

AR REROUTING ABSOLUTELY UP TO CITY, HE SAYS

Service Board Can Act Only as Appellate Body, Declares McCordle.

The public service commission has no control over street car service other than as an appellate body and will not have under the law which gives utilities the right to surrender their franchises, John W. McCordle, chairman of the public service commission, declared today in commenting on the controversy between the board of public works and the city council over authority to reroute cars.

"The public service commission hopes merely to cooperate with the city in planning street car service," Mr. McCordle said. "We are willing to cooperate with whoever represents the city, either the council or the board of works, or both."

Mr. McCordle cited the public service commission law as authority for the statement that the city has absolute control over matters of service unless the utility company appeals to the commission. He said that the commission will, in an opinion issued by Attorney General U. S. Lesh in which the attorney general has ruled that the city council has authority to reroute service, that a utility company, as at Rockport. The question of the authority of the board of works did not enter into that case.

The authority of the city council in the matter of service, according to Mr. McCordle, is fixed by section 110 of the public service commission act, which reads as follows:

"Every municipal council shall have power (a) to determine by contract, ordinance or otherwise the quality and character of each kind of product or service to be furnished or rendered by a public utility furnishing any product or service within said municipality and all other terms not inconsistent with this act upon which such public utility may be permitted to occupy the streets, highways or other public property within each municipality, and such contract, ordinance or other law, even if it has been delegated to the board.

"It is pointed out by the council may delegate power granted under this act to the board of works, but that it may exercise the power itself, even if it has been delegated to the board.

SOLONS TRY TO SAVE GOOD NAME

Connecticut's Reputation at Stake in Bigamy Law.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 2.—Last minute efforts to rush through a bill amending the present bigamy statute and "save the name of Connecticut from the bigamy scandal" were made in the Legislature today.

Leaders planned to report the new bigamy bill from the judiciary committee and record it in the laws of the State before sine die adjournment during four remaining days of the present session. Some members of the Legislature expressed fear the bill might die with the end of the session, but Senator Delaney, Bridgeport, author of the amendment, declared he was sure the bill would pass.

Governor Lane is certain to sign it. With the new amendment the State will be enabled to prosecute bigamists without being forced to prove they cohabited in this State.

MEN'S CLOTHING TO BE QUIZZED

Senate Committee Soon to Take Up Investigation of Trade.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Investigation of the men's clothing business was virtually decided on today by the Senate Education and Labor Committee in spite of efforts by both employers and workers in New York to have the committee delay action on the Borah resolution for an inquiry.

Although the committee took no formal action today on the Borah resolution, it was stated after the report awaited only a receipt regarding the terms of settlement of the New York strike and a determination as to what members of the committee have to go to New York to make the inquiry.

The Amalgamated Union of Garment Workers was assailed by the committee today as a "red" organization by William A. Barker, president of the New York Clothing Trade Association, and Archibald E. Stevenson, counsel for that organization. Stevenson was formerly special counsel for the Lusk legislative investigating committee in New York.

They told the commission the clothing makers union is a hotbed for Bolshevist propaganda in the United States and insisted that for the good of the country the investigation ought to go on. Committee members said they want to learn whether the strike settlement just agreed was made in good faith or whether it is an attempt to stave off the investigation "by throwing dust" in the committee's eyes.

Another meeting will be made in a few days.

Scream! Best Burglar Alarm for Women

Scream loud and scream long when confronted by a burglar or a footpad!

This is the advice of Chief of Police "Huts on Home Protection" for the benefit of the female of the species.

A woman's best defense against attack is her voice, Williams declares, and says that the best and quickest way for her to do when confronted by an intruder is to scream—scream at the top of her voice—and the more terrified the burglar the more successful her effort is likely to be.

And the big mogul of Denver's police department adds a few "don'ts" to the advice to women.

"Don't slip over to the grocery store and get a loaf of bread," he says, "and then go out at night leaving the house dark. A thief works best under cover of darkness."

"Raise the shades, light up dimly, and look the burglar in the face when he comes in."

"Don't hide the front door key under the porch mat for 'sonny or 'sister when they get home from school. A prowler will find the key and use it to discover the secret."

