unanimously on Thursday, while only three or four Senators were in their seats, extends its anti-strike provisions to the docks, warehouses and ships used as agencies of foreign commerce.

La Follette is prepared, he said, to fight to protect the seamen's law as well as to prevent the writing into statutes of such a broad anti-strike provision against workers in interstate commerce.

Joined with him are many Senators who regard such legislation as unwelcome. The Senate defeated the anti-strike provisions of the Cummins law, which later were rejected, sentiment on the subject has undergone a change.

Germany Owes U. S. for Watching Rhine

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Germany is considerably behind in her payment for the upkeep of the American army of occupation on the Rhine, it was revealed by the War Department today.

Up to June 30 of this year, the cost of maintaining the American forces on the Rhine has been $237,065,084.75. Under the terms of the armistice, Germany is obligated to reimburse the United States for the upkeep of these troops, but to date has paid only $34,724,058.78, leaving a net balance due the United States of $202,341,026.00, according to War Department figures.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Police today abandoned the theory that Mary Caldwell, 18, had been kidnapped after Martin F. Beck, conductor and Harry Nixon, motorist of a Toledo Interurban, told detectives that he and his wife, who were driving their car to Toledo Wednesday night, had seen Caldwell disappear leaving a note saying "I am being taken away by four men in danger."

The Caldwell girl disappeared leaving a note saying "I am being taken away by four men in danger."

The Caldwell girl disappeared leaving a note saying "I am being taken away by four men in danger."

The Caldwell girl disappeared leaving a note saying "I am being taken away by four men in danger."

The Caldwell girl disappeared leaving a note saying "I am being taken away by four men in danger."

The Caldwell girl disappeared leaving a note saying "I am being taken away by four men in danger."

The Caldwell girl disappeared leaving a note saying "I am being taken away by four men in danger."

The Caldwell girl disappeared leaving a note saying "I am being taken away by four men in danger."

The Caldwell girl disappeared leaving a note saying "I am being taken away by four men in danger."

JEWELS TORN OFF SOCIETY WOMAN IN N. Y.

Crime Wave Crests Self in Daring Robbery and Man Shooting.

GUN PERMITS ISSUED

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—With one more man shot by a bandit and a woman taxicab passenger robbed, New York's crime wave continued today.

Mrs. Thomas Edgar, wife of a prominent physician, was held up while driving through Central Park in a taxicab. Two men stopped the cab and robbed Mrs. Edgar of all her valuables, tearing her diamond rings from her fingers. Her total loss was estimated at $2,000.

In the other hold-up Carl Tiedmann, an automobile salesman, was shot when he refused to submit to being robbed. The highwayman escaped. Tiedmann is in a hospital, where it is said he probably will not recover.

Citizens are confronted by a statement by Mayor Hylan, in which he said a great criminal army was preying on the whole country and that bank managers should be armed, hence does not look for the police to make any large sums of money to be transferred and other precautions taken.

The mayor instructed the police department to issue permits for firearms to every first-class citizen.

Practically every jewelry store in the city has posted armed guards at its doors.

The Women's Republican Club, through Mrs. James G. Weitz, president, wrote Mayor Hylan urging him to call out the militia. Judge Rosakli from the bench suggested organization of a citizen's vigilance committee.

Meanwhile police were awaiting receipt of a resolution of the Sterling Silver Manufacturers' Association asking better police protection.

Police were hunting the bandits who murdered Edwin W. Andrews, jeweler, in his office, the men who held up four persons in the Astor Hotel and the slayers who shot an unidentified man in the street in Harlem.

Lucille Brooks, John Kavanagh and Nicholas Laresch are under arrest in connection with the killing of Police Lieutenant Horton, who tried to jail his automobile after a hold-up. Michael Laresch was held as a material witness.

The note written by O'Brien before he ended his life, about midnight, with a 45-calibre army automatic pistol, follows in part:

"Only a coward would do what I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

"I am doing, but I guess I am one. With all my war record, I am just like the rest of the people in this world, a little bit of a coward."

And to John J. O'Brien, who was shot in the chest, he wrote:

DO YOUR X-MAS SHOPPING!

JEWETT ASKS 1-MAN CONTROL OF INSTITUTIONS

County and City Buildings Would Be Consolidated by Plan.

A plan to consolidate every county and city charitable, correctional and medical institution under the management of one high grade institutional manager and a board of trustees, was proposed by Mayor Jewett today.

The plan would be to dispose of the present institutions and the inmates housed in new buildings to be located on a large farm where produce to support the inmates could be raised.

The mayor announced that he will seek to have a bill authorizing this passed at the coming session of the State Legislature.

The proposal as outlined by the mayor, is similar to that under which Cleveland, O., operates its institutions. It has been found to be far more economical than the old system of separate buildings and separate management, he said.

The mayor stated that he believes hundreds of thousands of dollars can be saved by eliminating the expense of separate management of each of the county and city institutions and the installation of combined purchasing for all. Many of the evils which have cropped out in the management of the hospitals, jails, insane asylums and other institutions, he said, would be done away with.

The plan would be to consolidate every county and city charitable, correctional and medical institution under the management of one high grade institutional manager and a board of trustees, was proposed by Mayor Jewett today.

The plan would be to dispose of the present institutions and the inmates housed in new buildings to be located on a large farm where produce to support the inmates could be raised.

The mayor announced that he will seek to have a bill authorizing this passed at the coming session of the State Legislature.

The proposal as outlined by the mayor, is similar to that under which Cleveland, O., operates its institutions. It has been found to be far more economical than the old system of separate buildings and separate management, he said.

