CLOTURE RULE CAUSES DELAY IN CONGRESS

Senators Say No Laws Can Be Passed When Members
Talk for Weeks.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Senate leaders have begun a movement to break through one of the oldest traditions of that august body—the right to talk "until the cows come home." The rule governing cloture will be amended, it is possible, to end the filibustering which has blocked legislation so effectively in the past. The judiciary committee of the Senate has approved an amendment to the rules limiting debate on any question whenever a majority of the Senate desires such limitation.

This effort to abridge the sovereign prerogative of the legislators in the Upper House of Congress is certain to meet with very determined opposition from members of both the Democratic and Republican parties. The minority groups will oppose this radical innovation in a vigorous manner.

MOVEMENT TO END FILIBUSTERING.
The movement to limit debate arose as a result of the complaint of majority leaders in the Senate that they could not get laws passed owing to lengthy speeches of members opposing the measures. The Senate is far behind the House in the matter of actual accomplishment as a result of the rule under which one Senator can relieve another at speaking, thus dragging out a filibuster for several weeks.

Just now dozens of bills passed by the House are held up in the Senate because Senators can't find time to wear out that body in discussion upon them. Some of the Administration's pet bills are included in this number.

Under the present rules it takes a two-thirds majority to declare a cloture whereby debate is limited and a vote on the question forced. Cloture, however, seldom is applied, for the minority party rarely will agree to it.

The proposed cloture rule would permit a majority vote to apply the cloture on a new rule requires a two-thirds majority of twenty-four Senators. To date, no new rule requires a two-thirds majority, and therein Republican leaders have a great obstacle.

DEMOCRATS OPPOSE CLOTURE RULE.

The Democratic party, ever since the memorable filibuster of John Sharp Williams in the House many years ago prevented the South from losing what it considered the sovereign right of self-government under a proposed amendment, has been irrevocably opposed to the cloture.

Added to this opposition is that of a few Republican Senators like Borah, La Follette, Norris and one or two others, who frequently have occasion to take the floor against the entire Senate in the interests of the country.

Nevertheless, the Republican leaders are determined to end the present system, whereby one or two free-lance Senators can hold up the entire Senate.

SEA RATE WAR IS THREATENED BY INNOVATION

Cunard Line Announces Plans for Fleet to Use Oil Fuel.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—A vast scheme for improved ocean travel between America and England is outlined by the Cunard Steamship Company, on such a scale as to indicate an impending rate war that will make business and sight-seeing trips abroad markedly cheaper next year.

Oil is the keynote of the new shipping campaign. It means cheaper transportation traffic. A fleet of pre-war proportions, all oil burners, with but one funnel.

"This enables more accommodations to be devoted to passengers because of the incorporation in the design of the latest developments in marine engineering," the Cunard announcement said.

The company adds the striking, prophetic announcement:
SHIPS MAY HAVE NO FUNNELS.

"It may be only a brief step from one funnel to no funnel at all."

New traffic plans are announced as follows:
Express service, Southampton, Cherbourg, New York weekly, 20,000 tons; Mauretania, 31,000 tons, the world's fastest liner, and Aquitania, 40,000 tons.

Direct service between Britain and Canada to be resumed. Liverpool, Tyne, 17,000 tons, carrying first, second and third-class passengers; Ansonia, 15,000 tons, carrying first and second-class passengers only; Alabama, 13,000 tons, carrying cabin passengers only; Southampton, Cherbourg, Canadian service; Andania and Ansonia, both 15,000 tons and carrying first and third-class passengers.

OLD LINE WILL BE REOPENED.

The Liverpool, Queenstown and Boston route is to be reopened by the Scotia, of 20,000 tons, carrying three classes of passengers. The Scotia, of the same tonnage, both being sister ships of the Scotia, which is now in service will be added to the Liverpool, Queenstown and New York service between Liverpool and New York.

Cunard's continental service will be increased by the addition of the Caronia, of 20,000 tons, to the Hamburg-New York service.

