

HOME LIFE IS REFLECTED IN OFFICE WORK

Family Troubles Cause Men and Women to Fail in Chosen Tasks.

U. S. COLLECTOR'S VIEWS

OUT-HAYSING HAYS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—Here are the four guiding axioms of William B. Hamilton, Collector of Customs, in "humanizing" his branch of Government service.

1. A married man or a married woman must be happy while they are at work or they will not do their work well.

2. A married man cannot reach full efficiency in his work if he comes to the office after a fight with his wife.

3. A married woman—a woman being more temperamental than man—must not quarrel with her husband at breakfast.

4. It is not alone a humanitarian duty, it is a service to the Government, if by patching up troubles at home I can make the 400 married folks in the United States Customs Service all happy. They will work more efficiently.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—Postmaster General Will Hays has a firm in his work of "humanizing" a great governmental department.

And his rival, William B. Hamilton, Collector of Customs, a branch of the Treasury Department, goes a step farther than even the intrepid Hays.

It contemplates patching up trouble between hubby and wife.

Here is Collector Hamilton's rule of procedure:

"If a married man or married woman is not doing efficient work, look for trouble at home. Then lend a hand and help patch up the trouble. The result will be an increase of both happiness and efficiency."

OFFICIAL MAKES NEW RULE FOR EMPLOYEES.

Hamilton announced his new rule to the 400 married men and women in the Customs Service following an hour's conference in his private office with a married man of his staff, the man's wife, a doctor and a minister of the gospel.

Following the interview the married man went whistling happily back to his work, his wife went smiling home—and Hamilton stated that he believes the United States will profit by what he did.

Accounting for the doctor, Hamilton said he had him on hand to observe pathological symptoms. The minister of the gospel he invited in as a peacemaker.

Following the new conference Hamilton refused to make public any name of those present. "It would be cruel," he insisted. "Besides, it would undo all the good I have done," he declared.

But that he has faith in his new theory Hamilton later made clear when he assembled all of his big staff and told them what he intends to do every time he observes a married man or a married woman doing inefficient work. He said:

"You've all got it in you to do good work. Your records show that. But you can't do good work if you're 'blue' and if after dinner at home, you come into the office with the idea that the whole world is against you."

MAKES OFFER OF MEDIATION.

"Maybe you sometimes at home are such as you cannot settle without outside help. If they are, come to me. I will not feel I am interfering with your private affairs, but by helping you I will be helping the Government."

"Uncle Sam will get more results from a happy man than from an unhappy one. A married man cannot reach full efficiency in his work if he comes to the office fresh from a fight with his wife, and a married woman—woman being more temperamental than men—can't do good all day long if she quarreled with her husband at breakfast."

In his address Hamilton paid a glowing tribute to his own wife, to whom, he declares, he owes as much as to himself for what he has accomplished during his many years of happy married life.

'Night Rider' Squad Gets 3 'Wanted' Ones

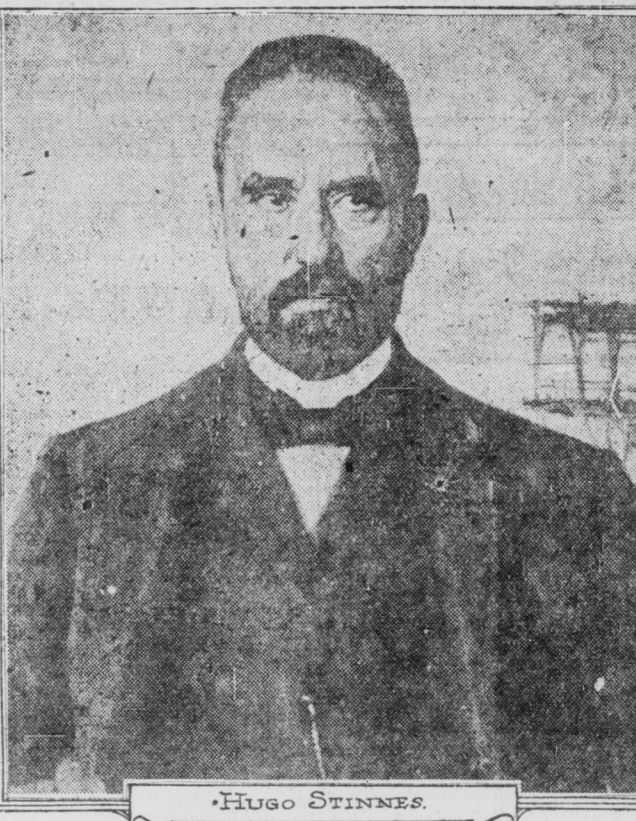

Visible results of the first night's work of the "night rider" squad instituted by Mayor Samuel Lewis Shank was shown in last night's pick-up. One confessed murderer and two robbers were caught during the night. At the daily inspection of prisoners, detectives picked from them William Humphrey, negro, alias Willie Ed, who admits he is wanted in Louisville for the murder of a "man named Healey."

Two other negroes, Russell Dunlop, alias Owens, and James Stutson, alias William Crockett, confessed to detectives that the Louisville police are seeking them on a charge of robbery. They will be held pending word from the Kentucky authorities.

