ACT TO PROTECT FISH AND GAME

Shelby County Forms Association.

As evidence there has been a great reversal of opinion in Shelby County toward the conservation of fish and game, leading citizens in that county have organized a protective organization to be known as the Shelby County Fish and Game Protective Association. Many farmers, business and professional men comprise the charter membership of fifty, and Alonzo Blair, judge of the Shelby Circuit Court, was named chairman of the committee on rules. William B. Sleeth of Flat Rock was named president, and Wilbur P. Pull, an attorney of Shelbyville, made secretary and treasurer.

George N. Mannfeld, chief of the division of fish and game of the State department of conservation, made the principal address. He explained it was imperative that a drive be made on the seiner and dynamiter in Shelby County waters if sportsmen ever expected to enjoy good fishing. His department had received little encouragement in prosecuting violators in that county in the past, he said.

"While I do not expect members of this association to act as game wardens, we do expect them to cooperate with farmers and landowners to assist in driving out that element which damages property and carries off the farmers' poultry and the like," the speaker declared.

Sells-Floto Circus First Big Tent Attraction Here

The first circus of the season will arrive in Indianapolis Thursday for two performances and a street parade. Sells-Floto circus has the honor of opening the season here. Jerry Mugivan, one of the owners, has announced that Sells-Floto will continue its street parade this season. This announcement is of interest since several other circuses have announced that the street parade has been eliminated for this season. On Thursday the street parade is announced at 11 o'clock in the morning.

The introductory pageant this year is called "The Birth of the Rainbow." Following this spectacle comes three rings of trick mules and their clown riders. Then, when the mules and the clowns get every one feeling good, come the elephants.

Among the features of the circus this season are the aerial acts and the talent announced shows many of international reputations. Among the aerial artists are the Sweeney Duo, Mlle. White, Mlle. Lawson, the Kendricks, the Hamilton Sisters and others.

Of the wire performers, there will be Bertie Benson, the Four Raimonnes and others. The equestrian act of Joe Hodgkin is featured. In Chicago, where the show played a phenomenally successful ful three weeks' engagement at the beginning of the season, the features that attracted the most attention, in addition to Miss Beeson, were the aerial butterfly ballet, in which thirty young women give a startling exhibition of posing and whirling while suspended in mid-air by their teeth; the acrobatic Hamido Madri Arabs; the Codona and Nelson troupes of flying gymnasts; Beatrice Sweeney, the whirl-gig girl, the famous riding Hanneford, from the New York Hippodrome, and the great Otawaga troupe of Jiu Jitsu Japanese. And these are only a few of the top line features.
