Phone Users Won't Let Gipsy Bathe

The life of an evangelist of the Gipsy Smith caliber does not consist merely of giving two sermons a day, according to a revelation of the gipsy evangelist at the meeting last night.

According to Gipsy Smith, his work goes on even before he arises from his bed in the mornings, when Indianapolis citizens call him by phone at his hotel. And these persons who call him at the hotel are not mindful of when they call either. For the evangelist said he was called from his bath six times yesterday morning to answer his telephone.

INDIANAPOLIS IS JUSTLY PROUD

Of Her Youthful Dancers Now at Lyric

In Martha Doris Michaels, the 6-year-old dancer prodigy, who is appearing at the Lyric this week in a series of dances, it is believed that Indianapolis can lay claim to the youngest danseuse in America. The work of this little tot is a revelation to professional dancing instructors. She performs with all the grace and agility of a ballet star and outshines many grownups who have had years of experience.

Little Miss Michaels lives with her mother at 2175 North Pennsylvania street. She has been under a course of instruction for two years and rapidly reached the point where her teachers could add nothing to the development of her talent.

She is assisted in her act by Evelyn Katanik, age 9, an Indianapolis girl, who is also a dancer of exceptional promise and who lives with her parents at 2039 North Talbott avenue.

Miss Martha Doris Michaels, who can carry her ballet costume in a hatbox, and her dancing friend, Miss Evelyn Katanik.

Helen Hayes from the cast of Booth Tarkington's "Clarence." Miss Hayes is the part, being just one year older than the fictitious Bab. She is considered by many critics to be the logical successor to Maude Adams in the affections of American theatergoers. Certainly at the age of 18 she has a record of achievement which has never been approached by any other American actress at the same age.

Assisting Miss Hayes will be a company which includes among its members Saxon King, Sam Edwards, Robert Hudson, Stephen Davis, Arthur Eldred, Percy Haswell, Miriam Collins, Claribel Camp, Helen Hayes and Helen Gurney.

Among the attractions on view today are: Fritz Leiber in "Romeo and Juliet," matinee, and "Othello," night, at Englehart; "The Country Fair" at the Lyric; "The Social Follies," at the Park; "O'Malley of the Mounted," at the Alhambra; "The Country Fair" at the Lyric; "The Ole Swinnin' Hole," at the Lyric; "The Glided Lily," at the Lyric; "The Nut," at the Lyric; and "West is West," at the Lyric.

CONCERNING "JULIUS CAESAR" AND MR. FRITZ LEIBER. Mr. Fritz Leiber's production of "Julius Caesar" appeared to be much more satisfactory than his "Hamlet." Mr. Leiber appeared to fit into the role of Marc Antony much more easily than he did in the part of Hamlet. His reading of the lines reflected sentiment. His members of the company appeared to take

Veteran Gets Back Voice in Sky Trip

WASHINGTON, March 30.—H. A. Renz, a former service man, is today able to speak, thanks to an airplane flight.

Renz lost his voice several months ago. Specialists were unable to help him. He decided upon an airplane flight and was aloft an hour. On landing, Renz rushed to the telephone and called his mother, who heard his voice for the first time in six months.

their work much more seriously than they did in "Hamlet" on Monday night.

Mr. Leiber's Marc Antony and the Portia of Iry Marshall were the outstanding features of the performance last night at Englehart. Both read their lines beautifully, especially Mr. Leiber in the oration over the body of Caesar.

C. P. Hall gave the necessary dignity to the role of Julius Caesar and he read his lines clearly. He staged a remarkable fall when he was stabbed to death in the Senate. His "fall" is one of the best seen on the stage in a long time.

The Brutus of Louis Leon Hall was aided by the Casa of John C. Hickey, who was stabbed to death in the Senate. His "fall" is one of the best seen on the stage in a long time.

The scene in the act was well handled. Mr. Leiber and his company will appear in "Romeo and Juliet" this afternoon and in "Othello" on night.