Cross-Atlantic rates have quadrupled in four years. The down grade has now been reached. It is even possible that pre-war prices will be quoted if the shipping was eventuated on the scale that appears to be indicated.

PLOT TO DESTROY PACKING PLANT

Ten Men Jailed for Alleged Conspiracy.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 7.—An alleged plot to dynamite the Morris & Co. packing plant here was being investigated by police today. Ten men, captured in a raid by a riot squad, were being held in jail.

Andrew Oreska and Tony Wasieleski, both of Chicago, were the ringleaders of the band, Chief of Police Zimmer declared, and were brought here to take charge of operations. Plans had been made to dynamite the plant Monday night, the chief stated.

Search of the quarters occupied by the men revealed an alarm clock and timing mechanism in a trunk.

CIVIL SERVICE WOMAN WINS CAUSE FOR SEX

No More Discrimination Against Wives in Postoffice.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Elimination of discrimination against married women in the Postoffice Department, which has just been announced by Postmaster General Will H. Hays, is the direct result of efforts made by Mrs. Helen Hamilton Gardner, the only woman who has ever held office as civil service commissioner. Mrs. Gardner asked Hays for a square deal for her sex—and she got it. The Postmaster General decided a woman employee of the department does not change her status or lose any rights in the postal service because of marriage.

Before Hays handed down this decision, when an unmarried woman married she had to obtain a new appointment, execute a new bond, or pass the required civil service examination in competition with other candidates seeking the office. Under the new ruling the woman postmaster will continue to hold the office without a reappointment or another examination.

SETTLES NATION-WIDE CONTROVERSY.

Similar controversies have arisen all over the country where women are employed in the public service, particularly as school teachers. In the latter case it frequently has been held that women who marry forfeit their positions as teachers. The ruling of Postmaster General Hays will set a precedent in the Federal service and will no doubt have an important effect in establishing for women the full rights of citizenship intended to be conferred by the Nineteenth amendment to the Constitution.

In a letter to the postoffice department referring to the old order discriminating against women who marry as an "archaic situation," Mrs. Gardner continued: "I desire it exceedingly important, both in the interest of the service and in the interest of the development of women, not to mention the interest of the postoffice department, to work out some ruling which will correct the obviously unjust condition."

Mrs. Gardner's statement of the case won instant approval of the solicitor of the postoffice department and the old order was speedily revoked by Mr. Hays upon the recommendation of his legal adviser, who declared that he saw "no adequate legal reason why marriage of postmasters or of other women employees should be itself affect the tenure of office."

MRS. GARDNER'S STATEMENT.
Discussing this incident the other day, Mrs. Gardner said:

"Such an unjust discrimination as previously existed not only was archaic, but it served as deterrent to marriage. The entire problem of married women in the public service should be settled on the basis of efficiency. If the marital duties of a postmistress, for instance, occupied so much of her time as to render her inefficient as a public official, she should be removed; or if, on the other hand, the presence of a husband about the postoffice should be detrimental to the best interest of the patrons that would be ground for her removal. But to remove a postmistress solely upon the ground that she was married constituted an anachronism, now that women have begun to come into their rights under the Nineteenth Amendment."

A Virginian by birth and the widow of an army officer, Mrs. Gardner has been a worker in the cause of women for the past thirty-five years. She emphasizes, however, that she is not an adherent of the doctrine that women should divide in politics along lines of sex. Recognizing that the sexes have varying interests and aptitudes in political, social and economic life, Mrs. Gardner believes, now that women have the vote, they will naturally work for the interests nearest them, while at the one or the other of the existing political parties.

PLANES BANNED, GERMANS NOW USING GLIDERS

Machines With No Propelling
Power Do Some Marvellous Stunts.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Germany is forbidden to fly, so she is learning to glide. The ban on the installation of engines in aeroplanes, imposed by the peace terms, has produced a new type of locomotion.

