Twenty Indiana Towns Are Represented at Culver Military School.

CULVER, Ind., Oct. 24.—Thirty-one National Guardsmen, representing the Indiana guards units of twenty Indiana cities and towns, are at Culver Military Academy taking a special course in rifle and pistol firing under Maj. Basil Middleton, small arms instructor at Culver, and a staff officer of the State guard.

The 131st and 132d Infantry regiments, the 13th and 131st Artillery regiments and the 113th Engineers are represented in the enrollment of the school. The units are at Indianapolis, Frankfort, Ladoga, Marion, Goshen, Hobart, Culver, Columbus, Greensburg, Brownsburg, Martinsville, Portland, Muncie, Elwood, Flores, Ft. Wayne, Madison, Seymour and Newcastle have men taking the training.

Military regulations are observed and the guardsmen are getting the benefit of much of the same training given the cavalry cadets. They are given the same calisthenics exercises and physical drills and observe the same formations. About half their day is spent on the rifle range in aerial target work and the remainder is spent in the classroom with Major Middleton, who is the Indiana rifle champion, and former instructor at Camp Perry and other rifle schools.

Adjutant General Earl B. Smith of the State Guard, will also be here sometime this week to visit the school.

NEAR EAST FILM REAL THRILLER

"Alice in Hungerland" new Near East photo-drama to be given at the relief conference at the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday and at a special showing at the Hotel Severin Tuesday evening, is said to contain all the punch and action of the average sensational "thriller."

Based on the title of "Alice in Wonderland," the picture deals with a little American girl who makes her way to Constantinople in a money board a liner to join her father who is a field worker for Near East Relief. The picture shows with much realism the reception of Alice by Admiral Bristol of the United States Navy, Uncle Sam's ships in the Bosphorus and then a tour of Alice with her father through the Bible lands of the Near East. The picture introduced an animated map which impressively shows the extent of Near East Relief activities. The key-note of the picture is "Stand by the orphans we already have salvaged, save them and do not bar the gates of our orphanages against tens of thousands of other children now clamoring for admission and protection from the winter's winds and starvation."

The evening show is being staged for teachers of the public schools and others in sympathy with the orphan situation. There is no admission fee and no collection will be taken.

Fight Over Dime Costs Marshall More Than $1,500

Special to Indiana Daily Times.

LAWRENCE, Ind., Oct. 24.—A fight over a thin dime has cost Clark J. Marshall $1,500.

The court awarded $500 damages to Mrs. Harry J. Adams for a punch on the chin by which Marshall made her take the count. Mrs. Adams, 56, set up a disturbance between Marshall who is 67, and her husband whom Marshall said owed him 10 cents. Marshall turned on Mrs. Adams.

Subsequent litigation cost the aged man $1,000, making the total cost $150,000 times the amount originally involved.

about the ship channel being of great potential possibilities, and of the probability of the development of many industries along its banks.

The oil companies drew not only from the Texas fields, but from the Mexican wells also.

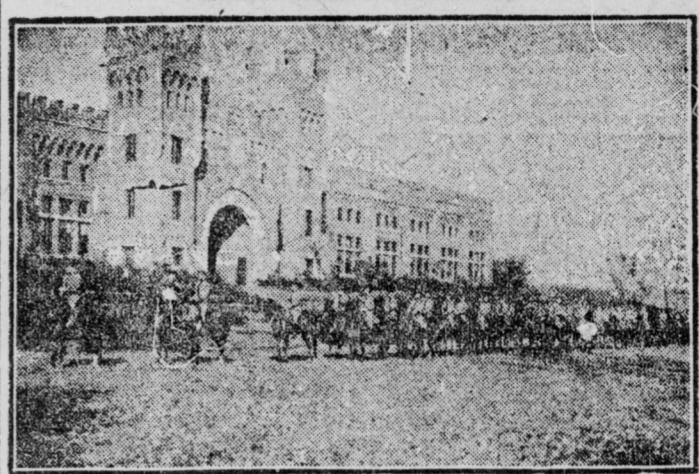

A revival in oil would have a marked effect on the Houston situation.

HUB TITLE

Hub is being applied to many cities.

It's Houston, which has seventeen railroads and acts as a distributing center for a wide stretch of country. The population of the town is 150,000. Aside from oil and cotton, the industries do not measure big compared with Eastern standards, but it has a considerable number of rice mills, cotton seed oil plants, small packing houses, paint and glass works, textile

'Black Horse Troop' of Culver to Escort Foch

The Black Horse Troop.

The Culver black horse troop, which will act as the personal escort to Marshal Foch on his visit to Indianapolis, Nov. 4, has performed similar duty for many other notables and has appeared in distinguished ceremonies for the last quarter of a century.

The troop, which is the cavalry unit of Culver Military Academy, has a brilliant history, and its members are as true to their camp's traditions as were the knights of their chivalrous deeds.

100 CAVALRYMEN

TO SALUTE GENERAL

One hundred cavalrymen, mounted on jet black steeds from the Kentucky bluegrass region, will greet the generalissimo with a saber salute when he emerges from the Union Station at Indianapolis. The troop will be formed in platoons, and the marshals will ride from the station to the Clayton Hotel. In the afternoon the marshals' motor will be preceded by two platoons of the cavalry and three platoons will march behind his car, with out-riders on either side of the machine.

The troop will be in command of Lieut. Col. Robert Rossow of the United States Army Reserve Corps, and the director of cavalry training at Culver, and Cadet Captain E. H. Heck, Headquarter Company, 151st Infantry, Evansville.

CAUTION

The Culver cavalry was originally Troop A, Ohio National Guard of Cleve-land, and was known as "McKinley's Own," having served as his escort on the occasion of his inauguration as President in 1893. Soon after the inauguration the horses of the troop were purchased by Culver Military Academy for its cavalry section, which was just being organized. Since that time the handsome black mounts, most of which have been replaced since by animals bred in the same region and trained in the same thorough manner, have continued to serve in notable functions in various places.

In the inaugural parade of 1913 and 1914 the troop was the escort of Vice President Thomas R. Marshall. In 1914 it escorted Gen. Sir Robert Baden-Powell of England, founder of the Boy Scout movement, when he visited this country. It also has escorted many other soldiers and statesmen, including Gen. Leonard Wood, Gen. Charles S. Farnsworth, Maj. Gen. George W. Reed, Maj. Gen. John J. Pershing, James Van Horn Moseley, Governor Samuel Balston of Indiana, ex-Governor Samuel R. Franch of Missouri, and others.

In 1904 the Black Horse Troop was an attraction at the St. Louis Exposition, and in 1911 it appeared at the Indiana State Fair. Last June thirty-six picked riders and horses from the troop performed various daring feats of horsemanship in the exclusive Sod Sorey County Club horse show at Chicago, and again in August the entire cavalry was on the program for three days at the Chicago Pageant of Progress. In 1913 President Wilson, then the Democratic candidate for President, was escorted by the troop on his visit to Plymouth, Ind.
