He is survived by his widow and five sons, Austin, Ellsworth, Robert, Oscar, Jr., and Eugene Davidson.

Suits to Protect Use of Term 'Realtor'

Prosecution of persons who employ the term "realtor" illegally was hinted at by W. L. Cottrill, president of the Indianapolis Real Estate Board, at the first meeting of the new board of directors yesterday. Mr. Cottrill also made a strong protest against the indiscriminate use of the term.

The term, the speaker insisted, is the exclusive property of members of local real estate boards affiliated with the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and he quoted a recent decision of a Minnesota court to support the statement.

Closer cooperation between the Indianapolis Real Estate Board and affiliated boards of cities throughout the State was discussed by the speakers. The annual luncheon of the local board probably will be held Jan. 13 at the Hotel Lincoln.

LOCAL HUMANE SOCIETY MEETS FOR BUSINESS

Resignation of W. H. Roberts Accepted and Six New Directors Elected.

MEET AGAIN NEXT WEEK

Ninety citizens of Indianapolis who had previously tendered their yearly dues to the treasurer, in accordance with the provisions of the printed by-laws for membership, took control of the annual meeting of the Indianapolis Humane Society at the Chamber of Commerce last night, accepted the resignation of W. H. Roberts as president and elected six new directors.

The session was a stormy one that lasted approximately two hours. The first friction occurred when Mr. Roberts ruled that the nominations for directors could only be made by a committee of directors appointed for that purpose. Dr. C. W. Conger moved the nomination of six others who had not been nominated by the committee and when ruled out of order appealed from the chair. Mr. Roberts refused to allow the appeal to be placed before those present, contending that the by-laws had been amended so as to require that the board of directors pass on all applications for memberships and the ninety present had not been accepted by the board of directors. Mr. Roberts then attempted to adjourn the meeting until it could be "written up."

He was challenged to produce the amendment to the by-laws and frankly stated that he did not have the amendment and did not recollect when it was passed. The secretary declared that there never had been such an amendment and Mr. Roberts attempted to adjourn the meeting until it could be "written up."

The meeting voted down a motion to adjourn and Mr. Roberts left the room announcing that at that point the chair of the society retired from the meeting and the board.

SELECT TEMPORARY HEAD.

A temporary chairman was elected by the meeting and those present proceeded to ballot for six directors out of the twelve that were nominated. The six who were nominated by the committee consisted of James Van Atta, Dr. C. A. Paffin, Rev. F. S. C. Ficks, Dr. George W. Butler, Dr. C. F. Stout and W. R. Hurst.

The six nominated from the floor by Dr. C. W. Conger were Thomas G. McGee, Walter Myers, Mrs. W. R. Mayo, Thos. Barrett, R. A. Butler and Harry E. Negley.

The latter six were elected by a vote of 90 to 1.

Following this election Mr. Negley was elected president pro tem. In the absence of Frank Shillhouse, the society's vice president and with Mr. Negley in the chair the meeting proceeded with the regular business of the society. Mr. Roberts and several of the old members of the board of directors having withdrawn from the meeting.

The new directors and the hold-over directors will meet next week for the purpose of electing the new officers of the society for the year 1922.

The affair which placed the control of the society in the hands of the "anti-administration" crowd, marked the culmination of a long fight in which it has been charged that there was one faction trying to disrupt the society and another seeking to make a "closed corporation" of it. The divided society was a victory for the "anti-administration" crowd and there was some talk of contesting the legality of the action at the meeting last night.

Mr. Roberts, whose term would have expired with the selection of his successor by the board of directors, said today that he had no statement to make on the subject. He had previously announced his determination to retire from active participation in the affairs of the society with the end of his term as president.

WILL PRESERVE LANDMARKS OF PIONEER DAYS

Interesting Ruins of Stone Fireplace Found in Parke County.

In a constant search into our State's past, the Indiana Department of Conservation engaged in "underwriting the future prosperity and happiness of Hoosiers by pointing the way to more judicious use of natural resources—this department frequently brings to light interesting subjects such as historic ruins, stories of which generally are known to but few in the immediate vicinity and lost to the citizenship at large.

Prominent among such discoveries of recent days says Richard Lieber, director of the conservation department, are the ruins of a stone fireplace and chimney that in years long past warmed the spacious log home of Hugh Russell, pioneer Indian.