It is the astonishing news brought home by Mr. Handley Page, who has been paying a visit to Garsfield on the Bavarian border.

"German aeroplane constructors have turned their attention to the development of aircraft with no engine propelling power," said Mr. Handley Page, "and they are producing substantial results. The gliders are of various types. One called the Munich has made the longest flight of five miles. It has no engine, propeller, under-carriage, wheels, ailerons or elevators. It possesses simply the fuselage and movable wings, operated by the pilot."

"Another machine, called the Hanover, has given the best performance in turning in the air and is peculiar in that it lands on two footballs and has pneumatic shock absorbers attached to the wings. The Aschen type lands on skids instead of wheels. Shock absorbers are fitted, but the landing speed of the glider can be reduced to little more than a fast walk, and wheels become unnecessary."

"The method of launching machines for a flight is very interesting. The machine is placed on a specially selected piece of sloping ground. A rubber cord is attached to a rope, which is passed round the chassis legs. Three men strain the rubber cord, which, when it reaches the necessary tension, is released, and the machine is shot away as from a catapult."

NEW YORK AUTO DISPLAY OPENS

Exhibit Includes Nearly 100
Varieties of Handsome Naptha Buggies.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The twenty-second annual National Automobile Show opens today in the Grand Central Palace with more than four hundred cars and chassis, representing ninety-two American and foreign makes on exhibition.

The scene at the Palace presented a gorgeous spectacle with the white marble walls and classic columns decorated in purple and gold. Glittering automobiles, grouped on four floors of the building, comprised the finest display ever presented. Accessory displays, limited only because of space requirements, included 220 motor cycles.

The new cars are: H. C. S. Goodspeed, Durant, Handley-Knight, Leach-Biltwell, Ambassador, Vauxhall, Bourneville, Earl, Wills-Sainte, Claire, Kaskley, Italia and Rickenbacker.

The last named is a new model presented by Eddie Rickenbacker, ace of American aces in the World War. The engine has two flywheels. Of the newcomers, two, the Italian Italia and the Canadian Vauxhall, are foreigners.

Car values at the show this year, gives the purchaser more for his money than ever before dealers said.

Improvements in bodies revealed at the show indicated that the refinements for 1922 are chiefly comfort refinements. Better and neater fittings, more leg room, better paint and enamel and a form of construction to prevent side-sway were noticeable.

LEAGUE WILL SOLVE WORLD'S BIG PROBLEMS

Opinion of British Leader on Washington Arms Conference.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—That the Washington conference is a beginning, but a beginning which leaves many problems, the most notable of which is China, still to be solved, is the belief of Viscount Grey, former minister of foreign affairs and ambassador to Washington.

This statesman, who, more than any other, was responsible for Britain's entry into the war in aid of Belgium and France, gives full praise to the work at Washington, yet believes that greater world problems than have been touched there can only be solved through or with the help of the League of Nations.

It is within the range of possibility that the results of the Washington deliberations may be administered, on the British side, by Grey at some future time.

"The Washington conference is a beginning so good that it is bound to have further consequences," he declared. "The quadruple agreement between the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan is, in my opinion, a momentous and favorable departure."

"Although this agreement relates only to the island possessions of the Pacific it must have an effect in spirit which will go far beyond the agreement itself. REAL DIFFICULTY IN FAR EAST."

"The real difficulty in the Far East is not, however, the question of the islands, but of China, and that question has not been solved at Washington."

"Certain general principles have been agreed to, but the difficulty is in application of those principles to China. If China were a settled country, managing its own affairs satisfactorily, keeping its own house in order, the application of general principles would be easy enough."

"The Chinese are a great race and a proud race. They dislike the interference of the foreigner, but as long as they cannot put and keep their own house in order they will be dependent in one way and another upon foreign assistance, and their condition will be such as to invite foreign interference."

"While China remains in a state of chaos countries which have interests in China may inevitably be drawn into interference which may produce great difficulties among themselves besides being an injury to China."

"There is only one line of safety in this situation."
