

U.S. NOTE STIRS PANAMA IANS TO RADICAL VIEWS

Suspicion Expressed That Oil Grab Puts America on Costa Rica's Side.

REPLY TO HUGHES TODAY

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone, March 19.—President Porras of the Republic of Panama, held a long conference last night with about fifty of the foremost political leaders and he is expected to send a reply to Secretary of State Hughes' note of warning this afternoon.

Considerable anti-American feeling has been engendered among the radical element in Panama by the American note warning Panama to make up her territorial differences with Costa Rica without any more delay.

SCANDAL AND WEALTH MIX IN STILLMAN SUIT

In the scandal, legal action probably would follow. There is an old law in the New York statute books against adultery but it has never been enforced.

WIFE MRS. STILLMAN

A feature of the case has been the number of letters received by Mrs. Stillman from women high in the ranks of society. These letters expressed sympathy for her and asked her to furnish information which might help her.

BLOOD TEST TO PICK FATHER OF GUY STILLMAN

Discoverer Says Vibrations Would Settle Question of Percentage.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—"A simple set of blood tests will settle absolutely the parentage of Baby Guy Stillman."

This is the confident assertion of Dr. Albert Abrams, whose discoveries and theories in electronic medicine have started the scientific world and whose determination of parentage by blood tests has been accepted as final by the Superior Court of this city.

"Either of two tests would serve to settle the question of parentage in the Stillman case concerning the parentage of Baby Guy," said Dr. Abrams. "A test of the blood of James A. Stillman and that of the boy would establish whether they are father and son. Similarly, a test of the blood of Fred Beauvais, the Indian guide and that of the child would establish whether there is any basis to the apparent charge made by Stillman, the termination of parentage by blood tests has been accepted as final by the Superior Court of this city."

"Whether or not I would make such a test if taken to," he added, "would depend upon two factors. I am very busy; I would not let the matter interfere with my other work. And I am also slightly apprehensive in such matters. That would be the other factor."

Dr. Abrams explained that it would be unnecessary for either party to the test to come to San Francisco, but he would depend upon two factors. I am very busy; I would not let the matter interfere with my other work. And I am also slightly apprehensive in such matters. That would be the other factor."

"Only a few drops of blood of the child and a few drops of blood from either the father or the guide forwarded to me under proper conditions would be required. The blood may be obtained by blotting or filter paper. Certain conditions would have to be observed, however, in securing the blood and in forwarding it, to assure its arrival here in proper shape."

The test, as advanced by Dr. Abrams, is based on blood vibrations, that of child and parent vibrating in unison. As a result of his research into this hitherto unknown branch of medical science, Dr. Abrams, according to Sir James Barr, M. D., late president of the British Medical Association, who has studied his discoveries closely, is able not only to establish blood relationship, but to diagnose various diseases.

Earlham Unaffected by New Standard

RICHMOND, Ind., March 19.—Earlham's standing as an educational institution is not affected by the new standard for accredited colleges set by the State board of education, according to President D. W. Edwards. The ruling goes into effect Sept. 21, 1921.

President Edwards' statement follows: "It is being published in many of the papers of the State that a number of colleges will lose their ranking as accredited institutions and Earlham College appears in that list."

Father—What! and with your new pants on.

MAY INVADE KRUPP TOWN

Occupation of Essen Believed Next Allies' Objective.

BERLIN, March 19.—Occupation of Essen, home of the great Krupp works, will be the next objective of the allied advance into Germany, according to the belief expressed in army circles here today.

As the result of extending their lines along the Duisburg-Essen Railway, enemy troops have approached to within less than three miles of Essen and more than fifteen miles east of the Rhine. Among the towns entered were Mulheim, Oberhausen, Wodan and Speldorf.

HONOR THOSE AIDING INSANE

Greensburg Institution Memorializes Its Benefactors.

Special to The Times. GREENSBURG, Ind., March 19.—A lasting memorial to deserving people who have figured in the establishment and success of the Southwestern Indiana Hospital for the Insane is the result of a plan of John F. Russell of this city, vice president of the board of trustees, who conceived the idea of substituting names to designate colony houses instead of numbers.

The colony house plan has proved a wonderful success. It has enabled the institution to care for many more patients, has enabled those in charge to give certain patients better attention by way of occupation, to regain health, has increased production and in every way demonstrated the wisdom of their establishment.

