

FIRM MEXICAN POLICY IS SAID TO BE OUTLINED

New Administration Plans Embrace Recognition With Definite Understanding.

MARION, Ohio, Jan. 6.—(Friendly, but firm.) That is the way close counselors of President-elect Harding outlined the policy of the next administration toward Mexico. Consideration of recognition of the Obregon government will not be long delayed after March 4, it was learned today on unquestioned authority. In fact, it is said that the several candidates for Secretary of State now are devising "friendly" Mexican conditions by way of preparation.

Recognition, however, must be based on a firm and unalterable understanding. It was made plain, first, that friendly conversations between the Secretary of State and Alberto Paul, or whoever may be the accredited representative of the Obregon regime at that time.

It is probable these conversations will meet to draft, accept and interpret the terms of the agreement on which recognition and all future relationships between the two countries will be based. Senator Harding was entitled to more degrees than the official thermometer registered when he began his cold trip from Canton, Ohio, to Marion, Ohio, to elect show no ill effects from his long and strenuous session when he was raised to the thirty-second degree of Masonry.

Senator Beveridge of Indiana and Senator Sherman of Illinois were waiting to talk to him when he reached home. Each was expected to discuss at length the Harding plan for recognition of nations, and also to talk over the legislative program of the Senate at the present and special sessions.

MCCLURE PICKED AS HOUSE PILOT

(Continued From Page One.)

for Don Strode of Kokomo. Senator James Neff of Whiting and Senator Whitfield Miller of Indianapolis. The first ballot Ratts received 26 votes, Strode 21, Neff 7 and Miller 6. On the second ballot the vote was: Ratts, 22; Strode, 10; Neff, 8, and Miller, 1. Twenty-two votes were necessary to elect. Senator Miller's name was not presented formally to the caucus, but it appeared in the balloting.

Self Swain of Middletown was elected principal secretary of the Senate over J. W. Watkins of Evansville by a vote of 27 to 14. Mr. Swain was elected during the last session. He was Indiana campaign manager for Senator Hiram Johnson during the presidential primaries, and served as secretary of the Senate committee during the campaign.

For the first time in the history of the Senate a woman was elected assistant secretary. She is Miss Katherine Smith of Indianapolis. She defeated Claude Phillips of Carbon on the first ballot by a vote of 32 to 9. Miss Smith has been connected with the Republican State committee.

WOMAN DEFEATED FOR POSTMASTER

Another woman candidate, Miss Ethel Green of Indianapolis, who sought the position of postmaster, was defeated by George Graham of Logansport by a vote of 27 to 13. Mr. Graham was postmaster during the last regular session.

The hardest fought contest in the Senate was for principal clerkship in which Jerome Brown of Anderson won on the fourth ballot. The other candidates were Orion Peed of Petersburg, James R. Henry of Indianapolis, and Grant Blankenship of Indianapolis. The final vote was Brown, 22; Peed, 7; Henry, 12, and Blankenship, none.

Senator Miller of Evansville was elected caucus chairman by a unanimous vote. The Senate caucus lasted less than two hours.

The contest for the principal clerkship of the House excited considerable interest. Three ballots were necessary before a selection was made.

John Thiel of Hobart, who served as principal clerk during the last session and the special session in July, and Frank E. Wright of Lynn, Randolph County, who served as a member of the House for three sessions, were candidates for this place.

The first ballot resulted in a tie, the vote standing 43 to 43. One man switched on the second ballot, leaving the vote 44 for Thiel and 42 for Wright. The final ballot stood 45 for Wright and 42 for Thiel.

There were no contests for the assistant clerkship in the official dockets. The former place went to Arthur L. Stage of Klukshtown and the latter position was given Everett Newlin of Henderson of the House.

COMMITTEE TO FILL HOUSE VACANCY

The position of postmaster of the House will be filled by the House Employment Committee.

Raymond E. Ellis of Angola served as chairman of the caucus last night, with Noble Walcott of Tuncwilla, Lawrence County, serving as secretary.

Frank J. Noll of Marion County was named caucus chairman to serve during the session and the position of permanent caucus secretary went to Chester A. Davis of Pennville, Jay County, one of the aspirants for the speakership of the House.

