Declare Blockade by Italians Has Already Caused Acute Distress to Inhabitants.

ROME, Dec. 24.—Italy dreaded a civil war today as the possible result of Gabriele d'Annunzio's retention of Fiume.

Troops from the regular Italian army surrounded the city, enforcing the blockade order by the government.

Hundreds of citizens left Fiume. They brought stories of acute distress caused already by the blockade. There is not enough food in the city to supply the fifty thousand inhabitants for more than two weeks, they said.

The poet commander has lost a number of men by desertion. Officers in his regency also were preparing to leave before actual fighting begins. A number of houses were searched because the poet feared a revolt.

COLLINS ORDERS GRAND JURY BACK

Prosecutor's Request Granted —9 Indictments Returned.

A session was sprung in the Marion County Criminal Court this morning, when Judge Charles Adams requested James A. Collins not to finally discharge the grand jury, but instruct that body to report at 9 o'clock Monday morning because "important matters may be waiting for consideration."

The grand jurors returned nine indictments Friday morning and a report on conditions at the Marion County Jail. The jurors were prepared to ask Judge Collins to finally discharge them as a new jury is empaneled on Jan. 1.

Prosecutor Adams refused to intimate his reasons for requesting the jurors to report on holiday week, but said that "some important matters might develop."

ADAMS ACT MAY BRING SENSATION.

It is understood that Mr. Adams has a definite matter under consideration and that it might be of a sensational nature. Judge Collins granted the request of Mr. Adams. Ralph Jones, deputy prosecutor in charge of the grand jury, stated that the jurors intended this report to be the final one for the term and if an additional report is made Monday it will be supplemental to the report already submitted.

Among the indictments returned is one of unusual importance, and as the defendant is not under arrest, Judge Collins refused to permit the indictment to be made public at this time. It is understood that efforts will be made to arrest the defendant in this case by Monday afternoon.

Judge Collins permitted to be made public an indictment against William Coyle, 332 South Meridian street, according to the address on the indictment, charging Coyle with attempting to obstruct the execution of a certain subpoena issued by County Clerk Richard Sipe to Frank Osterland and his daughter Lillian of 908 Charles street, in the case of the State of Indiana against William Coyle, charged with assaulting a girl under 16 years of age.

CERTAIN WITNESSES TO REMAIN ABSENT.

It is specifically charged that Coyle wouldfully told Osterland and his daughter that the case in which they were to appear as witnesses against him had been dismissed, and also that he had paid Osterland $30 for the purpose of preventing Osterland and his daughter from appearing in Criminal Court as witnesses against him.

The facts were known during Coyle's trial in Criminal Court when Osterland admitted that he had received $50. Judge Collins stated that Coyle was under bond in City Court and it was not necessary to wait until he had been arrested to issue the indictment.

Others indicted are as follows: John Emrick, rape; James Potter, assault with intent to kill; Evans Coffey, burglary and grand larceny; and Charles F. Gordon, grand larceny.

In the reports on Jolietta, the county jail and the poor farm, the jurors held that the managements were satisfactory, but complained of the plumbing in all of the places visited. The cost supply was held adequate in all institutions, and the food was found to be good and plentiful. Some minor improvements were suggested in the county jail and the poor farm and Jolietta. The jurors were not satisfied with fire protection at the poor farm.

$81,057.10 PRICE FOR PAVEMENT

Virginia Avenue Contention Settled by Agreement.

The board of public works and attorneys for the Premier Construction Company today reached an agreement in a controversy over payment for the pavement of Virginia avenue between Louisville and Maryland streets, which has been a bone of contention for several weeks.

The contract price for the pavement, which was made with wooden block, was $82,000. However, there were several changes in the specifications after the contract was let, considerable work being eliminated and some added. When the matter of final payment came up several weeks ago, the Premier Company held out for $81,000, while City Civil Engineer Frank C. Lingenfelter refused to approve any payment above $70,000.

The company threatened to sue for the original contract price of $82,000. After several conferences during the past week, the board finally agreed today to pay $81,057.10. The expense will be met out of track elevation funds.

Frank C. Lingenfelter, city engineer, reported to the commissioners that he had ordered traffic over the Kentucky avenue bridge limited to three tons because of its unsafe condition. Interruption of cars still run over the bridge, but the commissioners will take up the subject of rerouting them.

NESTED FOR STEALING SHOES

Negro Tells Judge Hunger Drove Him to Act.

Allen Williams, negro, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to serve ten days in jail for stealing a pair of shoes from Ernest Arnett, negro, 812 Indiana avenue, in City Court today.

"Why did you steal the shoes?" asked Judge Charles Williams.

"Because I was hungry, judge," explained the defendant.

"Judge," exclaimed a young woman who purchased the shoes at Louis Caplan's shoe store, "the shoes were not all he got. In giving him the money I got a $20 bill mixed up in the money I paid him for the shoes and I want that money back."

"If you want the $20 back you had better ask him," said the judge, "marking the fine and sentence on the affidavit as Detective Sneed explained that the defendant had been convicted two weeks ago of stealing bicycles."

mother, Mrs. Myers lifted her tear-stained face and kissed the boys many times. The brother, who was crying, embraced her. The brother, who was crying, embraced her. The brother, who was crying, embraced her.

Neighbors and friends, who crowded the courtroom, rushed to the counsel table and congratulated Mrs. Myers. Many women and men were in tears.

Finally Mrs. Myers sank into a chair, and little Arthur crawled upon her lap and sobbed. "Oh, mamma, mamma, we are going to have the prettiest Christmas tree. Oh, you can be there. Oh, mamma, mamma."

