

MAKES REPORT ON SPAWNING SEASON

State Fish Agent Says New Law of Benefit.

A fish and game association with a large membership was organized at Bloomington a few days ago and a new club will be organized at Charlestown in Clark County this week. A. E. Bodine, organizer for the fish and game division of the State conservation department, writes George N. Mansfield, division chief. This raises the number of protective fish and game clubs to 120 in Indiana. According to Mr. Bodine, who has visited the majority of the counties in the State when the closed season law protecting bass and blue gills during spawning was in force, piscatorial devotees are now assured as to the good this law has done for the sport. Mansfield says indications are there was an unusually large hatch of game fish in Hoosier waters due to nature propagation, and in two years the greater portion of this season's bass hatch will be of lawful size to catch. Interest throughout the State as regards fishing shows a decided increase for thousands of persons now look upon this sport as a means of delightful and healthful recreation.

Fined on 1 Count, Another Continued, Third Dismissed

James Jordan, 812 North Illinois street, arrested June 13 on charges of malicious destruction of property, drunkenness and assault and battery, was fined $1 and costs and sentenced to two days in jail on the assault charge by Judge Walter Pritchard in city court late yesterday. The malicious destruction of property charge was taken under advisement until July 8 and the drunkenness charge was dismissed. Motor policemen Wilson and Maas said they were called to the North Illinois street address by Mrs. Amy Jordan, wife of James Jordan, between whom, it is said, a divorce suit is pending, on a complaint that Jordan was knocking out window panes with a club. Eighteen panes of glass were found broken. The damage was estimated at $25.

City Prison Thief's Bond Put at $2,000

Willis Butler, negro, 25, 610 East Court street, who was arrested by Detectives Manning and White in the city prison for stealing valuables from prisoners, was bound over to the grand jury under $2,000 bond after a preliminary hearing by Judge Walter Pritchard in city court yesterday afternoon. Butler, it is said, has served two years in the Michigan State Prison after having been convicted of a charge of murder about six years ago.

Sale of the Old Public Library Home Proposed

School Commissioners Discuss Advantages of Disposal of Property.

Sale of the old public library building at the southwest corner of Ohio and Meridian streets, now occupied by the board of school commissioners, was advocated by W. D. Allison, member of the board, at a special meeting of that body last night. "There are a number of persons who want to buy this building," Mr. Allison said, "and I think we ought at least to look into the matter carefully. Under present condition the property is exempt from taxation. If we sell it will mean an additional $500,000 on the tax duplicates, and some will go to the city. This is a phase of the question that deserves consideration."

Other members of the board expressed similar views and declared they were in favor of disposing of the property if the right price can be obtained. Mrs. Julia Belle Tutwiler, president of the board, expressed the opinion that the board should not go into the matter hurriedly or blindly, but should be assured of other suitable quarters before disposing of the building.

Bids for the installation of heating and ventilating equipment at School No. 57, East Washington street and Kitter avenue; and at School No. 73, Thirtieth and School streets, and for ten two-room portable buildings were received. Hayes Brothers with a bid of $24,901 for School No. 57 and Freyn Brothers with a bid of $24,150 on School No. 73 were the low bidders on heating and ventilating equipment.

Owing to the fact that bidders on the portables in many instances did not adhere to the specifications it was impossible to tell who was the low bidder. All bids were referred to the building advisor for computation and will be reported back to the board at a special meeting to be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at which time the contracts will be awarded.

The following concerns submitted propositions on portable buildings: American Portable House Company, Seattle, Wash.; E. F. Hodgson Company, Boston, Mass.; Pro-State Company, Evansville, Ind.; J. F. Cantwell Company, Indianapolis; Bunting Construction Company, Indianapolis; Gael Construction Company, Indianapolis; Alexander Lumber Company, Indianapolis. Four bids for heating equipment for the portables were received from the following concerns: William H. Johnson Sons and Company, Indianapolis; Kruse & DeWenter, Indianapolis; Haynes, Langenberg Manufacturing Company, St. Louis, Mo., and the Irving Sheet Metal Works, Indianapolis. In addition to the low bidders on heating and ventilating equipment for schools No. 57 and 73, the following companies submitted bids Kruse & DeWenter, Kirkhoff Bros. & McElwaine, Strong Bros., Callow Bros., William H. Johnson Sons & Co., Cotton Wiebke Company, C. R. Lingo Engineering Company, Powers Regulator Company and the Johnson Service Company. The board approved the working plans and specifications submitted by McGuire & Shook, architects for the new eight classroom building at school No. 62, Wallace and Tenth streets; and by Hudson & Hunter, architects for the eight classroom addition at school No. 36, Twenty-Eighth street and Capitol avenue. These buildings will cost about $200,000 each. Plans for alterations at school No. 23, Missouri and Thirtieth streets, to cost about $21,000 and at school No. 34, Wade street and Boyd avenue, to cost about $2,500, were approved. On recommendation of Ralph W. Douglass, business director, John Hubbard, superintendent of supplies, was granted a leave of absence of one month.

The Truth About Indianapolis

TIRE INDUSTRY

THREE tire and tube manufacturers in Indianapolis each year build as high as 4,980,000 inner tubes, enough to equip half the automobiles in use in the United States. The largest of the manufacturers make 900,000 bicycle tires, and in addition builds the bulk of the inner tubes made in Indianapolis. Two plants manufacture 300,000 automobile casings of standard sizes.

Retail value of the tires and tubes made by the trio of manufacturers reaches $14,500,000 annually. Products of these manufacturers go all over the world. Each year 9,960,000 pounds of rubber are made into rubber products by the 1,925 men and women engaged in the industry. An Indianapolis manufacturer was among the first to build a pneumatic tire in the United States, and the first cord tire was made in this city.
