

HIROHITO SAYS HE FAVORS U.S. COOPERATION

Crown Prince of Japan Sees World Peace From 'Hand-in-Hand' Policy.

VIOLATES TRADITION

By WILFRED FLEISHER.
(Copyright, 1921, by the United Press.)
PARIS, June 8.—"I hope America and Japan may always be found working hand in hand, not only for our mutual benefit, but to insure lasting peace throughout the world," Crown Prince Hirohito of Japan declared today in an interview with the United Press.

The Prince upset all tradition when he personally received the correspondent at his temporary residence here. He had not only cherished a desire to visit the United States, the Prince said. "I hope it will be only a deferred pleasure."

Being interviewed was decidedly a new experience for the carefully guarded descendant of the world's oldest dynasty. He had never before been interviewed. He had never before been asked to answer questions with a smile.

He was somewhat restrained at first, but lost the stiffness after the first question and smiled as he delivered his answers through an interpreter.

A uniformed member of the Prince's staff, accompanied him into the presence of the Prince. Another attendant stood beside the Prince in the big reception room where the interview was held.

As we approached the Prince stood rigidly erect, his head together and his hands tight against his trouser seams.

Prince Hirohito lost his restraints when the introduction was completed. He shook hands warmly and smiled broadly, turning to the interpreter with a remark which was translated to me as:

"His highness is greatly pleased to see you."

"I thank his highness," I returned in French.

"Does his highness enjoy traveling?"

"Oh," the Prince broke in smilingly, "I am waiting for the translation."

The Prince again turned to the interpreter and spoke rapidly. When he had finished speaking he drew himself up again to military stiffness while the translation was being made.

"His highness commends me to deliver to you a message to the people of the United States," the interpreter said. He then gave me this formal statement:

"I have long cherished a desire to visit the United States and meet her people. I hope it will be only a deferred pleasure."

"I know full well to what degree justice and freedom are valued in America and that no efforts are ever spared by her people in the cause of humanity."

"I hope Japan and America may always be found working hand in hand, not only for our mutual benefit, but to insure lasting peace throughout the world."

SHANK FORCES
CONTROL PARTY

no sooner called for order than he announced that the candidates had decided to abandon the plan of making the city committee a platform drafting body and call it instead the general advisory committee.

He said that because Marie N. Walker was the first man named when the list was drawn up, he had been named as chairman of the advisory committee.

WALKER READY WITH MOTION.

Mr. Walker, another Shank supporter, seconded the motion and it was unanimously carried.

A conference will be called with the judges shortly, Mr. Walker announced.

PASS IN REVIEW.

The chairman then said that there being no further business he would entertain a motion to adjourn.

Joseph Hogan, one of Shank's campaign managers, made the motion and Mrs. M. B. Spellman, Shank women's campaign manager, seconded it. Before the question could be put Clarence R. Martin suggested that the candidates be introduced to the committee and the suggestion was carried out.

They were introduced in the following order, each walking to the front of the room as his name was called:

Mr. Wise, Henry H. Harris, nominee for clerkman of the First district; Theodore J. Bernd, nominee for clerkman of the Fifth district; Lloyd H. Chalmers, nominee for clerkman of the Third district; John E. Kitz, nominee for clerkman of the Sixth district; Ben H. Thompson, nominee for clerkman of the Second district; J. H. Hartman, nominee for city judge; John W. Rhodamehl, nominee for city clerk, and Mr. Shank.

Then Mr. Walker called upon officers of the city committee, Mr. Leman, Vice Chairman Ernest L. Kingston and Treasurer Riley C. Adams responding. Mr. Leman, in acknowledging the introduction, came to the front of the room, as had the others, and took a seat beside Mr. Shank, who shook hands with him again and smiled at him.

SHANK LIEUTENANTS
ENGINEER CHANGE.

After the meeting adjourned one of the candidates disclosed that the decision to change the purpose of the committee of forty into an advisory body was reached after several quiet gatherings of the men on the ticket had been held in Mr. Wise's office.

CANDIDATES FRAME PLATFORM.

Candidates further disclosed after the meeting that, having been advised that legally the platform should be adopted by the regular city committee after approval by the candidates, they had decided to have the declaration of principles prepared in this way.

The interests of the chief candidate will suffer not at all through the formation of the platform in this manner, his manager said. Mr. Shank, himself, expressed pleasure that the move had been made and declared that there were just three things he wished to be sure were in the document. He said that the party to be pledged to law enforcement, economy and efficiency in office.

