WABASH AGAIN PROVES CLASS

'Super Five' Repeats Victory Over Butler, With Adams in Starlight Role.

By a Staff Correspondent.
CRAWFORDVILLE, Feb. 22.—The Wabash College "Super Five" gained a more decisive advantage over Butler of Indianapolis in basketball last night when the Scarlet quietude defeated the Blue and White, 54 to 23, on the Wabash floor.

The result of last night's contest does more than clear up the Butler argument, it shows the superiority of the passing game over distance shooting. Hooker, Leslie and Jones were firing from the middle of the court last night, and several of their shots that did not drop the meshes came close enough to thrill the crowd, but Adams, Goss, Terry and Burns were earning their short and dribbling, and they came through best in the long run.

ALL-ROUND BIG
"Cat" Adams was in there last night playing the brand of basketball that has made him famous with Hoosier fans, and to "Cat" goes the individual honors of the evening. "Cat" was a marked man in the opening Wabash-Butler contest, as he was in the Wabash-Indiana contest last week and he didn't seem to care much about getting the "buckets" in that game, but last night he had the blue and white boys under where he would do plenty of his much-talked-of shooting, and he was in there with every one of his old stuff.

His range was even field goals, and every one of them was from under the basket. He was usually down at the foul line to take the ball after a Scarlet pass drive, and also on several occasions he went out and got the ball to enable through the hands of his eyes to gain his favorite shooting spot. Besides getting the points Adams played a bang-up game on defense, passing around after the Indianapolis goal getting to make them get their shots off without a second hesitation. Goldsberry registered six points from the field and the same number from the foul line.

BROWN SHOWS WELL FOR BUTLER

Brown and Hooker were the bright lights of the Butler combination. Brown kept the Pagemans in the running during the first session with two field goals and four fouls. He was the only Butler player who could make a basket during this session. Hooker and Leslie made one goal each, and missing countless others. Hooker, however, found his eye in the last half and tossed in four from far away. Leslie got another field goal in this period, and Brown got two fouls, being taken out for a time shortly after the half opened, and sent back in before the close.

Gruter moved up a notch or two in the line of back guards for his work in the first half, and he was the only Butler player who made it useful for Butler to follow him. He also ruined what few attempts the Pagemans made to get down under the basket for shots. Hooker and Leslie tried occasionally during the second session, but Gruter usually took the sphere away from them or made them shoot with nothing on the ball.

The line-up and summary: Butler (25): Adams, Schanlaub, Forward, Hooker, Goldsberry, Center, Jones, Burns, Grater, Guard, P. Brown, Grater, Substitutions: Wabash (34): Jones, R. Jones, P. Brown, P. Jones, Field goals—Adams 7, Goldsberry 3, Burns 2, Schanlaub, Thorne, Hooker 3, Leslie 2, P. Brown 2, Field goals—Goldsberry 6, P. Brown 6, Hooker 1, Referee—Feeley, Umpire—Craigie.

BUTLER-WABASH NOTES.

The first and second sessions opened alike. Goldsberry opened the game with a free throw and Brown came out in the same thing a few seconds later. In the second half "Golds" again caged a free one and Brown came right back with the free effort.

Brown made the longest shot of the game and one of the longest that has been made on the Wabash floor. He stood about ten feet behind the center ring and sent one sailing threw the net without touching.

A special car carried a small army of Butler students and supporters to the scene of battle. The cheering of both sides was very creditable.

Butler is the longest-shot team that has tackled Wabash this season. Hooker, Leslie and Jones were firing from almost impossible positions, and the longer they try the better Coach Page seemed to like it.

Thorn acknowledged the applause given upon his entry into the game by dribbling down the floor for a field goal in record time.

Leslie pulled his favorite diving stunt on the tip-off, but there was something in the Scarlet-clad crowd around the center ring that seemed to check his rush.

