Willard-Dempsey and Gibbons-Carpenter Matches Are Talked of Now.

GEORGES STILL POPULAR

BY JACK VEIOCK.

International News Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, July 4.—They're hunting up opponents for both Dempsey and Carpenter today.

The world's champion says he is willing to defend his crown against any man the public wants by Labor day. Carpenter, eager for a change against some American fighter nearer his own weight and mollified in defeat by the nice things the press had to say about his wonderful game showing against the tiger from Utah, will stay in America for a time if necessary to get a match.

Conferences between Promoter Tex Rickard and both fighters later in the day may develop definite plans for future bouts. Dempsey says he will meet anyone—Willard, Brennan, even Billy Williams, if the public wants this match.

GEORGES TRIES TO ACT

Carpenter has asked Rickard to get him a match with Tommy Gibbons, Brennan or anybody who has an idea that the world's light heavyweight champion is resting on the wrong brow. Georges, you know, is still the world's light heavyweight king.

Tex Rickard is not going to rush matters. He is going to give the boxing public time to whet up a new appetite for

Jack and Georges to Try Skill in Water

NEW YORK, July 4.—Dempsey and Carpenter will meet again.

The world's champion and his gentlemanly challenger from France have already met on the golf links and in the ring. Some time this week they will meet in the water.

Tex Rickard's swimming hole at Madison Square Garden will be the scene of the aquatic encounter between Jack and Georges, according to an announcement today.

Both are said to be enthusiastic over the swimming feat and both are reputed to be good swimmers.

title bouts, but there is not the shadow of a doubt that matches with Dempsey and Carpenter fighting in them would be popular and profitable.

The Dempsey-Carpenter bout was far from a flivver. It was a record-breaker financially and it drew the greatest paid crowd that ever witnessed a boxing match. But better yet, it was successful in a contest of the kind that the gamblers, really went down to a glorious defeat and he is not even blurring at the injured right hand of an ally. That was the kind of stuff he is made of.

A match between Dempsey and Willard would not do any harm to the sport. It would be a great deal better than a fight between two men who are not in the best of health.

Ray Archer, Willard's business partner in things flivver, who is now in New York, believes that Jack can get into condition and predict that if he is matched with Dempsey again he will not be caught unprepared.

There is little or no demand for another Dempsey-Brennan fight. Brennan is not expected to return to the ring.

Carpenter, despite his defeat by Dempsey, is still a great card. He would be a tremendous card, matched with Tommy Gibbons, who has arrived as a challenger for the heavyweight title.

There is a string of twelve straight knockouts means something. Here's a match that would be a hummer, and a match that would be a hummer, and a match that would be a hummer.

After the battle retrospection by the busy champion and his game little challenger shows only good sportsmanship and honest regard on both sides.

Sitting in and easy arm chair at Matthews Farm, Manhattan, grating out across the fields and nursing his sore right hand, yet looking little the worse for wear, Carpenter said of Dempsey Sunday:

"He is a great fighter; the greatest I've ever met. He fought a clean, fine fight all the way. It was an honor to have met him. I believe he will be the champion for a long time."

"I put all my strength into the blows I landed on Dempsey in the second round and when he didn't drop, and I felt a pain in my hand, I knew I could not defeat him. There was nothing to do but go on fighting, trusting to luck to keep out of the way of his hardest blows."

Trainer Gus Wilson then explained that Georges surprised him and Manager Hennessey by flying into the champion in the first round. Carpenter was prompted to do so by the great crowd, the big reception he received and the sight of the world's scowling champion.

"He felt that he must make it a great fight and must do his best in the early rounds," said Wilson. "So he went out and tried."

"Georges is a great and game fighter," said the champion Sunday. "I'm sorry he broke his hand. I never saw any man more game and he took his medicine like a winner; without a word."

If he thinks he should have another try later on I'm willing to give it to him, but I'm taking too much light for me. I'm sure of this, however. He is really a great light heavyweight champion and he would give it against the best man in his class."

Dempsey plans to remain in New York for a few days longer, waiting for a visit his mother in Salt Lake City. Carpenter's plans regarding sailing for home or remaining here will depend on developments within the next few days.

