

TWOLIMERICK OFFICIALS ARE SHOT TO DEATH

Wife of Mayor Also Killed in Effort to Save Sinn Fein Husband.

DUBLIN, March 7.—George Clancy, mayor of Limerick, and Councillor Michael O'Callaghan, former mayor of Limerick, were shot to death in their homes in Limerick early today.

Clancy was attacked in his bed by a band of armed men who had broken into his home. His wife was badly wounded trying to defend him. She died later.

Owing to the military curfew it was two hours before a physician could reach the Clancy home.

The killings were similar to the murder of Lord Mayor Thomas MacDonagh at Cork a year ago. Both Clancy and O'Callaghan were Sinn Fein men, as was MacDonagh. Both were dragged from their beds. As the attackers began firing at Clancy, Mrs. Clancy threw her own body before her husband. One of the bullets intended for the mayor struck her.

Clancy was the fourth mayor to be murdered in office. Sinn Feiners here and at Limerick attribute his death to the Black and Tans.

O'Callaghan was a wealthy manufacturer. He had been in the city for some time in an effort to save his husband and was badly hurt. The bodies of both Clancy and O'Callaghan were riddled with bullets.

News of a third murder was later received from Limerick. The victim was a young man named O'Donovan. He was killed this morning. Large numbers of about 500 men took part in the ambush in County Cork, where Brigadier General Cumming and three British soldiers were killed. The lorries containing the troops ran into a mine laid by the Sinn Fein soldiers and policemen are patrolling the whole district along the border of Kerry and Cork Counties in an effort to track down some of the Sinn Fein who carried out the ambushes.

Body Disappears of Alien Propaganda

The national executive committee of the American Gymnastic Union, at its regular meeting on March 5, 1921, adopted the following resolution:

Referring to the mass meeting held Feb. 28, in Madison Square Garden, New York, under the leadership of Dr. Otto von Mach and George Sylvester Viereck, we hereby express our disapproval of all meetings that tend to incite to propaganda or meetings tending toward separatism, just as we disapprove of all action tending to incite to violence or to the promotion of good will, national harmony and unity.

As citizens of this Nation we voice our confidence in the ability and willingness of our government to deal with all the problems arising out of the late war and to remedy, if possible, and in justice and confidence, the wrongs of the acts of inhumanity, if committed, against the German people or the people of any other country.

We assert an abiding faith in the ultimate sense of justice of the American people as a whole and believe that at all times be reflected in the official acts of our government.

We believe that mass meetings held by racial groups for political effect are at best ill advised, and are unwilling to have our names connected with any organization linked with any movement giving the slightest warrant for certain claims to claim, as they have done in the past, that they voice the opinions, or more particularly, can deliver the vote of the six million citizens of German extraction. We have heretofore (by resolution of May 6, 1916) taken no stand against racial alienation along racial lines. We insist upon unphased citizenship.

The society is the oldest in the country, founded seventy-odd years ago and has more than two hundred organizations in the United States.

Mr. Ferguson comes to the chamber from the sales department of the Engineering Specialties Company. During the war he was a lieutenant in the air service. Mr. Ferguson succeeds Fred B. Rakeman, who has assumed the position of director of the bureau of industry.

"We are going right along with our wholesale trade extension work," says Mr. Reynolds. "The next courtesy trip will be on March 18, when the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce will be in the air service. Mr. Ferguson succeeds Fred B. Rakeman, who has assumed the position of director of the bureau of industry."

State Boosts Plan of Salvation Army

The entire State of Indiana will have accepted the Salvation Army's county advisory board plan within the next two weeks, according to reports made at a conference of the representatives.

Seventy counties have stepped into line and soon Indiana will have taken her place along with twenty-four other middle western States, where 1,000 county advisory boards, with a combined personnel of 20,000 men and women, are functioning as cooperative auxiliaries to the Salvation Army in their communities.

These county advisory boards, according to Brig. George F. Casler, the Indiana divisional commander, form the connecting link between the Salvation Army's facilities for alleviating social distress and cases where such aid is needed.

memorandum which reads in part as follows:

"The United States government has declined to deport Lord Mayor O'Callaghan and the State Department has officially declared he is a 'political refugee' who cannot be turned over to the British government."

"Senator Watson will confirm this." (The above passage is underlined with pencil marks.)

The board received, by the mayors of New York, Philadelphia, Newark and Jersey City and invited to Chicago by vote of the city council, signed by the mayor. His home city passed the following resolution:

Here follows a clipping from the Chicago Tribune, headed "Cork for Handling," and two other newspaper articles dealing with the situation in Ireland and being expressed by Great Britain.

"City property ought not be used for the discussion of foreign politics. This is a hall owned by American people of an American city," declared Board Member Mark H. Miller.

"I want to go on record also saying that this German, Von Mach, cannot have the hall under any circumstances," said another member of the board, who believes in the use of city property for the furtherance of foreign political schemes and I think the people ought to know how we stand."

Thomas A. Riley, Democratic member of the board, and himself of Irish blood, concurred in these statements.

The board received a letter from John B. Reynolds, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, advising that the body is interested in the controversy over whether Shelby street shall be opened whether through from Maryland to Washington street or "Cork" street, and whether the street shall be opened to the city or to the territory which would be served by the Shelby street opening.

The letter was as follows:

A recent article in the Indianapolis News under the title of "The East Washington Merchants' Association" states that plans are being made to open Shelby street instead of being carried through as planned will be the subject of a hearing at the city hall. I am not able to write intelligently as I would like to, but I am very much interested in the matter and I am sure that in the absolute avoidance of any in the future, Shelby street will be very important traffic artery and it certainly should be put through without a jog even if it would be necessary to incur the expenditure of private funds in the process.