Adams showed 'em that he still is the same old speedster, and the "experts" are going back to take another look at his all-State credentials.

Taken as a whole, the game was not as exciting as the Butler-Wabash affair in Indianapolis.

Wally Middleworth, Helme Goett and Ed Biederich, former Indianapolis high school players, now in Butler, were in the line-up. Middleworth, who was a basketball star at the old ball, George Selden, basketball, after the game, George is a basketball star, but an injured knee, received in football at Wabash, kept him from going out for the Wabash hardwood team.

The fans who watched Goldsberry get around the court last night didn't realize the handicap the star was playing under. Suffering from a severe cold, "Golds" was in no condition for basketball, but he was needed and went in. In his team had the game practically won. Thorne, who took Goldsberry's place, also is handicapped by an injured knee.

EARLHAM AND DEPAUW

RICHMOND, Ind., Feb. 22.—Coach Mowe, Earlham mentor, spent last night's practice perfecting the Quaker defense to stop the onslaught of De Pauw's basket cagers when they clash with the local college eleven here tonight.

The Tigers have one decision over the Maroon and White, gained on the Green-Tackle floor, after losing to the Quakers on the minds of the Quakers and the Earlhamites are on edge to avenge the early season drubbing.

The Earlham line-up probably will be the same one used against Wabash, namely, Lawler and Hall, forwards; Carey, center, and Goar and Johnson, guards. Johnson, regular back guard, has been out for some time with a knee injury. The injury has healed to such an extent that Coach Mowe was able to use him for a short time in the Wabash fracas. It is thought he will have recovered sufficiently to play the entire game tonight.

Three Quints Look Good for Title in Logansport Tourney

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Feb. 22.—Three teams will be in the running here on March 4 and 5, when the sectional high school basketball tournament is staged in the local high school gym. Walton, Young America and Logansport stand forth as likely contenders for the honors and a real fight is expected.

Young America was defeated at Walton last night in the season, but the Young Americans turned the tables upon Walton last month, administering a decisive beating to their opponents. Young America matched its strength against Logansport here in January and was defeated by a twenty-point margin, but in the game with Walton, played here the victors romped off with a 34 to 23 victory. These developments present a complicated situation and an effort to pick the winner of the tourney is quite an impossibility.

Critics who have been following the season of basketball in this vicinity, however, give the edge to the Logansport High School quietude, despite the fact that the locals were defeated by Walton. Logansport has proved such teams as Technical, Shortridge, Jefferson of Lafayette, Kokomo, Tipton, Hartford City, Wingate and others, since the start of the season.

Plenty of competition will be in the field here for the sectional championship, and it is a certainty that the winning fire will have anything but smooth sailing to the honors.

General Cornelius Vanderbilt will enter his schooner, Ellina, it is understood.

Trap Game Made

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—A change in conditions governing competitions for individual State championships, whereby targets in the events are reduced from 200 to 250, was announced here by the Amateur Trapshooting Association.

Under the 300-target rule, invoked in 1918, many high scores were made in championship competition. Notable performances were those of Woolfick, Henderson, Ky., and Frank W. M. of Washington, who broke 298 targets each in 1919. In 1920 M. E. Dewire of Indiana was first with 294.

Foul Toss Gives Great Game to Bloomington

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Feb. 22.—In a thrilling basketball game here last night, Bloomington High School defeated Franklin 36 to 33 in overtime play. The State champs were leading 37 to 36 at half time, Bloomington maintaining a margin up until fifteen seconds of the fourth quarter, when Captain Vandiver dropped in a basket.

When play was resumed the score stood 36 to 33. Just as the final whistle blew, Gant made a long shot, knocking the count at 33. Three minutes after the start of the overtime period, Gant, who had been injected as a sub in the last part of the fourth, hit the ring for a basket, tying it at 33. A foul was called on Ballard with only twenty seconds to play and Logan converted it into a tally point, putting the count at 34 to 33. RETIRING M'CRAW IS YEARLY YARN

By HENRY FAIRBELL. United Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Retirement of John J. M'craw as manager of the New York Giants has been an annual product of the winter dope box for years. When M'craw took Christy Mathewson back from the Reds it was interpreted as a step back from participation in the game.

