

RALSTON TALKS ON CITY NEEDS BEFORE WOMEN

Candidate Points to Perils
Confronting Young in
'Open' Town.

CAUTION OF FRED HOKE

An appeal to the mothers was made by Fred M. Ralston, Democratic candidate for mayor, in an address yesterday afternoon at the Harvey House, formerly the Gardner home, Thirty-Fourth and Meridian streets. The meeting was held in conjunction with a series of talks being given by the Democratic women during this week. Approximately 500 women attended. Other talks will be held as follows: This afternoon at the home of Mrs. Grace Julian Clarke, 115 South Asubon road; Wednesday afternoon, at the Women's Department Club, Meridian and Seventeenth streets, and Saturday afternoon at McClain's Hall, Hoyt and State streets.

Fred Hoke, Mrs. Martha Hoyt Marston, Democratic candidate for city clerk; Mrs. Maud Swift, Anthony, Democratic candidate for city council and Mrs. Grace Bodemiller, director of women's organization work for the Democrats, also made addresses. Mrs. Isaac Born, president of the Democratic women, emphasized the necessity of having a clean government in Indianapolis to protect the growing boys and girls, which he termed the "flowers of the home life."

VOTES NEEDED NOW, IF EVER

"If ever women's votes were needed they are needed now," he declared. "I was present at the ceremony a few days ago when Mr. Cadie dedicated the great tabernacle to the memory of his mother. But I say to you that if your boys are out bootlegging you will have that wonderful church for no purpose. I do not intend to sling mud or abuse my opponent—I have not done so at any time—but a few days ago one of the emissaries from these same bootleggers came to me and asked me if I knew which side my bread was buttered on. Nor, do I believe Mr. Shank is as ignorant as he tries to make people believe he is. I rather believe he tries to make people believe he talks in their language. When he said he would bring his policemen entirely within the city he made a little statement which was a passing remark to all the bootleggers there. 'If he brings it in, we will see to it after it gets in.'"

"I therefore mean that the women's vote is a great force in deciding whether Indianapolis shall be a city in which they want their children to grow up in—whether it is as near like a clean, pure home as is possible for a city to be. And I believe that the good people are with the Democrats this time because they know that we intend to make it like every mother's sentiment, which is to have it a kingdom on earth."

Mr. Ralston scored Mr. Shank's appeals to the laboring people as attempts on his part to turn labor against its employers and to prejudice the poor unjustly against the rich. He also stated that Mr. Shank's attitude toward race questions will cause a race war if he should be elected.

FOOLISH CHARGE GIVEN DENIAL

"I have been quoted as having said that I would best the negroes over the head and throw them over the bridge into the canal," he said. "I am here to assure you that I will do no such thing. I also promise you I will give free license to run wild neither to white nor black."

"Too many promises are being made," said Mr. Ralston, referring to Mr. Shank's campaign pledges, "which can't be stood by, and the makers know they can't be lived up to while making them. I believe the clean people of Indianapolis are going to stand by us wholeheartedly to help us make this a fine progressive city in which every father and mother will be glad to have their children grow up in."

Mr. Hoke pointed out that while he had every reason to like Mr. Shank and considered him a "good fellow," there were a thousand other men in the city whom he liked equally as well, but who do not possess the capacity "any more than the candidate of the Republicans who aspires to do so."

"In fact," said Mr. Hoke, "I believe there are at least fifty women present who are better fitted in many respects to render intelligent and conscientious service to their city than Mr. Shank."

"The Republicans are making a great talk about Mr. Shank being a good home man. I say that the man who has a wife to help him steer and then can't be a good home man shouldn't be elected to anything—much less mayor of a great city like ours."

WOMEN URGED TO VOTE RIGHT

The women were urged by Mr. Hoke to vote according to their "conscience" and not to be influenced by their husbands and brothers. "Sometimes though it seems to be the other way," he said. "Lots of women were enfranchised long before they ever had the ballot. This is an opportunity for women to show they are in favor of good government, the plea upon which they gained the ballot. I appeal to them as makers of homes. I am not saying a word for the Democrats; nor am I saying a word against the Republicans. This is a time to lay aside political thoughts and vote for what is intrinsically right."

"I have a little girl six years old who has a great deal of trouble with croup. I used Foley's Honey and Tar, giving it to her according to directions, and obtained instant relief for her. HOOSIER GREATEST HERO OF WORLD WAR

Samuel Woodfill, Bellevue, Ind., Named by General Pershing

He Will Place Wreath on Grave of Unknown as U. S. Army Man.