Senator Joseph M. Cravens of Madison, veteran member of the Senate, was chosen at the Democratic caucus as minority party leader in the upper house. This was the only position the minority attempted to fill. The House Democrats gave complimentary votes to R. U. Barker of Mt. Vernon, speaker; George W. Cuzzard of Ellettsburg, for chief clerk; and D. D. Coons of Franklin, for chief doorkeeper.

Evans Woolen, president of the Finance Savings and Trust Company, former Governor Samuel M. Ralston and Glenn Van Aken, a member of the public service commission and a former Senator, attended the caucus. The final selection of majority and minority was ratified by house.

Selections of the majority caucus were ratified by the House members, immediately after the evening in of the new representatives. Mr. McClure, the majority selection for Speaker, was elected by a vote of 87 to 11 over R. U. Barker of Posey County, the Democratic selection.

Frank E. Wright of Lynn was named principal clerk, Arthur L. Stage, Henderson County, assistant clerk, and Everett J. Newlin, chief doorkeeper.

Representatives Clinton H. Givan, Marion County, and Jacob Mittenberger, Delaware County, were named by Secretary of State Jackson as a committee to escort the Speaker to the stand.

In his speech of acceptance, Mr. McClure referred to the responsibilities that rest on the speaker, and on the majority members of the House.

"Upon the majority rests the responsibility of whatever record is made and it can only expect the approval of its work by the high quality of legislation enacted, which responds to just requirements of the times. The best and not the most laws would most likely crown your efforts with success.

Do not anticipate that all of your conclusions will be reached by unanimity.

Booze Served in Cafeteria Style

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES. HAMMOND, Ind., Jan. 6.—The "Cafeteria Moonshine Parlor" has made its appearance here. Federal agents declare they found small wall cabinets divided into compartments, each large enough to hold one bottle, in the store of George Dumbu. Customers were not required to enter the store, but could step to the rear of the building, open a window and help themselves. A monthly bill was sent to patrons.

Dumbu was found guilty of selling liquor and sentenced to six months at the Indiana State Farm.

mons agreement, but, they will be more nearly in harmony with sound policy and justice if they are openly arrived at after full and fair consideration."

CALLS ATTENTION TO GRAVE PROBLEMS. Mr. McClure called attention to the grave problems which confront the Legislature for solution and cautioned the House members that the paramount problem of the hour is to advance without extravagant expenditures.

"The school should be the best exponent of potter's thought," he said, "and an efficient power to promote respect for the laws and also to encourage those homely virtues that reflect a perfect citizenship. Therefore the school should be fostered as of primal importance."

"The various penal, benevolent and correctional institutions are entitled to our especial consideration and interest to the extent that they will be in position to discharge the obligations the State has assumed in their maintenance and administration. The helpless wards of the State are entitled to proper care both for their safety and proper treatment in order that they may be as nearly as possible restored to normal condition. They are ours—we cannot neglect them."

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS MORE ACUTE NOW. "There are a number of other matters of importance that will command your attention and consideration, which I do not have time to discuss at this time, but which should receive careful investigation and disposition at your hands."

"At this time economic conditions are more acute than during the past two decades. During recent years approved business standards were abandoned and a period of extravagance and waste ensued, which now seriously affects the State's credit."

Mr. McClure said that the State's credit is being restored by the State's present readjustments in values and lessened production. Increases in tax levies with higher valuations and decreased production have added greatly to the public burdens. It therefore appeals to the thoughtful that any increases in the way of public expenditures should be carefully scrutinized and served with the strictest economy.

For experimentation, plenty for preservation should be our watchword.

"There are brighter skies ahead for public administration and private enterprise. The time will come when it is not far away, when values and economic conditions will become stabilized upon just and equitable bases. Then business will restore itself to healthy channels. Until then we must stand where we are; we cannot do otherwise, and God help us."

After Mr. McClure has come and gone we have taken just pride in the achievement of our people and the progress of our great State. The rights of man have been restored and the State is being promoted. Today we witness the fruition of a great epochal movement in which we affirmatively participated. It will be our privilege to continue to represent the rights of our members as the Lady from Delaware, whom we sincerely welcome to our councils and deliberations.

CHIEF JUSTICE WOULD LOUGHBY ADMINISTER OATH. "Relying upon your generous support in the discharge of the onerous duties of the position, I am asking your consideration and assistance when I call you to the duties of the chair."

Oath of office as Speaker was administered to Mr. McClure by Chief Justice John W. Sullivan, County of Boone, Loughby, and to the other officers of the House by the Speaker.