Now Hughie Jennings comes. The others have all gone. Despite the history of the other cases, New Yorkers cling to the belief that M'craw is trying to get away from the club. He appeared very little on the field after the spring start last season, leaving the bulk of the leadership on the shoulders of Evers and Hamme and made a mistake in his coaching.

M'craw, as part owner of the club and the Havana track, should be far away from financial worries. After his long swing down through a score of seasons he should be getting fed up on the game.

"You'll get tired of asking me that question some day. I'll be right on the job," M'craw said. "I've been asked about retirement rumors before and to Cuba recently."

He was placed on the suspended list by the St. Louis Nationals because he had failed to sign a contract with the Cardinals. The Nationals had claimed right to Todd.

Roger After Luderus

CINCINNATI, Feb. 22.—Manager Roger Bresnahan of the Toledo Red Stockings, who was in the city here yesterday and practically arranged for the purchase of First Baseman Fred Luderus. BIG TASK FOR PURDUE SQUAD

Must Beat Illinois Tonight to Put Indiana Back in Conference Running.

Big Ten Standing.
W. L. Peck. W. L. Peck.
Illinois 6 1 .333 Minnesota 4 1 .200
Indiana 0 2 .000 Michigan 4 4 .500
Purdue 4 3 .571 Iowa 4 4 .429
Chicago 4 4 .500 Ohio 4 4 .500
Wisconsin 6 4 .333 North 1 7 .125

Iowa University pulled Indiana out of a tie for first place in Western Conference basketball by handing the Crimson a 22-to-15 defeat at Iowa last night.

Tonight the Purdue hardwood travelers are faced with the task of replenishing the Hoosier basket fire with a liberal chunk of fuel in the form of a victory over Illinois, Conference leaders. A Purdue victory would put Indiana back into a tie with Illinois and all would be fine and dandy again. But, of course, the Hoosiers are going to face the Suckers.

If the Illinois athletes repeat their recent performance of beating Purdue on the Lafayette campus, the Hoosiers' dreams of Conference titles will be given a flying start along the smoke route.

MAROONS VISIT GOPHER CAMP

Chicago and Minnesota are the other Big Ten teams to swing into action this evening. They are to square off for basketball on the Minnesota floor, with a mighty small portion of the odds leaning toward Minnesota's side of the case.

The Purdue Hoosiers started a good try to get back in the old form. Purdue followers are saying "wait, they'll come back to their old game," but there is no more waiting to be done if Hoosierdom is to get any honor out of the big scrap.

INDIANA NOW TRAILING ILLINOIS IN THE PURDUE SCRAP

Indiana is now trailing Illinois in the Purdue scrap. The Hoosiers were brought down by an unbroken losing streak, but an unbroken losing streak can keep Illinois from winning the title, because they play four more games after tonight, whereas Indiana plays two.

Wincoum scored the Ohio State goose last night. The game was played on the Columbus floor and ended with Wisconsin leading a 42-point total, against 23 for the Buckeyes.

HAWKEYES GRAB EARLY LEAD

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Feb. 22.—All the fighting power of the Indiana University basketball team was brought down by the contest with Iowa here last night, but the Hoosiers could not overcome a lead gained at the very start of the scrap and they finally lost by a 22-to-15 score.

Both teams were playing great defensive games, and neither got points that were well earned by a 22-to-15 score. The Hoosiers were leading 11-6 at the end of the first period.

DEBILITY AND DEAN WERE THE ONLY INDIANA ATHLETES WHO REGISTERED POINTS

Dehority and Dean were the only Indiana athletes who registered points. Dehority got four field goals and Dean hit for seven fouls.