Byron, whose eyes were red from crying, said: "This is all the Christmas I want. Just you."

As soon as Mrs. Myers was able to leave the courtroom, the two boys, accompanied by their guardian, Harry R. Hildebrand, 1824 North Alabama street, appeared before Judge Solon Carter of Superior Court, room 3, who has jurisdiction over the case of the boys.

The court was requested to permit the two boys to go to the home of their stepmother.

MOTHER MAY VISIT STEPMOTHERS. Judge Carter stated that his orders were that the two boys remain at the Hildebrand home, as first stated by the court.

The action of the Criminal Court does not affect the orders of this court," stated Judge Carter.

Later he stated that there was nothing in his order to prevent Mrs. Myers from visiting the Hildebrand home. There was candy of different color combinations done up in tawny pink and blue socks. There was stick candy, of which the chief feature was the "Pageant of the Toys."

The pageant was arranged and staged by Miss Gertrude Hacker of the Chicago studio.

A statement from the Christmas clearing house today revealed the wide range of gifts in taking in Indianapolis on the eve of Christmas. It is as follows:

The Christmas clearing house at noon today shows over 1,500 families who have been helped by the clearing house. The clearing house is taking in Indianapolis on the eve of Christmas. It is as follows:

This is the largest registration for several years and shows a growing desire for Indianapolis to extend at Christmas time a full share of its blessings to its less fortunate neighbors.

The clearing house is taking in Indianapolis on the eve of Christmas. It is as follows:

Other than Christmas dinners there have been several very fine gifts to the clearing house. The clearing house is taking in Indianapolis on the eve of Christmas. It is as follows:

Eugene C. Foster, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce through their very substantial gifts have provided a happy Christmas for several hundred families. The clearing house is taking in Indianapolis on the eve of Christmas. It is as follows:

He stated that Indianapolis should extend this splendid spirit of brotherhood and charity to the less fortunate through the year, as the needs of the poor are just as acute at other seasons and are constantly needing the fine expression and these gifts from the citizens of our city.

The municipal celebration of Christmas opened last night with a community program around a Christmas tree in the 2600 block in West Michigan street, under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Sneed, who is the director of the department of the public schools.

Tonight there will be community celebrations around big Christmas trees in Irvington, Fountain square, Brightwood, Haugsville, Riley playground and at 2800 North New Jersey street, Eleventh and West streets, in front of the Spadorck library and at the north plaza of the Federal building.

Sixty young women from the city recreation school at Lauder Memorial will sing carols at the Union Station, the Terminal Station, all the downtown hotels and at the Federal building this evening. After singing at the Federal building they will divide into smaller groups and visit some of the neighborhood trees.

BRASS QUARTETTES ON CITY TOUR. At 4 o'clock tomorrow morning twelve brass quartettes will start from downtown to visit every corner of the city, heralding the approach of Christmas by playing the strains of the old familiar Christmas songs, such as "Silent Night" and "O Come All Ye Faithful."

The various civic, church and lodge societies in charge of the neighborhood ceremonies plan to have some kind of program at the corner of the city, including New Year's Eve.

The mahogany furniture and the clanking glass is a sound unfamiliar in the old downtown hotel bar this year where hundreds of toys and pounds and pounds of every kind of candy are stacked in readiness for the Elks' annual Christmas party for the "kiddies."

Judging from the appearance of the long room which is packed to overflowing, Santa Claus filled a wholesale order for the Elks this year, and he evidently didn't miss anything from a rag doll to a train of cars.

TAX INCREASES 31 TO 194 PER CENT

Computed From Figures of State Board.

Increases in taxes to be paid in 1921 over those paid in 1919, the rates for which were set the year before the State tax law became effective, range from 31 to 194 per cent in most of the taxing units of the county, according to calculations made on the basis of figures given out by the State Board of Tax Commissioners today.

The figures were given out for the purpose of showing a reduction in the tax rates, which undoubtedly has been brought about. The reduction, however, resulted from enormous increases in property valuations and not through any reductions in revenues.

Where the tax board made its error in setting out its rate proposals for the benefit of legislators and others was to set out the tax rate which would be necessary under the 1918 valuation to raise the revenue to be collected in 1921 on the 1920 rate and valuations.

These theoretical figures are in many cases more than double the rates for 1918. The proportion of the rate in 1918 to the rate which would have existed this year if valuations were not increased is exactly the same as the proportion of taxes paid on the 1918 figures to the taxes to be paid on the basis of the present figures.

Therefore, in order to ascertain the percentage of increase, all that is necessary is to subtract the 1918 rate from the 1920 rate and divide the difference by the 1918 rate.

On this basis some of the principal taxing units will pay additional taxes next year as follows: Franklin township, 54 per cent; Perry township, 80 per cent; Pike township, 31 per cent; Wayne township, 80 per cent; Washington township, 112 per cent; Warren township, 62 per cent; Lawrence township, 45 per cent; Decatur township, 57 per cent; Center township, 150 per cent; Beech Grove (Franklin township), 28 per cent; Beech Grove (Center township), 170 per cent; Beech Grove (Perry township), 60 per cent; Beech Grove (Warren township), 52 per cent; Broad Ripple, 72 per cent; Indianapolis (Wayne township), 144 per cent; Indianapolis (Washington township), 104 per cent; Indianapolis (Warren township), 115 per cent; Indianapolis (Center township), 90 per cent.

Provisions handed out in each container included flour, canned goods, apples, potatoes, coffee, cookies, tea, sugar and other staple provisions. Each basket weighed about 150 pounds. Maj. Earl Hites, in charge of the Volunteers of America work in Indiana, and a corps of assistants aided in giving out the gifts.