WHY CROWDS ATTEND MEETINGS.

"People don't crowd churches, creeds or ministers," he said. "If they crowd anything at all it is that they seek Christ there. This vast crowd did not come here because of Gipsy Smith. What brought you here tonight? Not Gipsy Smith, but Jesus. Jesus is the power. You say it is personal magnetism or my voice or my personality. It isn't that. God calls power from on high. No living man can do it. The only attraction which has brought you here is the name and spirit of Jesus Christ. This is His work. This is His platform and He is the attraction. Not Gipsy Smith. It is Jesus."

Pleadingly, the Gipsy said: "If you let Him come into your life you will attract people. He will make a pupil out of your home."

HOME RELIGION HELPS CONVERT.

In speaking of the need of home religion, the evangelist said that a member of the choir came to him and said, "Gipsy, I have been married for twenty-five years and this is the first time you have had family prayer."

City of Essen, Which Germans Fear Allies Will Occupy

Bird's-eye View of Krupp Works in Essen, Germany. Excitement arising out of the confusing rumors that the allies intend a further advance into the Ruhr, coming after the occupation of Hamburg, and to establish a new inland customs frontier, seize Essen and levy a heavy tribute on Rhine commerce, rocked the big German steel, coal and other exporting corporations and has filled the streets with silent and staring crowds, which have packed the spaces solidly around French and British quarters in Duisenberg.

MORE JOY IN DOG'S WAG THAN IN SOME FACES

church members are the world's Bible and it is about time for some of you to get a revised edition. The world is looking for reality. Your daily prayer should be, 'Make me more like Jesus.' 'Ask yourself this question—am I making my homelike love Jesus? Christ through me? Fathers, your child's prayer should be, 'Oh, Jesus, make me like my daddy.'"

With this remark many men in the audience were seen to wipe their eyes as the lesson of the Gipsy struck home.

DEMONSTRATION PROLONGED.

After that demonstration ceased some one called out, 'Applaud Gipsy Smith,' and the big audience broke out in a demonstration which lasted for several minutes as the evangelist silently bowed his head as if in prayer.

Looking down into the press box Gipsy Smith said to the audience, 'Applaud the newspaper boys.' After the applause stopped, the evangelist said to the newspaper reporters, 'Stand up and let them see you. Fraud up.' He kept it up until the newspaper men rose and accepted the ovation.

HARDING MAY FAVOR PEACE WITH GERMANY

relations between the United States and Russia. Though the State Department has received little more than the official confirmation of the signing of the trade pact and officials are therefore withholding comment, it was learned today that the department has not changed its attitude toward Russia and American business men are being advised that there is apparently little hope of an immediate resumption of trade on any considerable scale.

The new pact is expected by officials here to prove of political, rather than economic significance. Though no great increase in the amount of commodities exchanged is looked for immediately, it is believed that both Russia and Great Britain will benefit by the agreement. It is admitted, however, that later on a considerable trade might be built up, provided a workable system of credits can be devised.

LOAN PLAN AIDS HOME BUILDERS

Trust Company Offers 65 Per Cent as Stimulus.

The Fletcher Savings and Trust Company today announced that it had completed arrangements whereby loans to prospective home-builders would be made in amounts equal to 65 per cent of the total appraised value of the land and improvements involved. The increase of the borrowing power on such projects was decided on, according to William B. Schlichter, manager of the loan department, in an effort to lend a helping hand to the general home-building situation, which has been practically in a state of stagnation during the war and post-war periods.

The plans will involve the use of Indiana's part of the $50,000,000 home-building fund of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for which the Fletcher company is the lending agent in Indiana. The Metropolitan loans are limited to 50 per cent of the appraised value of new homes and medium sized apartment houses. The trust company has decided to supplement these loans with an additional 15 per cent out of its own funds.

Officials of the trust company expressed the feeling that various agencies should cooperate to stimulate home construction and, acting on the belief that a new era of more stable prices of building materials may be approaching, decided to amplify its home-building loan facilities.

Repayment of the loans will be spread over long periods, the borrower being required to pay 1 per cent a month of the amount borrowed. These payments eventually will amortize the debt and pay the interest, which is fixed at the average prevailing market rate for loans of this nature.