Following installation of the officers, committees of the House were appointed by the Speaker. The House Employment Committee was named first by the Speaker.

On this committee are Representatives Eph Dalley, P. Wayne; Raymond E. Willis; Angolia; J. V. Evans, Anderson; Charles R. Kates; Evansville; and George W. Sims, Terre Haute. To this committee will go the task of apportioning the various jobs about the House, including the clerks, stenographers, doorkeepers, postmaster, janitors and cloakroom employees. Pay for the assistant clerks was fixed not to exceed $5 per day, while the janitors and cloakroom employees were fixed at $3 per day.

Other committees appointed were as follows: Committee on Rules—Clinton H. Givan, Marion County; Otto G. Fife, Lake County; Murray S. Barker, Boone County; R. U. Barker, Posey County; Lee L. Osborn, La Porte County, and Speaker McClure.

Joint Rules—J. Glenn Harris, Lake County; Chester A. Davis, Jay County, and Willis E. Gill, Putnam County.

Committee to notify the Governor that the House was ready to receive his recommendations: Mittenberger, Delaware County; Johnson, Ripley County; Harlan, Kosciusko County, and Barker, Posey County.

RESOLUTION EXTENDS SYMPATHY TO SOUTHWARD. A resolution was adopted prior to adjournment for the joint session, extending sympathy to Representative James L. Southard, Michigan City, who took suddenly ill with nervous prostration, and who is confined to his bed in a local hotel. The resolution provided for the administering of the oath to Mr. Southard in his room.

Mrs. Julia D. Nelson, Delaware County, the first woman Representative to occupy a seat in the Indiana Legislature, was the center of all eyes in the House. She received several bouquets of flowers. Several other members of the House had their desks decorated with bouquets, including Speaker McClure, and prominent attorney Harry Abrams, of Marion County.

Speaker McClure announced that he has appointed Miss Edith Davies of Anderson as his secretary during the session.

Police Grab Bottle and Festive Dinners Charges, growing out of a sudden visit by Lieutenant Woolen and Sergeant Tooley to the notorious Oakley Club Roadhouse, at Kentucky avenue and Big Eagle Creek early today, pending against Chris Zimmerman, proprietor of the place, and Charles McCutcheon of the Oakley Hotel, were continued in city court today Jan. 13.

When the police visited the Oakley Club they found eleven men and seven women drinking and dancing. The police, says McCutcheon, attempted to hide a quart bottle about one-third filled with whiskey under a table as they entered. McCutcheon and Zimmerman were arrested on blind tiger charges.

AIR OF STRIFE NOT APPARENT IN IRISH TOWN

Special Writer Finds Dublin Conditions Like Those in Other Countries.

By CHARLES McCANN. DUBLIN, Jan. 6.—Peace in Ireland on the basis of the new home rule act was regarded as a certainty here today. Only the most radical believe the fight on the basis of the "Irish republic" finally winning complete freedom. The peace which is expected, however, probably will not come until there has been another outbreak of violence. Dublin has been put under martial law, according to my observations here.

Tamon De Valera, the returned "president," is a big factor in the situation. He is believed to be the most powerful man in the government. It is believed the message will advocate peace and the operation of the Irish government under the home rule act.

De Valera's presence in Ireland is admitted to be increasing the tension. The government will treat with him as representing the Dail Eireann. Despite a belief that he will be well received by the government, his hiding place in the streets of Dublin is believed to be a matter of life and death. He would be killed, perhaps put to death by enthusiastic captors, if he were found before negotiations are begun.

NATURE OF STATEMENT IS STRENGTHENED. The nature of his forthcoming statement is unknown. It is believed, however, he will urge peace and advise Sinn Fein to agree to the government's home rule act, electing a Sinn Fein parliament for South Ireland, rather than permitting Unionists to organize it.

The message has been delayed because of the circuitous route it must take to reach the public through the newspapers. The soldiers are continuing the raiding of Sinn Fein gathering places. Early yesterday the Imperial Hotel was raided and five supposedly important arrests made. The Rev. Brother Darcy, leaping from a window of the hotel, was shot and killed.

At Dublin, near Cork, soldiers burned five houses as punishment for an ambush at New Market. Shots were said to have been fired from the houses destroyed by military order.