Politicians conceded that there is much wisdom in the plan of having all the candidates, their advisers and the city committee participate in building of the platform. Heretofore it has often happened that the candidate for mayor alone drew up a personal platform, by which, after the election, the other candidates, particularly those for city councilmen, did not consider themselves bound at all. With all having a hand in constructing the pledges to be made to the voters Mr. Shank, if elected mayor, may expect the support of the entire city administration.

SOUTH SIDE WOMEN
ORGANIZE SHANK CLUB.

Following the Marion Club meeting Mr. Shank attended a gathering at the home of Mrs. Edna B. Neighbors, Pleasant and Laurel streets, where the South Side Shank-for-Mayor Club was organized.

The club is to be composed of women who intend to vote and work for Mr. Shank. More than fifty women, representing the Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth wards were present. Predictions were made that the membership would run into thousands in a few weeks.

A number of Democrats took an active part in the organization work.

Shank women chairmen of the five wards form the board of directors as follows: Mrs. Edna B. Neighbors, Tenth ward; Mrs. Bessie Rhinehart, Eleventh ward; Mrs. Grace List, Twelfth ward; Mrs. Cozetta Oxborn, Thirteenth ward; Mrs. Nellie Bell, Fourteenth ward.

Mrs. Neighbors was elected president and Mrs. Clara Lytle of the Tenth ward was elected secretary-treasurer of the club.

Clubrooms will be obtained in a short time. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, June 22 at the Neighbors residence.

ROSE POLY HOLDS
ANNUAL EVENT

Graduating Class Numbers
Thirty-three.

Special to The Times.
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 9.—The thirty-seventh annual commencement of Rose Polytechnic Institute was held here today at the First Methodist Church.

Thirty-three seniors were given diplomas, a number of others received advanced engineering degrees. The principal speakers were Robert W. Hunt, president of the Robert Hunt Company of Chicago, and Jay Hall, a graduate of the 1898 Rose Poly class.

Those receiving diplomas were Robert W. Hunt, Terrence H. Terrence, Everett B. Boller, Albert H. Boller, William Henry Bruning, Indianapolis; Edwin Carnarius, Terre Haute; Homer Clark, Terre Haute; Carl Deibel, Terre Haute; Jesse Downer, Dayton, Ohio; Terrence H. Indianapolis Man
Escapes Crash

Special to The Times.
GREENSBURG, Ind., June 9.—Frank Reichle of Indianapolis, representative of the Michael Wholesale house of that city, escaped injury by jumping from his roadster here Wednesday just before it was struck by an Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction car.

Reichle was driving a Buick when the wheels of his car became caught in the track just as he was about to pass the Interurban. The car met head-on and the roadster was demolished.

6 Negroes Granted
Stay of Execution

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 9.—Six negroes sentenced to die in the electric chair tomorrow for complicity in the 1919 Elaine race riots were granted a stay of execution today pending the outcome of habeas corpus proceedings in the Pulaski chancery court.

The negroes, convicted specifically of the murder of Clifton Lee, World War veteran, are Frank Moore, Paul Hall, Frank and Edward Hicks, J. E. Knox and Edward Coleman.

LEGION HOME IS OPENED BY CEREMONIES

Roosevelt, New and Van Nys
Speakers at Anderson Event.

MORE THAN 1,000 ATTEND

Special to The Times.
ANDERSON, Ind., June 9.—At a meeting held in connection with the opening of the new American Legion home in this city yesterday, Cal. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. and Senator Harry S. New were the principal speakers. Mr. Roosevelt was met by a squad of legion men in uniform who escorted him to the opera house, where he addressed an audience of more than one thousand people, in behalf of the work of the American Legion.

Relative to affairs of the American Legion, Mr. Roosevelt explained as follows: "The foundation of the legion is constructed on the principle that a man is a general, private, sergeant, admiral or marl, he has an equal voice in the administration of the business of the organization."

At night Frederick Van Nys, United States district attorney, made the chief speech at the actual ceremonies attending the opening of the new legion home, conducted under auspices of the George H. Hockett Legion Post.

HAYWOOD'S FLIGHT COUNTRY'S BLESSING

Special to The Times.
ANDERSON, Ind., June 9.—Big Bill Haywood's flight to Russia to escape a Federal prison sentence of twenty years, was characterized as a great blessing to this country by Frederick Van Nys, United States district attorney, in a talk made here before the George H. Hockett Post of the American Legion at the dedication ceremonies of the new post home.