By ROBERT BARRY.

Special to Indiana Daily Times and Philadelphia Public Ledger.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—We have with us tonight America's "Greatest hero in the World War." He comes by the title somewhat tardily, considering that the fighting ceased three years ago this month, but he gets it formally and officially from the War Department.

He is not the scrappy second elder from the backwoods of Tennessee, Sergt. Alvin York, who gave battle to and captured 132 Germans after his patrol was surrounded and outnumbered ten to one. Nor, even the gallant commander of the famous Lost Battalion—Major Charles S. Whittlesey—who told the Germans to "go to hell" when his battalion was cut off in the Argonne and held out against amazing odds until help arrived.

He is a tall, sandy-haired "reg'lar" soldier on Armistice day. He is a Welch father and a German mother, and born in Bellevue, Ind. He was in Washington today, because he had been chosen by Gen. John J. Pershing, America's greatest hero, after the general of the armies had reviewed all the outstanding feats of the war, to find the infantry's body bearer for America's "unknown dead" soldier on Armistice day.

Although on his breast he wore the Congressional Medal of Honor; the legion of honor; the Croix de Guerre with palm, and the insignia of the Order of Brice, the name of Woodfill occasioned no excitement around the State War Navy Building. Not even a photographer or a movie man pestered him. Newspaper reporters had to push him from the War Department Press Bureau. And the department itself knew so little of him, it had to begin tonight an inquiry into the manner in which he gave up the captaincy that went to him for his bravery. He was a lieutenant during the war. Now he is just a sergeant, at Fort Thomas, Kentucky.

What did Woodfill do in the war, to rank above Sergeant York and Major Whittlesey in the estimation of General Pershing?

Here is all he did.

He is his citation for the medal of honor.

"For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy at Cunel, France, Oct. 12, 1918. While he was leading his company against the enemy his line came under heavy machine gun fire which threatened to hold up the advance."

WORKS HIS WAY AROUND WEST.

"Followed by two soldiers at twenty-five yards, this officer went out ahead of his first line toward a machine gun nest and worked his way around its flank, leaving two soldiers in front."

"When he got within ten yards of the gun it ceased firing and four of the enemy appeared, three of whom were shot by Lieutenant Woodfill. The fourth, an officer, rushed at Lieutenant Woodfill, who attempted to club the officer with his pistol. His company thereupon continued to advance until shortly afterward another machine gun nest was encountered."

"Calling on his men to follow, Lieutenant Woodfill rushed ahead of his line in the face of heavy fire from the nest, and when several of the company appeared above the nest he shot them, capturing three other members of the crew and silencing the gun."

"A few minutes later this officer for the third time demonstrated conspicuous daring by charging another machine gun position, killing five men in one machine gun pit with his rifle. He then drew his revolver and started to jump the pit when two other gunners only a few yards away turned their gun on him. Failing to kill them with his rifle, he grabbed a pick lying nearby and killed both of them. Inspired by the exceptional courage displayed by this officer, his men pressed on to their objective under severe shell and machine gun fire."

Sergeant Woodfill enlisted in the 11th Infantry in March, 1901, and has been re-enlisting in the Army right along. He was at something of a loss today to understand the sudden interest of the American press in his deeds of valor and the story of his life. He was embarrassed. The fire of questions made him very much ill at ease. He seemed to want to sink back into the general staff offices. German machine guns never pleased him, but the American reporters had him ready to quit. He could say nothing better to disarms his interviewers than his calm and wholly unassuming:

"My only regret is that I couldn't have done more."

The lucky Hoosier now is due for a round of official honors.—Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger Company.

Dukedom, Tenn.—"I was in a weak, nervous, run-down condition, and always tired so I could hardly drag around. A friend told me what Vinol had done for her when in this condition. I tried it and it is simply remarkable how rapidly it has built up my strength."—Mrs. H. H. Goodwin, Dukedom, Tenn.

If such women could only realize the change that Vinol will make in their appearance, by restoring strength and health, they would not rest until they had started its use.

For all run-down, nervous, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like VINOL. Your druggist will return your money if Vinol fails to benefit you, and it is only $1.00 per bottle.

Illinois Central System's Territory Leads the Nation in Production

The Illinois Central System, extending from the Great Lakes and the upper Missouri River valley along the Mississippi River to the Gulf of Mexico, serves the most productive district in the world. This wonderfully fertile territory, drained by the nation's three greatest water systems—the Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio rivers—furnishes the raw material to feed, clothe, shelter and warm many millions of the world's population.