Visitors arrive here expecting to find the streets swarming with heavily armed soldiers, with residents fearfully creeping about the streets.

INSTEAD THEY FIND A NORMAL LIFE. Instead of that they find a normal life during the day. At dusk they see long queues forming in front of movie palaces and the streets crowded with promenading soldiers, twirling swagger sticks as they swing along with fellows from the troops or with Tam O'Shanter girls.

At 9 o'clock darkness descends. That is the curfew hour. The lights go out in the shops, iron shutters are banked into place, the theater lights blink out and the crowd hurries homeward.

At 9:30 o'clock perhaps, as last night, those indoors will hear faraway echoing reports followed by dead silence.

"The war is on again," some one ventures.

"Flivver backing," suggests another.

LORRIE PATROLS DESERTED STREETS. At 9:45 o'clock the military lorrie bearing 35 soldiers had the middle of Sackville street—Dublin's Broadway—to itself. It rolls along slowly though hoisting as it racing to a fight. A series of reports followed as the lorrie moved on.

The police failed to find the robbers but early today found the automobile deserted at West and Maryland streets.

The car had been stolen earlier in the night.

Laird was walking on Fall Creek boulevard when an automobile that appeared to be a new machine, stopped and a man got out, pointed a revolver at him and ordered him to hold up his hands. Laird ran and the would-be robber got back into the car and drove away before the police arrived.

The robbery of the home of D. J. Phelan on Central avenue, detectives say, bears the "war marks" of the night of the 1st. The robbers took $125 from Deschamps. He gave the police a description of two of the robbers, but did not obtain a hit.

The police failed to find the robbers but early today found the automobile deserted at West and Maryland streets.

The car had been stolen earlier in the night.

Laird was walking on Fall Creek boulevard when an automobile that appeared to be a new machine, stopped and a man got out, pointed a revolver at him and ordered him to hold up his hands. Laird ran and the would-be robber got back into the car and drove away before the police arrived.

The robbery of the home of D. J. Phelan on Central avenue, detectives say, bears the "war marks" of the night of the 1st. The robbers took $125 from Deschamps. He gave the police a description of two of the robbers, but did not obtain a hit.

The police failed to find the robbers but early today found the automobile deserted at West and Maryland streets.

The car had been stolen earlier in the night.

Laird was walking on Fall Creek boulevard when an automobile that appeared to be a new machine, stopped and a man got out, pointed a revolver at him and ordered him to hold up his hands. Laird ran and the would-be robber got back into the car and drove away before the police arrived.

The robbery of the home of D. J. Phelan on Central avenue, detectives say, bears the "war marks" of the night of the 1st. The robbers took $125 from Deschamps. He gave the police a description of two of the robbers, but did not obtain a hit.

The police failed to find the robbers but early today found the automobile deserted at West and Maryland streets.

The car had been stolen earlier in the night.

Laird was walking on Fall Creek boulevard when an automobile that appeared to be a new machine, stopped and a man got out, pointed a revolver at him and ordered him to hold up his hands. Laird ran and the would-be robber got back into the car and drove away before the police arrived.

The robbery of the home of D. J. Phelan on Central avenue, detectives say, bears the "war marks" of the night of the 1st. The robbers took $125 from Deschamps. He gave the police a description of two of the robbers, but did not obtain a hit.

The police failed to find the robbers but early today found the automobile deserted at West and Maryland streets.

The car had been stolen earlier in the night.

Laird was walking on Fall Creek boulevard when an automobile that appeared to be a new machine, stopped and a man got out, pointed a revolver at him and ordered him to hold up his hands. Laird ran and the would-be robber got back into the car and drove away before the police arrived.

Officials Testify in Disbarment Suit

Additional witnesses were being heard today in the jury trial in the disbarment proceedings against James A. Bryant, a negro attorney. Richard V. Sipe, county clerk, County Auditor Leo K. Foster and Harry Klayser were the chief witnesses introduced in behalf of the petitioner who is asking that Bryant be disbarred from further practice in the local courts. William P. Kappes, ex-president of the Indianapolis Bar Association, filed the petition asking that Bryant be disbarred because of reputed actions of the negro attorney in bringing suits.

The defense is prepared to begin the introduction of evidence as soon as the petitioner rests, which will probably be some time this afternoon. Indications are that final arguments before the jury will begin late tomorrow.