Thirteen Real Jinx for Old Schooner

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 4.—The number "13" may be a lucky one, and Friday may be the best day, in the week on which to start a journey, but the record of the old-time schooner Sallor Boy, now dismantled and about to be scrapped in Honolulu harbor, would indicate otherwise.

The Sallor Boy, built in Oregon in 1883, was at one time one of the fastest sailing vessels on the Pacific. That was before the "13" and "Friday" jinxes got in this dirty work.

On Friday, Dec. 13, 1910, the Sallor Boy cleared from San Francisco for the South Seas. Seven days later her clock went wrong and struck thirteen times. An hour later heavy seas crashed over her, dismantling sails and rigging and necessitating putting back into San Francisco. On Friday, Jan. 13, 1911, the ship, her rigging repaired, set sail once more.

She arrived at Fanning Island on a Friday, and that night the clock went wrong again and struck the fatal thirteen. The cook deserted forthwith. After beating about between Fanning, Ocean Island and Tarawa, frequently weighing anchor on a Friday and as frequently encountering some mishap, the schooner was becalmed near Fanning, where a current drove her onto the reef. Here she lay for thirteen days before she could be floated.

Two years later the Sallor Boy, her masts washed away and her hold full of water, was towed into Honolulu harbor from where she was destined to be her last voyage. The date was Sept. 13, 1913.

Device Measures Voltage of Love

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—One of the innumerable uses to which the "telegraphone," an invention announced by the Sociological Development Company, may be placed is that of preventing unhappy marriages.

The inventor himself, name not disclosed, believes that if it can be adjusted over the heart of the girl, her doubts and swains will be able to tell whether she is telling the truth or not. He has not invented a way of making the girl put this lie detector on.

The "telegraphone" records the breathing and heart beats. It magnifies irregularities caused by emotions and is regarded by criminologists as a sure method of catching lying witnesses. The inventor merely uses an example of what science could do if permitted.

"When John grows doubtful of the reality of Joan's love for him," he says, in his dry, academic way, "he can satisfy himself by having her heart flutters measured."

If the girl puts up a struggle at a suggestion that she wear this harness during an evening of courtship John may be sure that he is going to get several hours of lies. In that case there is nothing to do but doubt everything she says. Thus will unhappy marriages be prevented.

Bill Asks Recall of Allied Troops

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Representative Britten, Republican, Illinois, today introduced a resolution in the House requesting President Harding to suggest to the arms conference that all allied troops be withdrawn immediately from Germany.

Such action, Britten said, would result in the annual saving of $125,000,000 which Germany now pays to maintain these troops and would enable Germany to divert this sum to the payment of war reparations.

ASKS DAMAGES OF $20,000. Damages of $20,000 were asked today in a suit filed in Superior Court, Room 4, by Charles A. Walz against the Artistic Ice and Cold Storage Company.

Walz, who is an employee of Hugo Wiedling, Jr., who repairs elevators, claims he was seriously injured while working on an elevator for the cold storage company on Oct. 17, 1921.

ORDINANCES TO GET FUNDS.

Ordinances authorizing temporary loans of $500,000 for the city general fund and $175,000 for the health department will be acted upon at a special meeting of the city council tonight. It is thought the measures will be passed without opposition.

WORK OF THE IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS has been complicated by the new immigration law which provides that not more than a certain quota of immigrants from any one country shall be admitted within the year. Some thirteen countries and groups of countries, already have their quotas for the year exhausted—but still barred immigrants continue to come.

For the sake of humanity the standing of the immigrant ought to be determined before he leaves his own country," said Secretary Davis. "I sincerely hope that some system for action on the other side may be worked out and a law for putting it in effect placed upon the statute books at an early date."

BELIEVES HE IS ELIGIBLE

W. H. Freeman Replies to Residence Challenge.

Commenting on a story in circulation that he is ineligible to serve upon the board of public works because he has not been a resident and elector of Indianapolis one year prior to appointment, W. H. Freeman said today that he believes investigation will show his qualifications to be sufficient. He said he had resided in the city and worked for a few months this summer, after he had sold his home at 3825 Carrollton avenue, where he had lived many years, but that he moved to 5130 Park avenue long before the period necessary for him to be a resident in the city and precinct in order to vote in the municipal election No. 8. He said he never had taken his place of the board of park commissioners to his voting residence out of Indianapolis, had not voted elsewhere, and had not missed voting in Indianapolis.

PLAN BODY TO HOLD SESSION

Will Consider Sites for Filling Stations.

A special meeting of the city plan commission to act on applications for approval of plans of filling station locations will be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, Lawrence V. Sheridan, executive secretary, announced today.

The meeting will be the first for four new members. John L. Elliott, city civil engineer; Charles E. Coffin, president of the board of public works; Lloyd D. Claycombe, city commissioner; and a member of the board of park commissioners to be chosen at the meeting tomorrow, will be the new commissioners.

Draftsmen are making two of many maps which will be used when the investigation preliminary to zoning is started. One map shows, by various colors, the widths of streets and the other shows which use is made of every piece of property in the city. It will require at least three months to complete the second map.

