

REPORT SHOWS GAINS AGAINST WHITE PLAGUE

Marion County Well Organized for Greater Fight to Eradicate Disease.

SCHOOLS CHIEF TARGET

Decided progress toward a more comprehensive program of disease prevention than has ever been attempted here was shown in the report of the work done in the county toward tuberculosis eradication this season, made by Miss Mary A. Meyers, executive secretary of the Marion County Tuberculosis Association.

Besides carrying on the efforts of 200 health children of various Marion County organizations pledged to assist in the educational program to eradicate disease the association is laboring in the county and parochial schools and in the Indianapolis kindergartens with general health education.

Miss Pearl Stanton is conducting the modern health crusade in the country and parochial schools and has established a simple health program in forty-five kindergartens. Five day nurseries throughout the city have received attention from the general child welfare plan.

Health posters from the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute have been distributed to many schools and are accomplishing much in developing health habits among the children, according to the report.

New fresh air suits of clothing for the children at the Sunnyside Fresh Air School have just been purchased by the association and Mrs. M. F. Ault, chairman of the fresh air school committee of the association, has interested many clubs, Sunday schools and individuals in a program whereby local children in the fresh air schools are provided with food and carfare.

AIDED BY MONEY FROM ESTATE.

A contribution has just been made to the fresh air school work in Indianapolis by George H. Clarke, Franklin, executor of the Jennie L. Clarke estate, and the money therefrom has been devoted to work at the Theodore Potter Fresh Air School on the grounds of the Technical High School. Plans now are being drawn for the new fresh air school that is to be the place of the present Theodore Potter School, the report said.

Approximately 5,000 children in the county schools have been examined by county nurses since September, the report shows, and to these 3,198 notices of defectiveness of some character have been sent. Forty-six of these children have been provided with hospital care.

The report of the industrial secretary, Clarence Gause, shows that more than 6,000 persons have attended public health meetings held recently throughout the county and that elaborate health exhibits have been placed in many Indianapolis industrial centers.

MARION COUNTY TO GET PENNANT.

Officials believe the results of the 1920 Christmas seal sale will show that Marion County will receive the pennant from the Indiana Tuberculosis Association for the largest per capita seal sale in the state of Indiana.

Evansville will be second, according to announcement from Murray A. Auerbach, executive secretary of the State association. The Marion county victory probably will reach a per capita of more than 9 cents.

Morgan County, with 12.3 cents per capita; Tippecanoe County, with 11 cents, and Bartholomew County, with 10.6 cents, probably will be the winners of pennants in the other classes of counties.

DROPS BLANKET WHISKY ORDERS

Pritchard to Direct Destruction in Each Case.

Blanket orders for destruction of whisky seized in raids where search warrants were issued will not be made in the future by Judge Walter Pritchard in city court, but the court will, at close of all blind tiger cases in which it is found liquor has been in the possession of the defendant for an illegal purpose, order the liquor destroyed. A separate order will be issued in each case.

When the State prohibition law first became effective the court made separate orders. Then the Federal law became effective and Judge Pritchard said it appeared the Federal and State courts had concurrent jurisdiction and he did not wish to order the destruction of liquor that would be desired as evidence in Federal cases. However, in blind tiger cases in city court now all evidence is recorded and if the Federal court desires liquor in any blind tiger case, an affidavit must be ordered U. S. or the liquor will be ordered destroyed. This destruction will take place unless the case is appealed. The defendant has only ten days in which to appeal.

Formerly when there was too much whisky in storage at police headquarters in blind tiger cases a "blanket" order was issued for the destruction of all whisky held except what had been given out on Charles J. Orblison's "Dear Jerry" letters.

The first blind tiger case in which Judge Pritchard used his new stamp was tried today in city court. It was the case of William Winters, 21, 51 Frank street. The court put the following stamp on the affidavit:

"Hearing had. Finding that the liquor was kept for unlawful purpose and the same is ordered to be destroyed forthwith."

Winters was fined $100 and sentenced to thirty days on the State Farm. Blind tiger charges against his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Winters, were dismissed by the court.

"The association allowed the Conrads to put the names of some deceased members on the monument in this reserved space. These names will have to be removed."

Washington concluded with the statement: "We usually think of George as a fighter and a public-spirited man, but there is another side and a mighty good side."