The fourteen states which are directly served by the Illinois Central System's 6,233 miles of railway lines are:

Alabama
Arkansas
Illinois
Indiana
Iowa

Kentucky
Louisiana
Minnesota
Mississippi
Missouri

Nebraska
South Dakota
Tennessee
Wisconsin

These fourteen states are less than 30 per cent of the number in the Union. Their territory of 797,793 square miles is only 26.3 per cent of the total area of the United States. But how much greater are the percentages which show their leadership in the substantial things of the world!

Forty-five per cent of all the farms in the United States are located in these fourteen states, and in 1920 they produced crops valued at 39.2 per cent of the total valuation of all the farm crops of the country. The farms in these fourteen states are equipped with farm buildings valued at 46 per cent of the valuation of all the farm buildings of the country, and with farm machinery valued at 46.3 per cent of the nation's total.

In practically every farm crop these fourteen states as a whole take a pre-eminent leadership, despite the great variety of climate and soils encountered between South Dakota and Louisiana. In 1920 they produced 65.9 per cent of all the corn, 30.7 per cent of all the wheat, 62.4 per cent of all the oats, 45.3 per cent of all the barley, 49.1 per cent of all the rye, 30.9 per cent of all the white potatoes, 45.6 per cent of all the sweet potatoes, 39.8 per cent of all the tame hay, 61.3 per cent of all the wild hay, 27 per cent of all the cotton, 63.7 per cent of all the rice and 42.5 per cent of all the tobacco produced in the United States.

The Illinois Central System's territory also is a leader in livestock production. The fourteen states on January 1, 1921, contained 46.8 per cent of all the horses, 49 per cent of all the mules, 43.1 per cent of all the cattle, 19.3 per cent of all the sheep and 62.2 per cent of all the swine on the farms of the United States. The aggregate value of the livestock in the fourteen states was 41.4 per cent of the aggregate value of the livestock on all the farms in the country.

In addition to farm leadership, the fourteen states served by the Illinois Central System produced 37.5 per cent of all the lumber and 34.5 per cent of all the bituminous coal produced in the country during 1920.

The Illinois Central System is proud of the magnificent territory which it directly serves with transportation. Transportation is the factor which gives real value to the excellent production of these states. We are constantly endeavoring to contribute our part toward making this territory of even greater productive value, especially by rendering a service of satisfaction to our patrons. We are eager to be of service because that is the end for which the Illinois Central System exists.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central System.

State to Keep an Eye on East Chicago Election

State and Federal agents will be in East Chicago, Lake County, during the city election there Nov. 8. Mrs. Edward Franklin White, deputy attorney general for Indiana, said today.

Reports have reached her, Mrs. White said, that the lawless element will try to usurp the city government in the election in an effort to run a "wide open" town.

"The situation there is the worst of any city in the United States from the viewpoint of the prohibition enforcement officers and the desirable element," Mrs. White said. "The election holds the most dangerous possibilities of any city election in Indiana."

"The East Chicago situation is worse than that in Terre Haute during the Donnan Roberts regime. The people are called upon to choose between vice and decency."

"One ticket advocates the 'wide open' town and proposes to seize the election by any means at its disposal."

"The question at issue is whether illicit booze and crooked politics shall prevail."

Women of Middle Age

THE critical stage of a woman's life usually comes between the years of 45 and 55, and is often beset with annoying symptoms such as nervousness irritability, melancholia, heat flashes which produce headache and dizziness, and a sense of suffocation. Guard your health carefully, for if this period be passed over safely, many years of perfect health may be enjoyed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted to help women through this crisis. It exercises a restorative influence, tones and strengthens the system, and assists nature in the long weeks and months covering this period. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics. Its value is proven by many such letters as these:

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During Change of Life I was in bed for 18 months and had good care, but did not improve. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and in a short time I felt better. That was five years ago, and now when I feel run down and nervous I take the Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during Change of Life, for I know it will do them good."—Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tenn.

Thomas, Okla.—"I first used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my girlhood days, by the advice of a friend. At the age of 47 I was troubled with dizziness, hot flashes, and became very weak so that I was unable to do any work. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with the result that I felt better and stronger than I have for years. I have also given it to my three daughters, and always with good results. The Vegetable Compound is certainly grand for the ills of women."—Mrs. J. G. SWARTY, Route B, Thomas, Okla.