BRITISH INVOKE NEW QUESTION

Problem of Consolidating Pacific Fleet Given New Turn.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Reports that the question of maintaining a British fleet in the Pacific may be decided at the forthcoming session of the British imperial council, which opens in London about fifteen days hence, have injected a new element into consideration by the Harding administration of the advisability of consolidating the major portion of the American fighting craft in that ocean.

The problem of defending the empire, it was learned today, is high up on the list of things to be considered at the imperial conference, and it is understood an effort will be made to work out some practicable plan for relieving the home government of a part of the enormous expense of maintaining a fleet in that ocean.

Aside from any question of possible conflict, suggestions of which are dismissed as ridiculous, it is asserted that the United States "tends toward the south and west," and it is argued an imposing fleet in the Pacific would do much to maintain American prestige in that distant sea.

Announcement of a decision by the Administration on the proposal to consolidate the naval forces is expected soon.

STARVING POLES ATTACK FRENCH

Loot Supply Train, Suffering Casualties—Germans Continue Harrassment French.

OPPEN, Upper Silesia, June 2.—Starving Polish insurgents have turned on friendly French soldiers and many lives have been lost in brief skirmishes, according to reports here today.

The most serious break occurred at Kattowitz where a French supply train was rushed by a mob of hungry Poles. Drivers of the lorries were brushed from their seats while the attackers looted the supplies. French guards opened fire. The rioters replied instantly. Only after several lives had been lost, did the looters withdraw.

Other encounters were reported here, indicating the plight of the French and their growing impatience with the French.

Meanwhile the Germans have continued to harass the French. From the first they have charged the French were trying to help Poland obtain the major portion of Silesia. At Benzin this ill feeling flared into active fighting. More than a thousand Germans there angered the French by the suppression of the Poles. Within a few movements they had surrounded the headquarters and opened fire on the French. French broke windows but did little other damage.

A number of French tanks were stationed in the barracks yard and the Germans, having captured the sentries, attempted to capture the tanks. The tanks, however, repelled the attacks with revolvers and a threat to use their machine guns.

The Germans retreated to adjacent barracks and continued to fire. The tanks broke up the attack with machine guns. The Germans left a number of dead.

U. S. CITIZENS IN RUSSIA IN PERIL Hughes Endeavoring to Get Their Release.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The lives of more than a score of American citizens imprisoned or otherwise detained in soviet Russia now hinge in the efforts being made by Secretary Hughes to obtain their release, it was believed here today.

Hughes now is understood to be working on a number of plans to get these American men and women out of the hands of the Bolshevik authorities alive. To leave the Americans in Russia to their fate would be a blot against the honor of the United States Government, according to opinion here, but at the same time Hughes is said to fear that any miscarriage of the State Department's plans might result in the deaths of some.

The State Department is in receipt of information the plight of those actually in prison is most serious. However, none of these reports nor even the names of the men held in Russia are being made public in the State Department at present, for fear this might prejudice the chances of rescuing the Americans.

CLAIM ORDER IS COUP OF CAR CO.

Residents File Objection to Change in Street.

Alleging the order made by the board of works opening and changing Michigan street from Dorman street to Highland avenue is "for the private purpose of permitting the Indianapolis Street Railway Company to lay tracks" along the proposed new highway, William C. Freund and Stella E. Freund today filed a suit in Superior Court, Room 4, asking for a restraining order against the city of Indianapolis.

The plaintiffs ask the city of Indianapolis be restrained from attempting to condemn property owned by the plaintiffs so the proposed improvement can go through as ordered by the board of works.

The Friends claim a building located on their own property in the C. E. Coffin's East Vermont street addition to the city of Indianapolis would be cut in two if the plans of the board of works are carried out in the opening of the street.

The petitioners also ask the city of Indianapolis be enjoined from collecting the assessments levied against their property.

The suit states the resolution passed by the board of works "purports to be an improvement of Michigan street by opening and changing Michigan street between Highland avenue and Dorman street, but in fact, the proposed improvement is a strip of ground opened and condemned which intersects Highland avenue and Michigan street, cutting off a triangular corner on the northeast corner of Michigan street and Highland avenue, opening up an entirely new highway and not in any way changing the original lines of Michigan street."