GROCER IS SHOT DOWN BY BANDIT

(Continued From Page One.)

Smith called to George Carpenter, negro, 300 West Sixteenth street, to stop him. He was a very stout, colored man who changed his mind when the feeling bandit pointed the gun at him and threatened to kill him.

The bandit ran west on Thirteenth street, and turned south in the first alley west of Illinois street. Lieutenant Jones, Sergeant Sheehan and a large squad of police made a vain search for the robber.

Cornelius was well known as an athlete a few years ago and during the world war he served overseas with the headquarters company of the 100th Artillery Regiment of the Rainbow Division. He is married. Cornelius and his father-in-law, Thomas P. Rhodes, 4088 Broadway, purchased the grocery six months ago.

The store is known as the Dixie grocery.

That the hold-up man had carefully planned the robbery of the store was evident. Mrs. Cornelius was notified of the shooting by her father, who reached the store while the police were investigating the robbery. Cornelius was in the doorway of the store at 6 o'clock last night, said Mrs. Cornelius. He acted so strangely that I was frightened and I went to the back of the store and hid myself.

Then she described the man and the description tallies with that given by Smith and Carpenter of the bandit who shot Cornelius.

The gunman, they both said, was about 19. He was a very stout, colored man with a green suit and no overcoat. He was about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches in height.

THESE ROBBERIES The robbery of Deutsche took place at exactly the same time as the attempted hold-up of Laird. As Deutsche got off an Illinois street car he walked west on Twenty-second street, toward the city hall.

He noticed a roadster with red wire wheels, which was east-bound on Twenty-second street, slow down as it passed him, and the driver turned right into the alley.

The machine was stopped at Twenty-second street and Kenwood avenue and the men asked Deutsche "where is Central avenue?"

As he answered their question two of the occupants got out of the car and covered him with revolvers. A third man then got out of the automobile and searched him, while the other two searched his car.

The police failed to find the robbers but early today found the automobile deserted at West and Maryland streets.

The car had been stolen earlier in the night.

Laird was walking on Fall Creek boulevard when an automobile that appeared to be a new machine, stopped and a man got out, pointed a revolver at him and ordered him to hold up his hands. Laird ran and the would-be robber got back into the car and drove away before the police arrived.

The robbery of the home of D. J. Phelan on Central avenue, detectives say, bears the "war marks" of the night of the 1st. The robbers took $125 from Deschamps. He gave the police a description of two of the robbers, but did not obtain a hit.

The police failed to find the robbers but early today found the automobile deserted at West and Maryland streets.

The car had been stolen earlier in the night.

Laird was walking on Fall Creek boulevard when an automobile that appeared to be a new machine, stopped and a man got out, pointed a revolver at him and ordered him to hold up his hands. Laird ran and the would-be robber got back into the car and drove away before the police arrived.

The robbery of the home of D. J. Phelan on Central avenue, detectives say, bears the "war marks" of the night of the 1st. The robbers took $125 from Deschamps. He gave the police a description of two of the robbers, but did not obtain a hit.

The police failed to find the robbers but early today found the automobile deserted at West and Maryland streets.

The car had been stolen earlier in the night.

Laird was walking on Fall Creek boulevard when an automobile that appeared to be a new machine, stopped and a man got out, pointed a revolver at him and ordered him to hold up his hands. Laird ran and the would-be robber got back into the car and drove away before the police arrived.

The robbery of the home of D. J. Phelan on Central avenue, detectives say, bears the "war marks" of the night of the 1st. The robbers took $125 from Deschamps. He gave the police a description of two of the robbers, but did not obtain a hit.

The police failed to find the robbers but early today found the automobile deserted at West and Maryland streets.

The car had been stolen earlier in the night.

Laird was walking on Fall Creek boulevard when an automobile that appeared to be a new machine, stopped and a man got out, pointed a revolver at him and ordered him to hold up his hands. Laird ran and the would-be robber got back into the car and drove away before the police arrived.

The robbery of the home of D. J. Phelan on Central avenue, detectives say, bears the "war marks" of the night of the 1st. The robbers took $125 from Deschamps. He gave the police a description of two of the robbers, but did not obtain a hit.

The police failed to find the robbers but early today found the automobile deserted at West and Maryland streets.

The car had been stolen earlier in the night.