Please be kind enough to have all the facts in the case furnished me at your convenience so that I may be able to discuss the matter with our interested south side members, many of whom feel that this would be a totally inexcusable step. The board indicated that it will invite Mr. Reynolds to meet with it upon the matter.

J. D. Forrest, secretary and general manager of the Citizens Gas Company, sent the board a statement showing that the company laid 50,384 feet of mains in 1920 and has on its books orders from the board for gas mains ordered in 1920 for installation in 1921.

The shooting occurred Sunday morning in front of 2117 Howard street.

Ellison is held on a charge of murder. Mrs. Ellison is seriously ill at a sanitarium following an operation. Ellison said Parker, hearing of a lawyer in an attempt to get the insurance. When the men met, an argument resulted and Parker is said to have attacked Ellison with a razor. Ellison drew a revolver and fired one shot wild, but Parker raised him and Ellison was hit in the chest by a shot at Parker, all entering his abdomen.

When the police arrived they found Parker lying in the street, the razor still in his hand. He died in a few minutes. Dr. Paul F. Robinson, coroner, is investigating.

Find Whole Streets Where Plague Abides

Streets upon which every house harbors at least one case of tuberculosis have been discovered in Indianapolis by nurses and doctors working through the board of health tuberculosis clinics, Dr. Herman G. Morgan, secretary of the board, stated today.

The city operates four tuberculosis clinics, one in the day time at the City Dispensary, Market street and Senate avenue, one at night at the same place and one at the Indiana Hotel, Commercial building and at the Indiana Hotel. A new clinic will be opened next week in the 1000 block in Hillside avenue.

Dr. Morgan said the location of the clinics bears out the contention of medical authorities that bad housing conditions have a direct bearing upon the spread and continuance of tuberculosis.

FARM AGENT BILL KILLED IN HOUSE 48 TO 38

Motion to Strike Out Enacting Clause of Senate Measure Carries.

The House today refused to pass the Cleveland Senate bill which would virtually have mandated every county in the State to appoint a county agricultural agent at not less than a minimum salary of $1,500. The bill was killed when the House voted, 48 to 38, to support a motion offered by Representative Youse of Huntington County to strike out the enacting clause.

The measure would have made $1,500 the minimum, instead of the maximum salary of the agents, and would have required counties, on petition of twenty persons, to appoint an agent. Representative Jinnett attempted to save the bill by moving to table Youse's motion, but was voted down.

The House passed the Ratts administration absent voters' amendments. It requires that persons to vote under the provisions of the law must actually be absent from the county in which they reside on election day or must actually be confined to their home by illness or infirmities. It is designed to correct alleged abuses of the absent voters' law which took place in the last election.

Senator Hartwell's bill, calling for the codification of the drainage laws and carrying an appropriation of $2,500, was passed by a vote of 60 to 20.

Anderson on a demurrer filed by Samuel M. Ralston, former Governor of Indiana, attorney for the accused man. A number of other demurrers filed in behalf of other defendants in the same case were overruled.

Those entering pleas of guilty were James Mabry, John Black, Arthur Knuckles, Arthur Logan, Eliza Hughes, Walter P. Evans, Archie Campbell, Walter Barlow, Matthew Barry, Letitia Pett, Hugh Barry, George Franklin, Charles Van Meter, Emory Johnson, Homer Headley and John Butler.

South Bend, Gary and Lake County had their usual number of defendants on the dock. John W. Talbot and Earl Spangler, both of South Bend, entered pleas of not guilty to charges of violating the Mann white slave act.

More than twenty residents of Lake County and South Bend were arraigned on charges of a conspiracy to violate liquor laws. Only eight on the list entered pleas of guilty. They were Daniel Melloy, Herman J. Nyhoff, John M. Kain, Frank Arndt, William W. Jones, Harry Durst, Charles Hovadik and James Varga, the others all pleading not guilty.

Two Indianapolis young women, Lillian Whitesides and Ethel Andrews, entered pleas of not guilty to charges of cashing war risk insurance checks to which they were not entitled.

Fourteen residents of Logansport were on the list for alleged violation of the liquor laws. The list included Harry Brooks, was willing to admit that he was guilty.

Charles M. Charters, formerly cashier of the First National Bank of Peru, Ind., was the first man to face Judge Anderson. He is charged with having appropriated funds belonging to customers of the bank and intended for the purchase of Liberty bonds to his own use. He pled not guilty.

Vincent Muse of Whiting, Ind., charged with violating the liquor laws, announced just before the noon adjournment that he wished to change his plea from not guilty to guilty. This immediately aroused the interest of Judge Anderson and he demanded to know the reason for the change of the court that Oscar A. Ahlgren, Republican Representative from Lake County, and attorney for Muse had told him to plead not guilty until he had time to read the indictment. Meantime Ahlgren had gone back to the Statehouse. This aroused the wrath of the court at once.

"You be back at 2 o'clock with your lawyer," Judge Anderson said. "I want to see that lawyer. This man cannot be told to plead not guilty when he is guilty. You be sure to bring your lawyer back here with you."

William Dugan, druggist of Marion, charged with being connected with the operation of a still at Doran, Ind., entered a plea of not guilty to two charges. When Thomas Shouse, chief of police of Marion and a number of other residents of the same city were arraigned on charges of a conspiracy to sell liquor in Marion under protection of the police authorities, Rabi Callahan and O.