Indianapolis Doubles Team Still in Running of Clay Court Tourney

CHICAGO, July 4.—Walter T. Hayes of Chicago, national clay court tennis champion in 1911 was to take the courts in the final match for the 1921 title against Alex M. Squair of Chicago today.

Hayes earned his way into the final round by defeating Clinton B. Herd of Pasadena, Cal., in three straight sets, 7-5, 6-4, 6-2.

Squair won the other semi-final match from Arthur P. Hubbell of Chicago, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4, 6-1. In the semi-finals of doubles, John Hennessey and Ralph Burdick of Indianapolis defeated Squair and Jerry Weber of Chicago, 6-3, 6-4.

The Indianapolis team was erroneously reported as beaten in the third round, but the mistake being made by Chicago, the mistake being made by Chicago, the mistake being made by Chicago.

The correct third round was: Hennessey and Burdick defeated Squair and Green, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

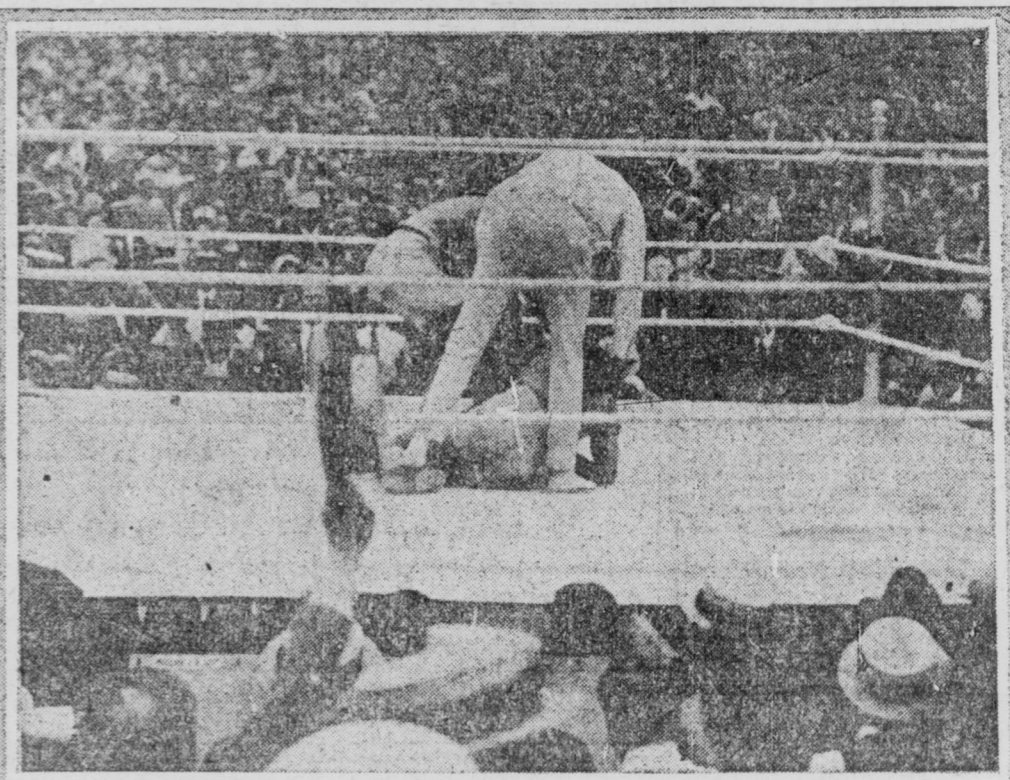

Hennessey and Burdick played splendid tennis in their semi-final victory over the Weber brothers, winning by 6-1, 6-2.

In the main, the Indianapolis pair was successful in keeping the Chicago players in the rear of the court, where they were on the defensive and at a disadvantage. Both Hennessey and Burdick varied their game to throw their opponents out of position, and they won a number of tie rallies by being over the Weber team when the latter worked into the forecourt.