These ruins show the huge fireplace and a few decaying logs, and are interesting to the present generation as even to many older citizens more from the fact they show a double fireplace, unusual even in the days of log architecture in Indiana. The remains are in Parke County at the intersection of Liberty and Sugar Townships, on land owned by the Hugh Russell descendants.

In a letter to Mr. Lieber explaining the idea of the double fireplace, Mrs. Lulu D. Russell of Liberty, wife of John W. Russell, a grandson of the pioneer, says: "Great Grandfather Hugh Russell was mindful of the comfort and care of the two daughters of the house—hence he provided heating arrangements for their bedroom and here the girls spun and carded the wool for the household use."

Remains of the fireplace and chimney show that there was an opening greatly similar to the modern grate of today, into a bedroom on the second floor. The double arrangement on the first floor of the log house permitted the fireplace to simultaneously heat two big rooms.

Hugh Russell is remembered as one of the pioneers of Parke County and founders of the Oak Ridge Chapel, a United Brethren church situated a short distance from the site of his former home. The Russell plan to give the old chimney building, constructed of logs and in good state of preservation, to the conservation commission, for removal to Turkey Run State Park, a few miles distant, where it will be reassembled and preserved to illustrate the type of early houses of worship in this State.

THE "MOTHER OF MEDICINE"

Isis, the Queen and afterwards the Goddess, was called the "Mother of Medicine." In ancient Egypt, centuries before Christ, women were skilled in medicine. They knew the great value of medicinal plants.

Hippocrates, the "Father of Medicine," who centuries later, knew less of the merit of vegetable drugs than did the women of ancient times.

Lydla E. Pinkham, nearly fifty years ago, gave to women her Vegetable Compound, now known everywhere as Lydla E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This is a woman's medicine for women's ailments, prepared from medicinal plants.

CONFIDENCE IN COMMISSION TO PROTECT CITY

Reynolds Sends Letter to McCordle in Matter of Telephone Petition.

An expression of confidence that the public service commission would watch the interests of Indianapolis in disposing of the petition of the Indiana Bell Telephone Company for temporary emergency rates was made to J. W. McCordle, chairman of the public service commission, by John B. Reynolds, general secretary of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce in a letter sent following the meeting of the public service committee of the chamber late yesterday.

"Please accept my renewed appreciation for the Chamber of Commerce of the splendid attitude of the public service commission to this representative organization. It is heartily necessary for me to tell you that we feel very keenly the responsibility which rests on the Chamber of Commerce in regard to matters relating to the public interest, many of these being in connection with public utility cases before the commission, of which you are chairman."

"At a meeting of the public service committee of the Chamber of Commerce today, petition for temporary emergency rates, number No. 6119, filed by the Indiana Bell Telephone Company, was the subject of very serious discussion. As the fact in the public service petition from this same utility, the committee felt that the Chamber of Commerce is not in a position to express an opinion because of its lack of technical knowledge of the subject. It respectfully calls attention to the resolution recommended to the board of directors by the committee and adopted by the chamber on January 2, 1921, which resolution sets out in considerable detail the attitude of this organization, its faith in the public service commission, and any conclusions which it may reach; and for information a copy of this resolution is attached hereto."

"It is felt inadvisable for the Chamber of Commerce to be represented by counsel before the commission at hearings. That all relevant facts will be brought out by the corporation counsel and his staff is a matter of no doubt. The Chamber of Commerce is not only willing but anxious to give the commission the benefit of its conclusions, based on evidence adduced during the hearings, and if a transcript of the hearings is made available to this organization we will be able to prepare and present to you our conclusions and recommendations at an early date after the receipt of the transcript."

Half Hour Added Police Protection

At 3 o'clock roll call of police yesterday afternoon, Inspector of Police Capt. Cletus Weaver announced to the men that the practice of returning after finishing their day's work would be abolished. Captain Weaver said that the system would give the citizens of the city at least an extra half hour of protection. Under the present regime, the men leave their beats at 10:30 o'clock to report to headquarters, thus leaving every district open from the time they go to headquarters and the men who relieve them come back to go on duty. The announcement was enthusiastically received by the men as this will allow them also extra time at their homes.