Laird was walking on Fall Creek boulevard when an automobile that appeared to be a new machine, stopped and a man got out, pointed a revolver at him and ordered him to hold up his hands. Laird ran and the would-be robber got back into the car and drove away before the police arrived.

STAR OF EAST SAVES LIVES OF U. S. AIR MEN

(Continued From Page One.)

kind, they halted and held a lengthy conference.

"Each man had a different opinion as to what was going on and as to what help. Each man backed up his contention with all kinds of arguments. There appeared to be no prospect of agreeing and so while it looked as if they might separate.

"Then Farrell drove home his argument by saying: 'We should proceed toward the east, following the Eastern star, like stars in the old days when they were lost at sea.'"

"This made a great impression on the other two men. They dropped every weighty article they could do without for one last effort, headed east, and came upon the frozen Moose river. After proceeding down this stream four miles, about two hours, traveling at their top speed, they came upon Tom Mark, a trapper, who was going over his line and pick up some skins for a freight pack to leave shortly after Jan. 1. Mark directed them to one of his huts nearby where he made some steaming bison soup and then they started over the snow.

"When they reached Moose factory and I saw them for the first time, the three Americans were in rapid motion, the fur coats which Farrell and Kloor wore had been caught in the bushes sticking through the snow and ripped to shreds. Hinton had previously lost his coat.

"The three started over the snow, the back trail to find the balloon. They located a pair of boots the aviators had thrown away. When I left the balloon I saw the three men in the snow. I found because Farrell said it was draped over the tree tops. The trees broke the force of the landing and saved the men from injury.

"I saw the left Moose Factory with the message announcing their safety the three aviators had started exercising for the long hike to Mattice, as men who are used to such exertions would be unable to complete the journey, pushing along behind a dog sled. It took us eleven days and will likely take them longer."

Grand Jury Obtained; Many Cases Pending

A grand jury for the January term of the Marion County Criminal Court was organized today and the grand jury men were sworn in by the jury retired and began the investigation of many cases.

The grand jury consists of Jacob Jacobson, Frank Johnson, Benjamin P. Williamson, Franklin township; Charles E. Toon, Antion; Oliver W. David, Bridgeport; Benjamin H. Kline, Frank Johnson and Lewis Koss, 3836 East Washington street.

Last Monday the grand jury panel was not filled and the court ordered the jury to be sworn in on Tuesday.

As the court was unable to fill the petit jury the January term of the court was postponed. The grand jury men were ordered to draw additional names and those drawn will report next Monday to answer concerning their qualifications to sit as jurors in cases now awaiting trial.

Judge Collins Aids Bleiweiss Reprieve

On the recommendation of Judge James A. Collins of the Criminal Court a reprieve of ninety days has been granted by Governor James P. Goodrich to Morris Bleiweiss, who under sentence of thirty days in jail for a charge of $100 and costs on a charge of assault and battery growing out of an automobile accident.

Although the Supreme Court has affirmed the trial court, yet Bleiweiss today is in New York City on a business trip. It is announced, as the result of Judge Collins recommending to the Governor that the execution of the sentence be stayed ninety days.

SOLDIERS CAN GET DISCHARGES. The recommendation is to be made by the finance department of the United States Army at Washington, advising him that hundreds of discharge certificates which were forwarded during the war, are now being held up by the government of bonuses was under consideration, and there and that they are unable to return them because the parties sending them in did not give the correct postoffice address.

A list of the names of the parties has been forwarded to the office of the adjutant general and if any soldier has not received his discharge and will notify the adjutant general, the same will be taken up at once and same secured.

STOMACH UPSET? Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a weak digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lax, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. See C-36

Sore Throat or Mouth You should keep the throat and mouth clean and healthy. Any disease that attacks the canal through which must pass the food and drink, the beverages we drink and the very air we breathe is a serious matter. Why neglect Sore Throat or Sore Mouth when TONSILINE makes it so easy for you to get relief?

TONSILINE is specially prepared for that purpose. TONSILINE does not irritate the throat, but it soothes and heals. It can be used in the house—where you can get it quickly when needed. 35c. and 60c. Hospital Size, $1.00. Your druggist sells TONSILINE.

New Hair Growth BALDNESS, falling hair, thinning hair, hair loss, hair becoming thin, hair becoming bald, hair becoming gray, hair becoming white, hair becoming red, hair becoming brown, hair becoming black, hair becoming blonde