WHITE WANTS BOUT

NEW YORK, July 4.—Charles White, the Chicago lightweight, announced that he would try to get Tex Rickard to arrange a fight for him with Benny Leonard, lightweight champion.

French Accept Fall of Their Ring Idol in Graceful Style

Paris Fans Still Believe, However, That Georges Is Some Scrapper.

By NEWTON C. PARKER.

PARIS, July 4.—Despite Georges Carpentier's defeat by Jack Dempsey on Saturday the belief is current in Paris that Carpentier has not yet given up hope of becoming the heavyweight champion of the world. The press suggests that there are a number of light heavyweights in the United States whom Carpentier could fight and this would prove first class training preparatory to another bid for the world title.

The extreme interest in the fight has not completely subsided today. Movie pictures of the fight are eagerly awaited to obtain an exact description of the blow, particularly those leading to Carpentier's defeat.

Contradictory descriptions were received in France, some saying that an uppercut to the jaw knocked out the injured right hand of an ally. That was the kind of stuff he is made of.

Was It a Good Fight?

HARTMAN, N. J., July 4.—President Harding showed little concern when informed late Saturday that Jack Dempsey had defeated Georges Carpentier by a knockout in the fourth round.

"Was it a good fight?" he asked of the Farm, Manhattan, grating out across the fields and nursing his sore right hand, yet looking little the worse for wear, Carpenter said of Dempsey Sunday:

"He is a great fighter; the greatest I've ever met. He fought a clean, fine fight all the way. It was an honor to have met him. I believe he will be the champion for a long time."

Luderus Is Hen Boss

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 4.—William (Derby Day) Clymer has resigned as manager of the Toledo club of the American Association, according to an announcement by President Bresnahan.

Luderus, who has been in the club since 1918, was named manager to succeed Clymer, according to Bresnahan.

"He is a great fighter; the greatest I've ever met. He fought a clean, fine fight all the way. It was an honor to have met him. I believe he will be the champion for a long time."

"I put all my strength into the blows I landed on Dempsey in the second round and when he didn't drop, and I felt a pain in my hand, I knew I could not defeat him. There was nothing to do but go on fighting, trusting to luck to keep out of the way of his hardest blows."

WITH the PUGS

WIGGINS VS. WINNER.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 4.—Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis knocked out Frank McMahon of California after twenty-three seconds of terrific fighting. Wiggins was knocked down but was up before the referee could count and hit McMahon on the chin and a right to the heart. McMahon was unconscious for a few minutes.

Tommy McDuff of Indianapolis won a newspaper decision over Art Madden of Buffalo after ten rounds of hard fighting.

WILLS HAS HARD DUTY.

NEW YORK, July 4.—Harry Wills of New Orleans, negro heavyweight champion, knocked out "Big Bill" Tate of New York in the sixth round of a scheduled fifteen-round match in Long Island City, Saturday. The bell saved Tate in the fifth round when he was knocked down twice and he took a count of nine in the sixth before the full count.

The extreme interest in the fight has not completely subsided today. Movie pictures of the fight are eagerly awaited to obtain an exact description of the blow, particularly those leading to Carpentier's defeat.

Grand Circuit Opens

CLEVELAND, July 4.—The Grand Circuit summer season was to be inaugurated with a week's meeting at the North Randall track, near here. With more than 700 trotters and pacers quartered on or near the grounds, prospects are that it will be one of the most successful meetings in history. Nearly 400 of these have been entered in the week's program.

All the famous drivers are on the ground. Among them are "Pop" Geer, Tommy Murphy, Walter Cox, Lon McDougal, Charley Valentine, Fred Edman and Nat Ray.

Hovlik Wins Twin Bill

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 4.—Ed Hovlik pitched a double header against Des Moines here Saturday and won both games, the first 6 to 0 and the second 1 to 0. Hovlik allowed only two hits in the first battle and managed to keep the thirteen he doled out in the second game scattered well enough to be safe.

GUN CLUB SHOOT.

Watson broke 100 "birds" in 100 shots at the registered shoot of the Indianapolis Gun Club Saturday and won the first Kien trophy. Ford was a close second with a score of 99. Slinkard and Reiny had scores of 98.