His speech, in part, follows: "The Communist party of America is the nearest approach to Bolshevism in this country. You know the type of its membership. You can't pronounce their names. You have to sneeze 'em. They bundle together in some old, broken-down building, and there they sit, and talk about as much interest in current events as a gold-fish does in mathematics. They have three incentives in life—rye bread, garlic and a leather belt, filled with enough American gold to last back home and be a rich man."

DOES NOT KNOW WHY
GOVERNMENT ACTIVE.

"One of them went back home the other day without his leather belt—Big Bill Haywood, secretary of the I. W. W. S. He is just going back to Russia to escape a twenty-year sentence in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for anti-war activities. I'm glad he went. I don't know why the Government is trying to get him back. They have forfeited his bond now and we need the money. We won't have to feed him and waste good American pork and beans on him for twenty years at the Leavenworth penitentiary."

"He's gone back to soviet Russia—the land of free speech and free bullets, and it is just possible that he may project his big Socialist bulk in the path of one of those free bullets. If he does he'll have to credit him as coming from Russia and not from America. We will improve our batting average just that much."

PAYS TRIBUTE TO LEGION MEN.

Mr. Van Nys closed his remarks with a tribute to the members of the American Legion as follows:

"Remember that no set of men in the world has been so disciplined, have been so imbued with the true spirit of Americanism as the members of the American Legion. Three thousand miles from home, in a strange country, amid strange surroundings, they have stood against nations, and with grief and passion, you boys who were permitted to get away from the world, what a dependable thing and likable thing is true Americanism."

"And you men who served at home and conditioned yourselves and disciplined yourselves in the different camps of the country—you, too, are deserving of equal credit in this demonstration to the world of the sturdy citizenship of the American people."

"You accepted the responsibilities of war, and now, by your presence here tonight, and by the demonstration of your willingness and your fitness, and ability, you are assuming the responsibility of the citizens in times of peace."

"I congratulate you and I congratulate the country upon the American Legion. To you, we bring tonight the truest of a grateful people, the keepers of the faith, the defenders of the altar fires of American patriotism."

JUDGES' REPORTS SHOW INCREASES

Work of Past Year Reviewed for County Board.

The judges of the courts of Marion County, with the exception of the Juvenile court, today presented the Marion County commissioners with typewritten statements of the amount of work done in the last year.

The reports show that not only has the number of cases increased, but that the importance of the cases, especially big receivership and tax litigation, has consumed much of the time of some of the courts.

Judge James A. Collins of the Criminal Court reported that the number of cases has increased one-third over that of his predecessor.

The commissioners asked for this information before acting upon a resolution increasing the salary of the judges. The last Legislature passed a measure which permits the increase in the salary of the judges of the county.

President Carlin Shank of the commissioners' court indicated that the board would approve of the resolution increasing the salaries.

CHARGE LUMBER
PRICE COLLUSION

Federal Commission Accuses
West Coast Industry.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Charges of price collusion and restriction of production to maintain prices were made against the West Coast Lumberman's Association by the Federal Trade Commission, in a special report to Congress today.

Canadian lumber men were taken into the fold in 1919, when they threatened proposed price increases in this country by planning to ship Canadian logs, the report stated and it further charged that prices today are at high levels.

The report explains that the association is made up of lumbermen and loggers in what is known as the Douglas Fir Region in the Pacific Northwest.

The commission said that between 1913 and 1920 wholesale quotation on fir lumber increased 300 to 500 per cent and that despite recent reductions some prices are still at the level of May 1920.

Others are at the level they were in the spring of 1917.

City's Humane Officers Hold Speed Record, But the Glory Is Not Theirs

Four Minions of Mercy Put in Full Day's Toil Guarding Dumb Charges.

Indianapolis, known the world over as the city where all speed records are broken each year by automobiles, and Indianapolis automobiles, at times, can hold its own against any other variety. For if figures contained in their report can be taken at face value, this city has four of the speediest humane officers in existence.

There are four of them, Gusolus, Bledsoe, Gaddis and Sparks. And these four men have been working harder apparently, than any other employee who depends on the city payroll for his weekly meal ticket.