The mayor stated that he believes hundreds of thousands of dollars can be saved by eliminating the expense of separate management of each of the county and city institutions and the installation of combined purchasing for all. Many of the evils which have cropped out in the management of the hospitals, jails, insane asylums and other institutions, he said, would be done away with.

The plan would be to consolidate every county and city charitable, correctional and medical institution under the management of one high grade institutional manager and a board of trustees, was proposed by Mayor Jewett today.

The plan would be to dispose of the present institutions and the inmates housed in new buildings to be located on a large farm where produce to support the inmates could be raised.

The mayor announced that he will seek to have a bill authorizing this passed at the coming session of the State Legislature.

The proposal as outlined by the mayor, is similar to that under which Cleveland, O., operates its institutions. It has been found to be far more economical than the old system of separate buildings and separate management, he said.

The mayor stated that he believes hundreds of thousands of dollars can be saved by eliminating the expense of separate management of each of the county and city institutions and the installation of combined purchasing for all. Many of the evils which have cropped out in the management of the hospitals, jails, insane asylums and other institutions, he said, would be done away with.

The plan would be to consolidate every county and city charitable, correctional and medical institution under the management of one high grade institutional manager and a board of trustees, was proposed by Mayor Jewett today.

The plan would be to dispose of the present institutions and the inmates housed in new buildings to be located on a large farm where produce to support the inmates could be raised.

The mayor announced that he will seek to have a bill authorizing this passed at the coming session of the State Legislature.

The proposal as outlined by the mayor, is similar to that under which Cleveland, O., operates its institutions. It has been found to be far more economical than the old system of separate buildings and separate management, he said.

The mayor stated that he believes hundreds of thousands of dollars can be saved by eliminating the expense of separate management of each of the county and city institutions and the installation of combined purchasing for all. Many of the evils which have cropped out in the management of the hospitals, jails, insane asylums and other institutions, he said, would be done away with.

The plan would be to consolidate every county and city charitable, correctional and medical institution under the management of one high grade institutional manager and a board of trustees, was proposed by Mayor Jewett today.

The plan would be to dispose of the present institutions and the inmates housed in new buildings to be located on a large farm where produce to support the inmates could be raised.

The mayor announced that he will seek to have a bill authorizing this passed at the coming session of the State Legislature.

The proposal as outlined by the mayor, is similar to that under which Cleveland, O., operates its institutions. It has been found to be far more economical than the old system of separate buildings and separate management, he said.

The mayor stated that he believes hundreds of thousands of dollars can be saved by eliminating the expense of separate management of each of the county and city institutions and the installation of combined purchasing for all. Many of the evils which have cropped out in the management of the hospitals, jails, insane asylums and other institutions, he said, would be done away with.

The plan would be to consolidate every county and city charitable, correctional and medical institution under the management of one high grade institutional manager and a board of trustees, was proposed by Mayor Jewett today.

The plan would be to dispose of the present institutions and the inmates housed in new buildings to be located on a large farm where produce to support the inmates could be raised.

The mayor announced that he will seek to have a bill authorizing this passed at the coming session of the State Legislature.

The proposal as outlined by the mayor, is similar to that under which Cleveland, O., operates its institutions. It has been found to be far more economical than the old system of separate buildings and separate management, he said.

The mayor stated that he believes hundreds of thousands of dollars can be saved by eliminating the expense of separate management of each of the county and city institutions and the installation of combined purchasing for all. Many of the evils which have cropped out in the management of the hospitals, jails, insane asylums and other institutions, he said, would be done away with.

The plan would be to consolidate every county and city charitable, correctional and medical institution under the management of one high grade institutional manager and a board of trustees, was proposed by Mayor Jewett today.

The plan would be to dispose of the present institutions and the inmates housed in new buildings to be located on a large farm where produce to support the inmates could be raised.

The mayor announced that he will seek to have a bill authorizing this passed at the coming session of the State Legislature.

The proposal as outlined by the mayor, is similar to that under which Cleveland, O., operates its institutions. It has been found to be far more economical than the old system of separate buildings and separate management, he said.

The mayor stated that he believes hundreds of thousands of dollars can be saved by eliminating the expense of separate management of each of the county and city institutions and the installation of combined purchasing for all. Many of the evils which have cropped out in the management of the hospitals, jails, insane asylums and other institutions, he said, would be done away with.

WOMAN FACING MURDER COURT WITHOUT BAIL

Two Sons of F. A. Myers, Slain by Wife, in Custody of Policewoman.

FUSS OVER BOYS HALTED

Holding that Byron and Arthur Myers, sons of Frederick A. Myers, photographer, who was shot fatally by his wife, Mrs. Myers, should remain in the temporary custody of Harry Hildebrand and his wife, Margaret Hildebrand, a policewoman, until Mrs. Myers is tried in Criminal Court on a charge of first degree murder, Judge Solon J. Carter of Superior Court, Room 3, today entered an order which will quiet for a while the litigation over the custody of the boys.

Judge Carter stated that he desired the two boys kept away from the influence of the murder trial and of attorneys until it is necessary for them to appear as witnesses.

Judge Carter called the Hildebrands to his office and gave them specific instructions regarding the care of the boys.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

The court took action shortly after the Marion County grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Myers in Criminal Court, charging her with first degree murder.

Judge James A. Collins has said that he will not permit the court to fix no bail. Mrs. Myers is in jail and was not present in Superior Court when her intervening petition for the custody of the two boys was up for hearing.

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head Service Call

Author, Named Jury Commissioner, to Head