

HIDE MEASURES TO CHEAT AX OF COUNCIL 'ANTIS'

Administration Forces Take
No Chances on Traffic and Other Schemes.

2 NEEDED VOTES ABSENT

Three important ordinances which were expected to be reported out of committee for final passage were kept under cover by the administration forces in the city council last night. It was apparent they feared the four anti-administration councilmen would end the existence of the measures if they got a chance.

The ordinances were the new traffic code, the most important provision of which would change the bond of the city on almost all downtown streets, a measure authorizing the issuance of $125,000 worth of bonds for the renovation and repair of the city market house and another authorizing a bond issue of $500,000 for construction of a nurses' home at the city hospital.

With Dr. O. B. Pettijohn, one of the administration members, absent because of illness and Dr. Sumner A. Furness, negro administration member, also not present the administration could have mustered only three of the five votes necessary to pass the traffic ordinance. The four anti-administration councilmen were present and were understood to be ready to harpoon the measure if it came out.

MUCH CONCERNED OVER MARKET PLAN.

The administration is much concerned over the fate of the market house bond ordinance. This measure, carrying an appropriation clause, requires six votes to pass. It is thought generally that the four "antis" are opposed to the bond issue, and therefore it is expected they will vote against it. What the anti will do with the nurses' home ordinance has not been indicated.

An ordinance providing for establishment of a city planning commission under the new law passed by the Legislature was introduced and referred to the committee on the whole, with Councilman G. G. Schmidt as chairman.

The traffic ordinance was mentioned only once during the meeting and it did not explain the error at that time, but the meeting said it involved the matter of parking beneath the elevated tracks at the Union Station. The anti considered this merely a subterfuge to cover up the fact that the administration was afraid to submit the measure to a vote.

DIE IF NOT ACTED ON AT NEXT MEETING.

The traffic ordinance and the two bond issue measures must be reported out of committee at the next regular meeting, April 4, or they will have been in the committee's hands more than sixty days and automatically fall of passage. All three were introduced Feb. 7.

Three ordinances relating to the purchase of motor equipment by the board of public works and one by the board of public safety were introduced.

An ordinance directed to revise the location of slaughter houses, soap factories, breweries, distilleries, fertilizer factories and other businesses termed by the measure as nuisances within 1,000 feet of any public building, park, playground, boulevard, church, school, library, hospital or any established residence district comprising of ten or more houses as introduced by Councilman Louis W. Carver.

The board of public health would have power to enforce the ordinance, which carried a penalty of not more than $500 fine or more than six months' imprisonment, or both.

The salary of Laurel Thayer, probation officer of city court, would be increased from $1,100 to $2,000 a year by another ordinance introduced.

Bills appropriating $500 to the board of safety to defray the expenses of one or more firemen for attendance at the New York City Fire College during April and May, and $5,000 to pay back electric light and heating bills and charges owing the Merchants Heat and Light Company, were passed. The board of safety announced it will send Battalion Chief Herbert Fulmer to the fire school for the first period, and possibly Fire Chief John C. Loucks for a part of the course. Battalion Chief Fulmer will have charge of the local fire school when it is established.

Income Delinquents Will Be Rounded Up

Now that the force of the local internal revenue department has caught up with its work following the eleventh hour rush of income taxpayers last week, the deputies will turn their attention to rounding up delinquents, according to H. M. Tobey, chief of division No. 1, in which Indianapolis is located. Mr. Tobey says that this will be a real task and will keep his men busy for some time. However, it is not believed that there will be as many delinquents this year as in the past.

ONE'S WILL FOR RIGHT CROWDS SIN, SAYS GIPSY

In answer to their prayers. These people all spoke of God in their church. I wonder what would happen if every one should speak of God in one of our schools. Some would say it was a new religion, but I wouldn't. I would say it was an old one being revived."

The evangelist declared that he was afraid that sometimes the word of God is not used in such a way that nobody can recognize it.

"When you talk about something you are not sure of and nobody else knows anything about, they call it metaphysics," he said.

Gipsy Smith waved a copy of the New Testament before his audience.

"This work is the word of the spirit," he said. "I use it without the power of the Holy Ghost you do more harm than good."

VIRGIL DECKER 'CONFESSION' IS REPUDIATED

Attorney Holds Signed Statement,
Claiming Advantage
Was Taken of Prisoner.

EXPECT QUIZ THURSDAY

Special to The Times.

WARSAW, Ind., March 22.—Both the prosecution and the defense in the Atwood murder mystery kept their silence today and "sawed wood."

Virgil Decker, 18, confessed slayer of Leroy Lovett, his youthful cousin, refused to talk further on advice of his counsel, but the defense continued to gather evidence for the special grand jury which is expected to meet Thursday to investigate the murder.

Robert A. Buhler, Jr., Wayne attorney, retained by Decker's relatives as the boy's counsel, attempted to repudiate the confession Virgil made to Sheriff and Mrs. C. B. Moon and detectives working on the case. Buhler said his client confessed the crime when the detectives promised him leniency, when they told him he would be sent to prison for two years and that the prison training would be similar to that man received in the army. Buhler had a signed statement from the youth to bear this out.

Detectives Stout, Jones and Merrill, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, named as the men who promised Virgil Decker leniency, ridiculed the statement Buhler said he had from young Decker. They denied promising the youth a light sentence.

In view of the alleged repudiation, Buhler said he would not without the power of the Holy Ghost you do more harm than good."

Mechanics Lien Does Not Apply to Sodding

After reading decisions in cases extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, Judge T. J. Moll of Superior Court, Room 5, today held that mechanic's lien could not apply to sodding law.

The court made legal history when he decided that Boyd Randolph, a soldier, could not take advantage of a mechanic's lien against Hannah C. Brown for whom he sodded a lawn. His bill was $85 and of that amount $50 has been paid, the evidence showed.

To collect the remainder, Randolph attempted to use a mechanic's lien. The court held that such action could not apply in cases of this nature.

It required about forty-eight hours of Judge Moll's time to prepare this decision.

"From the time Bernauer called me a big liar and asked me if I knew where he could get some dough and I asked him if he had anything on him several conversations took place. "I then turned north on Meridian and walked to Louisiana street and turned west to Illinois street, walking about 100 feet to the rear. I got a street car and went to Payne's Daily Lunch and met my wife and went to our flat."

MANUAL PLAY IS WELL RECEIVED

'Swords and Scissors' Given First Performance.

The first performance of "Swords and Scissors" was given by the students of Manual Training High School last night in the school auditorium. During the first act the players were slightly self-conscious, but the quality of the singing and acting improved, and in the second act they showed no lack of confidence.

All of the participants in the opera have been at some time under the instruction of Ralph G. Wilcox. Credit for the success of the production was given to him and Miss Lola I. Perkins. Claude Pitsenberger, in the role of Napoleon, displayed a striking resemblance to that famous warrior. Harriet Brennan, tenor, received a big ovation. His robust tenor voice seemed literally to fill the auditorium. Miss Mary Homberg, soprano, showed decided talent. Miss Gertrude Miedema sang well and her work was especially noticeable for the manner in which she filed the part of the Empress of France. Miss Miedema, who was exquisitely gowned, made a truly regal appearance.

The chorus, composed of about twenty-five girls, sang in a manner that brought commendation from the audience.