G. O. P. Committee to Pay Off $1,600,000 Debt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The entire deficit of the last Republican campaign, totalling some $1,600,000 will be made up by the end of this month and the party can start into the new year unburdened by burdensome debts, it was stated here today by Fred Upham of Chicago, treasurer of the Republican National Committee.

About $900,000 already have been raised and the remaining $700,000 will be forthcoming before Jan. 28, Upham said.

Job Costs Life of Teacher and Child

ATHBOY, Ireland, Jan. 4.—When Bernard Riley, a farmer of Derryland, married Janet McCann and she continued to teach in the village school both were warned that this would result in trouble. Recently Mrs. Riley received an anonymous letter telling her that her home would be burned unless she resigned. She kept on teaching and two weeks later the house was set afire. Mrs. Riley and her baby were burned to death. No clue to the murderers has been found, but the police suspect a family of the village whose daughter would have been eligible for teacher had Mrs. Riley resigned.

Mrs. Stillman Seeks Witnesses in Canada

MONTREAL, Jan. 4.—Mrs. James A. Stillman, wife of the former president of the National City Bank of New York, who is being sued for divorce, was here today and expects to remain for the hearing of a motion for summary judgment in the case.

Mrs. Stillman arrived here from Quebec where she spent the holiday with her son, "Bud," and one of her attorneys.

"Bud" did not come to Montreal with his mother, remaining in the lower part of the province.

Bandits Bind Pair and Ransack Safe

DETROIT, Jan. 4.—Two armed men held up the office of Gaetano Viviani, commission merchant, this afternoon, rifled the safe and escaped with $4,800 in cash and $1,900 in checks, some of them negotiable.

The robbers bound Viviani and J. A. Pierce, his bookkeeper, to chairs while they went through the safe.

SERVANT GIRL PROBLEM HAS NEW SOLUTION

Domestic Science Schools Make Housekeepers, Not 'Hired Girls.'

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Hilda, the waitress; Gretchen, the housekeeper, and Sarah, the slumgullion, are about to discard the opprobrious appellation of "servant girl" for the more dignified and modern designation of "household assistants." By this simple process of changed titles a group of ultra-modern women here hope to eliminate the "servant problem," the question which has vexed man, and more particularly woman, ever since the cave-dwelling troglodyte began to realize that not even a mace or stone hammer could keep a meal on the job.

The bureau of household occupations has just opened a training school in practical domestic science for girls and women. Mrs. Richard Boardman, head of the bureau, a leader of the movement to uplift the servant girl, believes that at last she has the solution of the domestic problem, which, like the poor, we have always with us.

The bureau plans to put Tillie and Hilda and Sarah and Gretchen and all the other girls on eight-hour out basis, and all that sort of thing. The job of a servant will be elevated to the same plane as that of all other feminine occupations, such as stenographer, bookkeeper, etc.

"The time has come," explained Mrs. Boardman, "when, if housework is to be done systematically and well, and household assistants are to be always available, we have got to elevate the profession."

"You can hardly blame a girl for seeking some more congenial work, when housework calls for living at the home of your employer, giving her as much of your time as she may demand, whether it be day or night. Under our plan, if the assistant comes to work at 7 in the morning she is through at 4 in the afternoon, having had an hour for lunch. Our plan calls for different 'shifts' in the homes which at present employ more than one servant. The plan works to perfection, as I have tried it out in my own home for a number of years, using as many as four shifts sometimes, and at other times only having one shift. My home has run smoothly, the girls have been satisfied, and it has not cost me any more money than when the girls lived at my home and were on irregular hours."

"Our training school will make the girls intelligent houseworkers. They will have a uniform which we hope to dignify to the extent of the trained nurse's uniform of today. The girls will be taught cooking, serving, the care of the household, ironing, mending, cleaning, light laundry work and everything necessary to keep a home in smooth running order. They will be taught to do their work systematically and neatly, and they will not be graduated from the school until they have completed the course."

"Meantime, it will be necessary to educate their employers, who are clinging to the old order of things more through prejudice than anything else. This new system does not change the order of running a house one bit. But it will prevent such things as a girl who was hired for one definite thing refusing to do something else in an emergency. We will teach our girls to do everything."

"Then you are having demonstrations to show employers how the scheme works. We will take the employer and give her a list, schedule and chart showing the minimum amount of utensils which are necessary to run a home. The girls themselves will work by schedule, their chart hanging on the wall all the time, so that they can order their work properly."

"Our school consists of two private homes, run on the scientific plan, under the supervision of a college graduate. About seven girls will be taken into each home at a time. Their training will be intensive. The bureau feels that it owes it to the households if they are going to take up the system that the assistants should be trained."

The plan certainly looks feasible, and the reporter decided to get the opinion of one of the servants. A formidable-looking young lady, rosy cheeked and fair haired, looked like a good prospect.

"How do you think the plan will work?" she was asked.

"Ach, ich weiss nicht!" she stared, well-eyed, for a moment and replied: "Ach, ich weiss nicht!"

And she was more than half right, at that.