These four men, during the month of May, had a total of 2,081 cases called for investigation by them, and they investigated them, too, for their report shows that they saved more than 12,000 animals. It is found this means that each man had an average of little more than seven cases to investigate each day of the calendar month. This may seem like a small task, more child's play, as it were, but go a little further, and see what sort of investigations were made, and the impression of a "soft job" will vanish.

When one stops and figures it out, it is found this means that each man had an average of little more than seven cases to investigate each day of the calendar month. This may seem like a small task, more child's play, as it were, but go a little further, and see what sort of investigations were made, and the impression of a "soft job" will vanish.

CHICKEN INSPECTORS.

There were twenty-three cases in court which the men, or at least one of them, was compelled to attend, as witness. This means that at least one of the men was in court, and an average of almost one each day, all of which takes up his time.

Then there are chicken inspections—poultry. There were 519 inspections of poultry made, which means that one man must make an average of more than four chicken inspections each day. Keep in mind that perhaps he was in court also that day.

There is an item in the report which states 931 inspections of localities where teams are used were made. That means that in addition to spending part of the day in court and making inspections of poultry, each man had to make about eight inspections like the above.

Cases reported to the humane officers' office, and investigated, amounted to 192. Sandwiched in between the duties mentioned above, then, the humane officer must find time to run down at least one report each day. Then there are charity calls, or what are known as "barns inspected and ordered cleaned and repaired, of dogs, which is an occupation for which not many persons long, of which there were three; one horse was destroyed; fifteen horses and mules were ordered sent to the blacksmith shop for shoeing.

There must have been an investigation of cruelty to the animals; twenty-eight warnings were issued for beating and mistreating children; and, of course, there must have been an investigation before the warnings were issued, and this investigation must have been worked in alongside of divers other duties.

ISSUED WARNINGS
TO 139 PERSONS.

Two persons were sent to the Woman's Prison, one to the Marion County Jail and one to the city hospital, and certainly these persons would not have been sent to these institutions unless an investigation had been made. So that there are a few moments more of the humane officers' work day. The officers gave warnings for better attention to animals to 139 persons, and certainly there must have been some investigations along this line, also. How would they know animals were being mistreated?

Twelve horses and mules were ordered out of service, so the humane officers must have devoted a few "spare" moments to such cases for investigation.

Then there is one more demand on the time of the humane officers. That item is not included in the report. This demand is the humane officers' work day. It is making a trip to the city hall for their salary.

IT TAKES TIME TO MAKE TRIP REPORT.

And when the officers have nothing else to occupy their time, they sit down and make out their monthly report, to see where they have spent their time.

Accompanying the report of the officers, G. W. Butler of the committee appointed to visit the Indiana School of Medicine, also submitted a report on the care of dogs at the time. It is as follows: "The humane committee appointed to visit the School of Medicine connected with the Indiana State University, located on West Michigan street, and to cooperate with the officials of that institution in the humane handling of dogs and other animals used for scientific purposes, may submit the following report for May 1921:

"Upon an unannounced visit to the institution during the month we found very few dogs, about a half dozen, and according to appearances, these were being cared for properly. We were told by Mr. Scott, in charge, that operative work for class demonstration was about over for the summer. He stated, however, that Dr. Gatch might have occasion to use a few dogs during the summer."

SAYS CUTTING IN PRICES WILL BE ON FASTER SCALE

Treasury Actuary Sees in Money Deflation Greater Purchasing Power.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—A new series of reductions in prices of all commodities is beginning in nearly every section of the country, James McCoy, actuary of the Treasury Department declared today.

The nation-wide price cutting which began just about a year ago, had slowed during the last few months. Now price-cutting is to be resumed on a new and faster scale, it is indicated by factors which McCoy considers important. One of these factors is an unusually big drop in the per capita circulation of money. In the month ended June 1, the per capita circulation fell off 88 cents to $5.43 a person, according to announcement by the Treasury.

"This shows conclusively that prices are falling," said McCoy. "It means that money is getting harder to obtain because there is less of it to be had. When you have to work harder to get money, it is worth more and will buy more. During the war money was inflated, plentiful and easy to obtain—that is, comparatively. That is what made all prices soar. Now that we're being deflated the converse becomes true."

McCoy is supported by data in possession of the Labor Department concerning retail and wholesale prices throughout the United States. This shows that the dollar which buys food at the corner grocery and meat shop will now obtain for its possessors nearly twice as much as six months ago.
