

HAAG BROTHERS SETTLE SCORES WITH THE COURT

Julius A. and Louis E. Pay
Fines Aggregating $1,011
to Avoid Jail.

Julius A. Haag and Louis E. Haag, druggists, are today out of the control of the courts for the first time in more than two years. Yesterday afternoon Julius A. Haag, after being arrested for failure to pay a fine of $400 assessed by the Criminal Court for violation of the liquor laws, paid the fine and costs assessed against both himself and his brother and was released. The fines and costs totalled $1,011.

Prosecutor William P. Evans ordered the arrest of the brothers for non-payment of their fines but Julius was the only one arrested.

"The Haags stayed the payment of the fines and costs and the time limit has expired as provided by law," Prosecutor Evans stated.

The Haags were convicted in the Circuit Court by a jury on Oct. 23, 1919. Each was sentenced to thirty days on the farm and fined $400. They appealed but dismissed the appeals after they were convicted in the Federal court and sentenced to prison.

At the next session of the pardon board, the board will consider the application of the Haags that the fines imposed by Judge Will Sparks in the Criminal Court be remitted.
